Drama Season In Full Swing

The 1984 Duplin Outdoor Drama Society season at the William R. Kenan Jr. Memorial Amphitheatre in Kenansville is in full swing with three productions.

"The season has a play for everyone in the family," general manager of THE LIBERTY CART Jim Johnson said. "In addition to the ninth consecutive season of THE LIBERTY CART, the DODS presents two other plays in the amphitheatre."

"This season our alternate show is THE WAR BRIDES. The play is new, being performed only in two theatre companies before its North Carolina premiere in Kenansville. Productions of THE WAR BRIDES in Virginia and Georgia drew capacity audiences. This alternate show opened Wednesday, July 25 and will play through August 22. The third production, THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS opened July 29," Johnson said.

THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS is a children's show that depicts the escapades of five animal friends who live along the banks of a river in the English countryside.

Running the three shows at the Kenan Amphitheatre this season has been hampered by rain, causing several of the performances during the first of the season to be canceled. Johnson pointed out that the rain during the late afternoon has caused many people outside the area not to attend, even though local weather permitted the drama to be performed. And, he added, the season at the Kenan Amphitheatre is not the only outdoor drama reporting reduced attendance due to the rainy weather.

"We have three great shows and with the cooperation of the weather we expect one of the best seasons since the amphitheatre opened in 1975," Johnson said. "Anyone not seeing this season's shows will have missed some of the best entertainment and talent to be found in outdoor theatre." Persons who purchased tickets for the Opening Night festivities that were cancelled due to rain may use the tickets for any of the three shows, anytime during the season.

THE LIBERTY CART opened July 13 and plays Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings through Aug. 25. THE WAR BRIDES by Terri Wagener opened July 25 and plays Wednesdays through August 22. THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS by Moses Goldberg opened July 29 and plays Sunday nights through Aug. 19. All shows begin at 8:15 p.m. For more information, write P.O. Box 470, Kenansville, NC 28349, or call 296-9721.

Williams Will Lead JSTC Student Body

At its regular July meeting, the James Sprunt Technical College Board of Trustees welcomed Ms. Arlene Williams as new Student Government Association president for 1984-85. As president, Ms. Williams also sits on the Board as an ex officio, non-voting member.

The daughter of Mrs. Eva Walls of Warsaw and the late Samuel Walls, Ms. Williams resides in Rose Hill. She is a student in the general education program, preparing to enter the nursing program during the upcoming school year.

In her role as president, Ms. Williams is spending much of the summer planning student activities for the upcoming year. Her main goal, she says, is to increase student involvement in all areas of student life.

"Because JSTC is a commuter college, most students come only to take their courses and earn their degrees. This should be their main interest, but I think many students miss the opportunity to grow as individuals by missing the personal and social experiences also offered," she says.

Her goal is to increase the number and variety of activities available and to look for ways to improve the communication of information about opportunities and services available to students.

"I am excited and looking forward to an enjoyable and rewarding year," she says.

Individual Referral Program Accepting Applications

The Individual Referral Program (JTPA) at James Sprunt Technical College is now accepting applications for future quarters.

If you are a resident of Duplin County who is underemployed or unemployed and who is a member of regional target groups to include veterans, offenders, AFDC recipients, single heads of households, displaced homemakers, minorities, high school dropout, or a graduate, you may qualify for the program.

The JTPA program offers financial assistance to any qualified person by helping with registration, tuition, books and other training related items.

If you are interested, come by the office in Trailer A on JSTC campus. Bring with you the following so your eligibility can be determined: birth certificate, drivers license, social security card and the last six months' income for all working persons within your household. Pay stubs will be sufficient. Come by the office or call 296-1341, ext. 252 or 268 for more information.

Local Students Receive Degrees

Shaw University in Raleigh has awarded scholarships to 43 of its first-time students for the fall semester. Theodore Hindsman, director of student financial aid, said awards were made solely on their academic performance. Awards of varying amounts were made. Shaw has admitted 808 new students for the fall semester.

Students from this area who received scholarships include: Reginald Cyrus of Route 1, Rose Hill; Jeanette McIver and Thaddeus Moore, both of Route 1, Kenansville.
