

Powers-Bailey Nuptials

Saturday, May 25, at two o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Patricia Anne Bailey and Walter Richard Powers exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony at the St. Charles Avenue Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, Louisiana. Dr. Richard Wells officiated.

Miss Bailey is the daughter of Mrs. Jean Weber of Covington, Louisiana, and Thomas W. Bailey of New Orleans, Louisiana. Mr. Powers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richard Powers of Beulaville.

Pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Schwarz, organist, New Orleans, and John C. Pickul, soloist of Houston, Texas.

Silk flower arrangements in shades of peach and white, accented with ivy and lilies-of-the-valley enhanced the altar and also the reserved pews.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a formal white gown of silk taffeta and alencon lace. The fitted lace bodice featured a sweet-heart neckline with an overlay of point d'esprit illusion. The pointed Victorian style lace collar, sleeves and bodice were reembroidered with seed pearls. Covered buttons down the back of the gown emphasized the alencon lace panel which extended to the hem of the chapel train and a matching lace border accented the hem of the gown. A fingertip silk tulle veil completed the ensemble and the bride carried a bouquet of silk flowers in shades of peach and white, featuring roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Karen Bailey of New Orleans, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patti Powers of Greensboro, sister of the groom; Mrs. Gayle Porter of Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Carolyn Craig of Fremont, California; and Miss Pam Starks of Houston, Texas. The attendants wore floor-length gowns of peach chiffon over taffeta featuring off-the-shoulder ruffled necklines. The natural waistlines were sashed with matching cummerbunds over softly gathered skirts. They carried bouquets of mixed spring silk flowers in shades of peach and white.

The groom chose his father, Charles R. Powers of Beulaville, as his best man. Groomsmen were Randy Smith of Deep Run, Joel Alligood of Atlanta, Georgia; Bill

Bailey of Houston, Texas, brother of the bride; and Walter Raymond David of Beulaville, grandfather of the groom. Both the groom and groomsmen were attired in traditional black tuxedos. The groom's boutonniere was lilies-of-the-valley and the groomsmen wore miniature pale peach silk roses.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Jean Weber, wore a sky-blue georgette formal gown featuring a boat neckline, elbow-length butterfly sleeves, and a self-sashed natural waistline.

The mother of the groom wore a gray formal gown of georgette over taffeta featuring a jewel neckline and long fitted sheer sleeves. Both mothers wore silk flower corsages that matched the bride's bouquet.

John C. Pickul sang "The Lord's Prayer" after the couple had been pronounced man and wife. As the couple proceeded to leave the church, the bride presented a white silk rose to her mother and one to the groom's mother.

Mrs. Sharon Butzman, who directed the wedding, also directed the presentation of white, helium-filled balloons to the outgoing wedding guests. The guests then awaited the bride and groom outside the church. As a local jazz band played, the bride and groom emerged from the church. At the bride's signal, all the guests released their balloons and the sky above the church was filled with upward-bound shimmering white balloons.

Nearby a chartered trolley car awaited the newlyweds and their guests. It was decorated with white balloons and signs congratulating the bride and groom. The jazz band, numerous wedding guests, relatives, wedding party members and the newlywed couple boarded the trolley car for the ride to the wedding reception at 1427 Carrollton Avenue.

Once there, the couple and their guests enjoyed champagne, traditional wedding cake, a chocolate groom's cake decorated with a duck, and a sumptuous buffet consisting of such local delicacies as muffalata and spiced crawfish legs, assorted meats, fresh vegetables and fruit with dip, cheeses, and other varied finger foods.

After a wedding trip to Honolulu, Hawaii, the couple will return to San Francisco, California, where they will attend the Pilot Life Insurance national convention. Upon returning to North Carolina, they will make their home in Jamestown.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Louisiana State University and has recently been employed as magazine production manager of PACE, the in-flight magazine of Piedmont Airlines.

The groom is a 1980 graduate of Guilford College and has been employed by Pilot Life Insurance Company since his graduation. He has recently been transferred to Greensboro from Houston, Texas, and is district sales supervisor, group division in the Greensboro sales office.
