BEAT THE PEAK.

During each day there are times when the most people want to use the most electricity. Heating, cooling, cooking, laundry. Everybody wants more electricity all at once.

It's called the Peak Load. And our future electric rates are affected by how high these peaks get.

But we can beat the peak, if we'd all use less electricity during peak periods. And more at other times.

It's not easy changing when we use electricity. But if we do, the peak wouldn't go up quite so fast. And neither would the cost of electricity.

10 A.M. TO 10 P.M. IS THE PEAK TO BEAT DURING THIS TIME OF YEAR
