

TRYON

C. W. Ballenger was in Asheville on business, Tuesday.

Mrs. and Miss Giles are now stopping at Grove Park Inn, Asheville.

Mr. Herbert Petar, of Hendersonville, N. C., is visiting the Misses Peterson.

Pool rooms all over the country are being closed why not Tryon do the same thing?

Postmaster Stearns is on the high road to recovery. Indeed he rode down to the postoffice Tuesday.

Mr. Edward Anderson, serving on the coast defense, is expecting to visit his wife and family soon, on a brief leave of absence.

Mrs. Rogers and children, of Flat Rock, made a short visit the latter part of the week with her mother, Mrs. Corwin.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bacon entertained a number of their friends on Saturday night last, the occasion being the 20th anniversary of their marriage.

Mrs. Rhodes has a lot of hats on hand at her millinery store which she wishes to dispose of quickly, and in order to do so will give the entire receipts of the sales to the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Ballenger and family, from Atlanta, are occupying Miss Ravenel's house on East Hill.

A cablegram from their son, Dr. Ballenger, of Atlanta announces that he is well and contented.

Miss Annie Ravenel has gone to her brother in Washington. She was called there by the death of her nephew, William de C. Ravenel, Jr., who was an instructor in one of the schools of aviation in Texas. He was killed in an airplane accident.

An East Hiller is bragging on eating the first Tryon green corn. A Freeman Hiller is betting on the first ripe tomatoes. An Oak Hiller exhibits the first ground hog. Next, Mrs. Ferris' cottage on Melrose Avenue, has been leased to Babe Durham and family.

The Rev. Mr. Newell, Mrs. Newell and their daughter, Olive, were in town Monday, on their way home from the Methodist conference at Juncoska. They were the guests of Mrs. Newell's sister Mrs. Corwin, who invited a few friends to meet them quite informally at dinner.

Dr. Gray received a letter from his son, John, at a small village in France, saying that he was in excellent health and in charge of the supplies for 250 men. On his way over seas they had an exciting encounter with aeroplanes and a submarine. But what happened and where he is gives no hint.

The Tryon stores have two front doors, thus enabling customers to pass in and out at the right hand, without joggling or confronting one another. But some husky or other always seems waiting for some one to open the door at his left. He then rushes in, knocking outgoing one off his feet or his head off his shoulders, hitting him a hard one in the ribs for good measure. This kind of bruiser does not look like a Hun, but he puts up a very good imitation of one.

Elsewhere in this issue appears an advertisement of the Spartan Hardware Co., of Spartanburg, S. C. They are quoting tin cans in both large and small quantities. The proposition of securing sufficient cans for canning purposes is growing very serious, and their price seems to be in line with other concerns, so if you are contemplating the purchase of cans it would be well to take up the matter with this concern.

Union services for the summer season will begin next Sunday, July 7th at 11 o'clock, in the Congregational church. The preacher will be Rev. J. F. Black. All are cordially invited to be present. The following Sunday July 14th, the union service will be held in the Baptist church, conducted by Elder R. M. Pratt and so on throughout the summer. Sunday school will be held at the various churches as usual.

The advertisement of the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering appears in this issue of the NEWS. Technical education has proved its worth not merely to those who possess it, but to communities and to the public good. It is that form of education which while training the mind to think teaches the hand to do. The college offers four year courses in Agriculture, Agricultural Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering and Textile Industry.

The agent of a health insurance company recently solicited one that he called "the healthiest man in Tryon" to take out a policy. The healthy one thought this was a very good reason for his not doing so; but finally yielded, paid his premium and checked the document away in his safe. About a week after, he was almost for the first time in his life laid helpless on his back in bed, by the doctor's orders he has stayed, drawing his weekly pension and proving that the unexpected always happens.

The small boy in the story always wanted everybody with a watch to open it for him so's he could "see the wheels go round." Somebody with perhaps the same curiosity about wheels going round, kicked a block from in front of the Freeman car, Saturday night as it stood at the top of the incline in front of Mrs. Ferris' on Melrose Avenue. It sent the car rolling down and across to the opposite gutter and against a stone wall, crushing the wheel, compelling the family to go home in an ordinary wagon drawn by regular horses. They probably would like to have seen the wheels go round and over the mischievous scallawag who thought it was fun.

