

PROCLAMATION SIGNING - (L to R) Don E. Suttles, mayor of Kenansville, signed a proclamation Friday morning proclaiming Oct. 3-9 Employ the Handicapped Week. Sammie Southerland of the Jobs Service, standing, watches as Mayor Suttles makes it official.

Mayor Proclaims "Employ The Handicapped Week"

Whereas much progress has been made in this city to see that our handicapped residents are rehabilitated and restored to a place in society where they can be productive and economically independent; and

Whereas these handicapped persons, once placed in suitable employment, are able to return in taxes many times the original investment in their rehabilitation; and

Whereas it is the responsibility of all of us to see that the doors of opportunity are open for these qualified handicapped persons, and that they are given an equal chance to prove their capabilities; and

Whereas not only the handicapped persons and their families will benefit, but the entire economic structure of our community will benefit from their production;

Therefore, I proclaim the week of Oct. 3-9, 1982 Employ the Handicapped Week in Kenansville and commend this observance of our citizens.

By the Mayor:
Donald E. Suttles

Jobs For Handicapped Emphasis Next Week

The Kenansville local Job Service will be actively participating in National Employ the Handicapped Week, Oct. 3-9, according to Job Service Manager Elizabeth Graff.

This year's theme for the week is "Community Challenge," and it relates closely to the goals of 1982 as the International Year of Disabled Persons.

Sammie Southerland, the Job Service specialist for the handicapped, says that the U.S. Department of Labor sponsors this annual observance to emphasize a continuing dedication of the employment of the handicapped. In its 38th year, NEHW recognizes the value of a national resource — the handicapped worker.

"This week is a special means of bringing employment of the handicapped to the attention of the public," Southerland says. "But Job Service encourages employers to hire the handicapped each and every week of the year because they are good, reliable workers."

According to statistics from the state's ESC, approximately 6.4 percent of registered applicants are handicapped. In 1982, which ended Aug. 31, state Job Service offices placed 4,577 handicapped individuals in jobs.

"We believe that no worker is handicapped if he is placed in the proper job," Wallace says. "It is our job to fit the person into a job where, by focusing on abilities rather than disabilities, the handicap does not interfere with job performance."

"Employment is not based on charity or sympathy, but is the result of good business judgment. Handicapped workers are good workers. Physical impairments can be equated with job impairments," Wallace said.

Handicapped persons desiring Job Service assistance or employers interested in hiring the handicapped should contact the local Job Service office on Highway 24E in Kenansville.
