

Schools Tighten Rules On Games Admission

Spectators who attend school athletic contests will have to pay the same gate charge, even after the first half ends, and they will not be allowed back in free once they leave the building, the Board of Education decided at its meeting last week.

The school board also agreed to require two law enforcement officers at all football and basketball games. The officers would be paid by the schools and would act under the direction of the principals.

School officials cited rowdiness and vulgar language at school games as reasons for the actions.

The board also asked attorneys to try to draw up an ordinance against vulgar language in the area around an athletic contest to be enforced by a fine. One problem lawyers foresaw in connection with such an ordinance would be defining vulgarity.

Additional lighting will also be installed in currently unlighted school yard and parking areas.

In the past, people have been admitted to basketball and football games free after the first half ends. As a result, crowds have frequently gathered outside fields or gymnasiums and at times have become loud and violent, officials reported.

The actions were taken upon recommendations of a study committee composed of E.L. Boyette, board chairman; C.H. Yelverton, county superintendent; Sheriff Elwood Revelle; Deputy Sheriff Alfred Basden; the four high school principals, J.C. Atkinson of North Duplin, Neal Carlton of Wallace-Rose Hill, Charles Powers of East Duplin and W.J. Taylor of James Kenan; and Assistant County Superintendent Gary Sanderson.

In other business, the school board heard a report from Shelby Kilpatrick, food service director, on cuts in federal funding.

"Recent changes in federal regulations of child nutrition programs are affecting our feeding programs," Ms. Kilpatrick told the board. As a result, the cost of the reduced-price meals were increased from 10 cents to 20 cents starting last Monday.

The system's revenue has been cut by $4,600 per month because the federal reimbursement for lunches has been reduced by 2.5 cents a plate starting this month, she said. The full rate for a school lunch is 60 cents for elementary schools and 65 cents for junior and senior high school students.

Changes have been made in eligibility criteria for free and reduced cost meals; however specific guidelines and dates have not been received.

Ms. Kilpatrick said 59 percent of Duplin County students received free lunches. About 86 percent of the 8,600 students enrolled in the system eat in the cafeterias, she added. An average of 230 adults also eat in the cafeterias each day.

The board also accepted the low bid of $23,691 from Associated Insurance Co. of Wallace for insurance on its $23,131,000 worth of school buildings, furnishings and equipment. The policy includes a $500 deductible for damage due to vandalism. Under the new policy, each school cafeteria will be required to have a fire extinguishing system over the cooking area.

The board appointed Lonza Wallace to the B.F. Grady advisory board to replace Eddy Linsley.

Kenansville Water Bids Expected

The Kenansville town board expects to call for bids on the city water project in February and to start construction of the $750,000 project by April, according to Mayor Doug Judge.

The project is being financed by a town bond authorization of $175,000 and grants from the state clean water bond act and Farmers Home Administration loan and grant.

The board received the deed to two acres of land on N.C. #50 across the road from the new elementary school from town attorney W.E. Craft at its meeting last week. The site will be used for the new elevated water tank and well.

The town received permission to lay water pipes across county land in the city to Duplin General Hospital, which has only one water supply line to its system. The institution needs at least two water supply lines to maintain its insurance rating. The town plans to extend three supply lines to the hospital from its main lines to create a loop system. Officials say that when it is completed, water can be drawn simultaneously from three fire hydrants at the hospital without reducing pressure on any one of them.

An unattended public hearing opened the meeting Monday night. The hearing was on the question of rezoning the Carey Williams property. The front 200 feet of the lot were zoned for business. The back 400 feet were zoned residential. The board rezoned the 400 feet to business use after no one appeared to oppose the action.

Mary Ann Jenkins was appointed town tax collector to succeed Woody Brinson, who resigned when he accepted a position with a Farmville consulting engineering firm.

The town tobacco quota —

1,647 pounds — was cut in the general tobacco production quota reduction ordered by the secretary of agriculture in November. Last year the quota was 1,775 pounds. The town's tobacco quota is tied to a piece of land it purchased for an industrial development park.

YOU'VE GOT TO HAND IT TO HIM

A Chinese professor was delivering a lecture when all the lights in the auditorium went out. He asked everyone in the audience to raise their hands. As soon as they did this, the lights went on again. He told the audience: "This proves the wisdom of Old Chinese saying: 'Many hands make light work.'"