The result of consolidating the operation of mail traffic under the government may be seen right here in Tryon by the mixed-up freight cars. The other day a train of 15 or 18 cars went through, only three of which belonged to the Southern Ry. There were scarcely any two belonging to the same corporation. They came from small plug roads in Maine

The Scouts' Flag.

We saluted our flag e'er we said our good nights,
Determined to follow, e'en over the sea.

We loved its bright stripes and we saw in its stars
Our nation united and free.

But fire broke, like a thief in the night,
And our banner went up in the flame.

We held our heads high as we shouldered our loss,
And went on our march just the same

Now, we see by the light of that bright burning fire
That our banner still floats and still guides.

That flames cannot touch it, that foes cannot snare it
So long as o'er freemen it waves.

Now, we know it's made of exquisite stuff,
Of spirits immortal, of honor and love,

All, all that we ask is to follow the stripes
Under guard of the stars up above.

or Georgia as well as trunk lines and big corporations, from the New York Central, the Grand Trunk, Flint & Pere Marquette, Mich., the Santa Fe, the Union Pacific, the Fort Wayne and Indiana, the Michigan Central, the New Haven etc. It was a lesson in U. S. Geography. One car was a puzzle. It was marked "Union Railway." Union junctions are common enough and a union railway is hard to locate. One between New Orleans and Duluth Minn., or Portland Maine and Oregon might be called so.

Sunday's downpour having gullied canals in the side-walks on East Hill, the residents under Mr. Coggey's enterprising intervention were immediately supplied with the foundation of a very good cinder-path. It will need further treatment. A raking over the coals will often improve a man; so will it improve this side walk by getting rid of the bigger cinders and slag, which vary in size from some men's heads to other nuts. Then there are also slices of tin cans, broken crockery and glass. Shoes at $8 to $10 per pair make rather expensive road drags and rollers. It is evident from this material that in the consumption of fuel people haven't yet got down to hard pan. Most of these cinders would make hot fires, and mixed in with them are considerable good sized shining, half-burned and even unburned coal. By the end of next winter it will be esteemed at greater value than now.

HAVE YOU ANY WOOL?

This is not a question to the Black Sheep, but to all who are ready to help Uncle Sam's boys, and our boys. Don't say "no" too quickly. Look in your chair cushions if they are stuffed with wool why cannot you sit on cotton and send the wool to the soldiers who need it so much? How about your pin cushions? See if they have wool in them. Already three old wool comforts have been given. This wool will be carded and spun by our good spinners through the country, and then the knitters will be able to knit up the wool we could do without buying, and wool is so very expensive. Please send even the smallest amount to Mrs. W. T. Lindsey Tryon, who is in charge of the knitting for the Red Cross.

COMMUNITY CANNING CLUB.

Mrs. C. S. Corwin, who canned so much fruits and vegetables near Tryon, last year, does not desire to run her cannery this year, but being a public spirited lady and wishing to do all she can to aid Uncle Sam in his campaign for the conservation of food, has submitted the proposition of a community canning club, using her outfit.

The proposition is too good to turn down lightly, so the matter has been placed before the proper State authorities, and we hope to have something definite to tell our readers on the subject in our next issue.

The importance of a community canning club can scarcely be comprehended. In all communities where attempted the enterprise has been of great importance and profit to the people of the community. It is proposed to have the outfit located in some convenient location so that everybody in the community can take their fruit or vegetables to the cannery and have them put up.

We will give particulars as the proposition takes on a more definite shape.

LANGLEY-JACKSON.

A beautiful wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Jackson, of Tryon, Wednesday afternoon at half after four o'clock, when their second daughter, Miss Bessie Jackson became the bride of Rev. John A. Langley, of Lake View, S. C. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. N. Pratt, of Hendersonville, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The parlor in which the wedding took place was tastefully decorated with ferns ivy, laurel and Queen Ann's lace. To the strains of Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Lola Bell, of Tryon, the bridal party entered the parlor. The bridesmaids, Misses Ethel and Johnnie Mae Jackson, sisters of the bride, dressed in white crepe de chine entered with the groomsmen, Messrs. W. T. Hammett, of Lynn, N. C., and Heber H. Carson, of Flat Rock N. C. The bride was gowned in lavender satin and wore a corsage of sweet peas. Mrs. Langley is one of Tryon's most attractive young women, and is popular with a large circle of friends. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left for Hendersonville and other summer resorts. On returning they will visit the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Langley, of Greenwood, S. C., after which they will go to their home in Dillon, S. C., where he is pastor.
