Liberty Festival New Feature

The 1982 Liberty Festival will present a new feature this year. Instead of a parade, there will be a series of outdoor historical tableaux that depict the lives and times of 1932. These will be non-mobile while the spectators go by and view them. A cash award will be given to the scene that is most like real life in the depression era.

The following are suggestions for scenes that would be appropriate: a farm family at home, a country store, washday, soap-making, shooting marbles. Older citizens in the community will be wonderful resource people for ideas to display.

Groups or individuals who wish to enter a tableau or want more information should call Catherine Shepard at 568-3251 or Wilbur Tyndall at 568-3101.

CONTESTANTS SELECTED - The Miss Liberty contestants have been selected. Violet Stroud and Yvonne Deatherage hosted a get-acquainted party for the girls to socialize and meet each other recently. Also present was the 1981 Miss Liberty, Christine Howard and Little Miss Liberty, Mary Beth

Home - Garden

To produce disease- and insect-free fruit of good quality, you should follow a regular preventative spray program. Repeated applications of some all-purpose spray mixtures will give satisfactory control of most diseases and insects. However, good coverage of all parts of the plant is essential.

One all-purpose mixture that can be purchased or prepared is as follows: captan in a 50% wettable powder at 2 tbsps. per gallon of water, plus methoxychlor or sevin 50% wettable power at 2 tbsps. per gallon of water, plus malathion 25% wettable power at 4 tbsps. per gallon of water. Commercial mixtures are available under such names as "Home Orchard Spray" and "Fruit Tree Spray."

Apple - Apply first spray using the combination spray as buds open and repeat at 20-day intervals until blossoms start to open. When the flower petals are off, make another application and continue at 14-day intervals until one month before harvest. If cedar-apple rust is a problem, include ferbam, 76% wettable powder at 2 tbsps. per gallon in sprays before and just after bloom. Do not spray while the trees are in bloom, except with streptomycin. Sprays with streptomycin at 100 parts per million (1 tsp. per gallon) at 5-day intervals during bloom will aid in the control of fire blight.

Peach and Plum - Apply one early dormant spray of ferbam 76% wettable powder at 2 tbsps. per gallon or 4 ounces per 10 gallons for control of leaf curl disease. From the end of bloom until three weeks of peach or one week of plum harvest, spray at two-week intervals or each time apples are to be sprayed. Continue with captan 50% wettable powder at 4 ounces per 10 gallons one week before harvest and during harvest if necessary for rot control. To control peach tree borers, spray tree trunks and main branches with endosulfan (thiodan) 50% wettable powder using 2 1/2 tbsps. per gallon of water or 5 ounces per 10 gallons, in the first week of September.

Strawberry - Spray at two-week intervals from when new growth has started until berries start to form. Continue with captan alone at three tbsps. per gallon at two-week intervals until harvest is underway. After harvest, continue to spray strawberries when apples or peaches are sprayed. Do not use methoxychlor or malathion within three days of harvest.

Bagworms - which are caterpillars that carry their baglike homes around with them, have recently begun to feed on conifers and occasionally maples and pines in the area. Bagworms can be easily identified by their spindle-shaped bag, one or two inches long, of unbelievably tough silk, which is covered with bits of leaves and twigs. Eggs overwinter in these bags and hatch in spring, at which time the larvae begin to feed, making new bags as they do so. In late summer, the adult moths appear and mate, with the female laying 500 to 1,000 eggs inside the bags.

Control is best achieved when there is a light infestation by picking the bags off in either the winter or spring and destroying them. In more severe infestations, spray in spring with Bacillus Thuringiensis, a natural-occurring parasite of the bagworm, sold under the names of dipe, thuricide or by spraying with either sevin, diazinon or orthene.

National Hospital Week

Presents Hospitals As Friends

Duplin General Hospital joins with hospitals all across the country in celebrating National Hospital Week May 9-15. This special observance is built around the theme "You've Got a Friend in the Hospital."

Costume Contest

Get out those old family photo albums and see what people were wearing in the early '30s! Those styles will be the order of the day on July 3, 1982, at the Liberty Festival. A costume contest will be held to determine whose costume is most accurate to the styles of 1932.

Special Class

Rudene Kennedy will be teaching a class on "Spiritual Gifts" on May 6th beginning at 8 p.m. at Sandy Plain Free Will Baptist Church. Everyone is invited to come.

Lenoir County Menus

The menus for the remainder of the school year will not be published. Each school will make menus for their respective cafeteria. This is done in order to utilize their inventories. Each student will be served a nutritional Choice Type A lunch. All lunches are served with a choice of one-half pint whole, sweet acidophilus or low-fat flavored milk, according to Ruth R. Sugg, director of the school food services.

"We think the 1982 National Hospital Week theme reflects the role of our hospital and its staff as friends in helping community residents stay healthy," said Richard Harrell, hospital administrator. "We are working to reduce the need for hospitalization through our progress in both prevention and cure of illness and injury." During the week the hospital also is reminding people to be their own best friend by taking care of their health and by learning how to use the hospital wisely to be well.

"Our employees are expressing a special form of friendship to our patients by keeping abreast of progress in the delivery of hospital care," Harrell said. "As techniques and medical and health science improve and technology changes, our staff seeks job-related education and training that then is translated into top-level job performance."

National Hospital Week is sponsored each year by the American Hospital Association and its 6,000 member hospitals to foster better communication and understanding between hospitals and their patients, employees, and the communities they serve.

McDaniel Announces Candidacy

Eugene "Red" McDaniel, former Navv-Marine Corps Liaison, Aircraft carrier captain and Vietnam POW, formally announced his candidacy for the U.S. House of Representatives seat from the N.C. Third District at ceremonies held in his hometown of Buies Creek. McDaniel, 50, a Republican, said that he is committed "to the goals of a better North Carolina and United States." He indicated that his campaign will emphasize conservative economics, the need for a strong national defense and continued support for agricultural programs. "We owe a great debt to our farmers and must work to keep their business profitable," he said.

Sharing the speaker's platform with McDaniel was former Governor James Holshouser, who also attended a pre-announcement prayer breakfast held at Campbell University.

McDaniel, a native of Lenoir County, attended Campbell University before his military career. He expressed his affection for the Campbell community and for the Third District. One of the Vietnam war's most decorated veterans, McDaniel said that he is concerned about the nation's military readiness. "The price of freedom is vigilance," he said. "We must continue to strengthen our national defense. Having known the horrors of war, I pray every day for peace."

McDaniel, who commanded the aircraft carrier USS Lexington after a six-year ordeal in a Communist prison, said he offers "demonstrated leadership," and pledged to place national good before political party.
