legally blind citizens in North Carolina. This is just one of the services available through the local Lions Club and the N.C. Lions Association for the Blind. Lee is shown here on the right.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT - Mr. and Mrs. Alton H. Baysden of 746 Cavalier Circle, Kinston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Renee Baysden, to Mr. Randall Milton Johnson of Fayetteville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royce M. Johnson of Route 1, Delco. A May 30th wedding is planned at Kennedy Home Baptist Church in Kinston. The bride's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Effie Bostic Whaley of Beulaville, and the late Kirby Whaley.

Two weeks ago the school board agreed among themselves it was too much to pay $100 a day to inventory the schools' fixed assets, saying "There are unemployed folks — just recently laid off from their jobs in local industries — that are capable and would be more than willing to take the job for half that." Hooray, you may say. At last they are seeing there is an end to the buck. . . It is not inexhaustible. . . This money to pay for the inventory will come from local tax dollars. The inventory is needed, there is no doubt; however, I do agree with the school board $4,500 for three months' work, at only four days a week during that three months, is too high. Quite frankly, had it been me, I would have instructed those already under the employment of the school system to take the inventory. I see no need to hire an outside source. . . There is time in the workday of many in which this simple task could take place. Apparently it is like the story of the secretary-typist who said it is not my job to make coffee, so some feel it is not their job to inventory. . . It makes them feel less important.

conventions, be it boards or employees, these taxpayers are going to be smiling less and less as they pay and pay. As utility bills are going slam through the ceiling and we have no way of stopping them and must pay them to keep things going, seems these silly little conventions would be an easy thing to put a halt to. It's time someone stopped and took a serious look. . . The taxpayer can't continually be asked to foot the bill as it goes up and up and up and up. There are just going to have to be some cuts, and cuts, and cuts.

Guess what? The county commissioners did not go into executive session this week. County Manager Ralph Cottle stated, "The executive session is not too important and can wait until next meeting." Ain't that what I been saying all the time. It is not important. However, during the break, I did notice some of the commissioners back off kinda quietly into one of the rooms to discuss something. . . So, their executive (secret meeting) could have taken place anyway. . . That part that should never take place in the first place. . . Kenansville town board went into executive session Monday night. . . It was so executive, even the windows fogged up! . . .

Woodland Revival

The speaker for the revival planned at Woodland United Methodist Church March 7-11 is the Rev. P.D. Midgett III, pastor of Wallace United Methodist Church.

The time for each service will be 7:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend and participate, invites the Kenansville Parish pastor, Worth Pearce.

Democrats Precinct Meeting

Duplin County Democrats will hold their 1982 precinct meetings at their precinct polling places at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 11, Melvin Williams, party chairman, announced. Every registered voter is encouraged to attend.

"These precinct meetings represent grass-roots democracy in action. Democrats all over N.C. will be gathering to elect delegates to the county convention and to discuss and pass resolutions on issues that concern them," Williams said. "It is our goal to hold well-attended meetings in every precinct in the county and to continue to build on this strength at the county convention."
