

Tribute To Roberta Williams, Librarian

Today we honor the lady of the books, For the shelf arrangements and the reading nook. For the hours she's served, and all her good work And never from any job was she known to shirk There is the story hour, and the movies, too. Oh, there's so many things she would do. For the Christmas program she would play And show her slides most any day. But to improve that library was on her heart And from this idea she would never part Books she added, changes she made To all details, her attention she paid And now we've come to a sad day When we must watch her go away. Goodbye, good Lady of the Books, We'll miss you, your presence, and your looks
