Check the Seal
 If you can fruits and vegetables at home, you probably think most of the work is done after you put the food in the jars and finish the processing. But there is one more thing you need to do the day after canning. You should check the seals on your jars.
 If you canned with the two-piece metal lid, the flat metal lid should be depressed or concaved and should not move when pressed. If it springs back, the seal is gone.
