Jacksonville Firm To Drill Wallace Well

East Coast Construction Co. of Jacksonville won the contract for drilling a Wallace town well and installing equipment Thursday night on a bid of $47,478, the lowest of four bids.

Skipper's Well Drilling Co. of Leland submitted the next lowest bid of $47,500, $22 higher than the winner.

Other bidders were Snyder of Richmond, Va., with $67,085 and Layne-Atlantic Co. of Norfolk, Va., with $67,652.

Because the contractor plans to subcontract the well, the town had to waive a contract stipulation that the prime contractor do 75 percent of the work on the project. The C.W. Brinkley Well Drilling Co. of Rose Hill will drill the well for the contractor.

The contract calls for a two-inch test well to determine if water quantity and quality warrant drilling the 10-inch well about 30 feet from the town water tower near the town hall. A nearby well failed when the casing shifted, preventing the pump shaft from revolving.

If the test well fails to meet requirements, a new well location will have to be found. Town Administrator Steve Routh indicated.

The new well is to be 400 to 600 feet deep. The deepest of the town's present nine wells is 330 feet. The water level has been dropping in the wells.

The town pumps about 100 million gallons of water a month with the J.P. Stevens Co. plants using about 88 percent of it, according to Mayor Melvin Cording.

Plans to construct 800 feet of 12-inch sewer line to a proposed 40-unit townhouse development were discussed with Harris Brown of Weaver Construction Co., the builder. The project will be located on Raleigh Street, just south of the town limits. Brown said the company will ask the town to annex the site.

Cost of the line is estimated at $18,000. The town will charge the company a $15,000 tap-on fee to cover most of the cost.

Brown estimated the value of the project for tax purposes when completed will be about $1.5 million, which would bring the town about $10,000 in ad valorem taxes.

FFA Federation Contest

The James Kenan FFA chapter recently participated in the FFA Federation contest held at East Duplin High School. The contest consisted of five leadership areas, which were: sweetheart, public speaking, creed, tools and material judging, and parliamentary procedure.

Before James Kenan's FFA went to the contest, they had chapter eliminations to see who would represent James Kenan. In the sweetheart contest at the chapter level, there were five participants. After judging these five young ladies, a winner was chosen. In first place was Ann Bordeaux, second place Karen Byrd, third place Francis Rhodes, fourth place Wanda Jenkins, and fifth place Denise Rhodes. In the tools and material judging contest, winners were chosen by a test given to all first-year agricultural classes. The students that made the highest scores then went on to represent James Kenan.

At the Federation sweetheart contest, James Kenan's Ann Bordeaux took first place, East Duplin came in second, and North Duplin, third. The creed contest was won by Wallace-Rose Hill, second place went to East Duplin, and Hillery Robinson from James Kenan came in third. The tools and material judging contest was won by East Duplin. North Duplin came in second and James Kenan came in third place. Members who made up the tools and material judging team for JK were Lenwood Harper, Michael Jarman, Bobby Benson and Tracy Batchelor.

In the parliamentary procedure contest, East Duplin took first place and JK took second. The members of JK's FFA team were: President Benny Batchelor, Vice-President Steve Chestnutt; Sentinel Cris Whitman; Secretary Aaron Sloan; Treasurer James C. Miller; Reporter David Ezzell; and Advisor, Mr. W.E. Foster. James Kenan was represented in the public speaking by Steve Chestnutt.

All those who participated in the contest should be congratulated for their courage and dedication in preparing for these contests, and for a job well done.
