Out Of The Attic... Visiting The COWAN MUSEUM

Sharon Overton

FOR THE KITCHEN - The colonial housewife may have been a slave to her kitchen, but she couldn't complain about not having enough utensils to do her work with. Pictured are a few familiar items from a 17th or 18th century kitchen which are part of the Cowan collection in Kenansville. Bottom, left, salamander or homemade ice shovel; soot rake; standing griddle. Top left, fireplace poker, bread griddle and rotary grill made from some of the first metal rolled in the United States.

Along the Way

By Emily Killette

The Duplin County Community Theatre has begun preparation for a new year, and like 1981-82, the Community Theatre will present it's first production of the season during the Duplin County Agribusiness Fair, Oct. 4-9.

"The arts are being cultivated by Duplin citizens," said chairman of the Duplin Community Theatre board of directors Jack Ireland. "The organization of the local acting company has given county folks a way to share the arts within their community." The Duplin Community Theatre organization began in the spring of 1981 with the production of "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick." The 1981-82 season opened in the fall highlighting the Duplin County Farm-City Fair with a performance of "On Golden Pond."

"The arts are just as much a part of a county fair celebration as a midway, exhibits and blue ribbons," Ireland said. "The Community Theatre wouldn't think of letting a county fair come to Duplin without a performance by some of the local actors."

The Community Theatre plans to stage the production, "The Fisherman," a one act comedy featuring Duplin County's youth during the week of Duplin County's Agribusiness Fair. The production features Mike Whaley, Allison Stroud, Fostina Rose, Andy Maready and Kevin Whaley.

Information about additional 1982-83 Duplin Community Theatre productions will be distributed during fair week. Presently the group plans to include a musical and readers theatre this season.

Season tickets and Community Theatre memberships are being planned by the Duplin Community Theatre board of directors for the 1982-83 productions. And, the Community Theatre has credits such as "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," "On Golden Pond," and a reader's theatre and "Lipstick and Lollipops" from which to draw its credits for ticket sales of the up-coming season.

Any person interested in the Duplin Community Theatre — actors, stage production, costumes, play direction, musicians, administration — may contact the Duplin County Arts Council for additional information.

Sandy Plain Senior Citizens

The September meeting of the Sandy Plain Senior Citizens is Saturday, Sept. 11 at 6 p.m. at the educational building. Members are urged to attend, bring a picnic supper and invite someone to join them for the evening. The Youth Group of Potters Hill Advent Christian Church will have the program.

Allen Named Secretary N.C. Extended Day School Association

Recently Ms. Joreka Allen of Warsaw was elected secretary on the executive committee of the N.C. Extended Day School Association for the 1982-83 school year. The association met in Greensboro during their annual teacher's workshop which was conducted in conjunction with the state Department of Public Instruction, division of vocational education, and the N.C. Vocational Association.

Ms. Allen is the CETA counselor/coordinator for the Duplin Extended Day School program. Extended Day programs have been reaching out and meeting the needs of many students who for one reason or another have had to leave the regular programs. The classes are usually conducted in the evening hours to allow flexibility in the student schedules. A number of EDS students work during the day and attend classes at night. However, they must take the same courses required by the regular high schools in order to be awarded their diploma.

Also during the NCESDA meeting, W.T. Stokes, Extended School Day program, was elected as district representative to serve on the executive committee for Region II. Counties included in this region are: Duplin, Sampson, Wayne, Greene, Lenoir, Craven, Jones, Pamlico, Carteret, Onslow, Pender, New Hanover, and Brunswick counties. Stokes, of Clinton, will serve a two-year term.

The Duplin County Extended Day School is located at E.E. Smith Jr. High in Kenansville. Classes are held from 5 - 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Other members of the faculty include: Dave Boyle, learning lab coordinator; Ms. Jackie Blackmore, world history, U.S. history and N.C. history; Ms. Reynell Chasten, guidance counselor; Mrs. Daphne Delaney, English, I, II, III, IV; Mrs. Becky Foster, CETA intake officer; Eddie Hatch, diversified cooperative training; Mrs. Lina Reid, general and consumer math, algebra I and geometry; Ernest Stevens, small engines; Mrs. Hazel Wallace, secretary; and Mrs. Lucy Williams, typing I, II, introduction to business, and office occupations I.

JSTC Carwash

According to Holly Warrington, co-editor, and Cindy Dail, staff advisor, James Sprunt Technical College will hold a carwash in the county parking lot in Kenansville (which is located diagonally across the street from the Bank of North Carolina). There will also be another carwash held in Wallace at the BB&T parking lot on Hwy. 117N at the same time. These events will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 11. All profits will be used for the publication of the JSTC yearbook. The prices will be $3 for washing, and $5 for inside and out. You are asked to come out and show your support by Warrington and Dail.

CART OF THANKS

The family of Eula Mae Cauley Westbrook humbly and prayerfully bless the loving kindness shown our loved one in fellowship during her lengthy illness.

Your prayers reached out in comfort and strength and God was gracious.

Your visitations were uplifting and love was abundant.

Your gracious offerings of food, flowers and gifts nourished the body, mind and spirit.

To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die.
