Mill Spring Route 1.

Who says "Old man winter" has not been with us?

Mrs. J. T. Edwards spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. A. A. Edwards.

Talmage Allen and Monroe Ogle, made business trips to Spartanburg last week.

Maggie Sue Edwards visited her sister, Mrs. Arthur Thompson, Sunday last.

We are glad to know that John, Clyde and Knox Womack, who have pneumonia are getting along nicely.

Edgar Whiteside and Willie Corner, of Uree, were in this section Sunday.

Duffey Womack called to see Miss Lela Womack last Sunday.

J. T. Edwards and O. M. Powell, made business trips to Rutherfordton, last Monday.

Miss Bertha Edwards who has been sick is much better.

We often wonder what has become of our Sunny View correspondent.

Fishtop

The last week has been wintry, a snow of 12 inches (an unusual occurrence) just as land was getting ready for plowing. It is moving off rapidly now and will all be off southland if more don't come soon.

E. J. and T. W. Bradley went to Saluda Tuesday.

Several went from here to see the drove of horses and mules at W. C. Robertson's stable in Saluda Thursday.

Stock are not rejoicing over this winter weather, because it is raising instead of lowering the cost of living. However, we hope it will keep back the fruit blooming and pulverize the land for better crops.

J. B. Bradley investigated the horses at Saluda Tuesday.

Mrs. Posey Henderson saw a large eel in the creek Sunday. The earliest I ever heard of.

I. Henderson visited the Bradleys Sunday.

Curtis Newman visited Posey Henderson Sunday.

Mrs. P. Henderson visited the Levi family, Sunday.

E. J. and J. B. Bradley went to Saluda on business Saturday.

We understand Clayton Pace will return to Panama in a few days at an increased salary. He set out some cabbage plants for family to use before he leaves.

T. W. Bradley sang for the Mountain Page choir Sunday. Moonshiners or some other shiners keep the woods on fire every dry time.

Harrison Arledge and wife visited his father-in-law's family Saturday and Sunday.

PRESENTS MANY AND VARIED

Gifts to British Bride Include Furs, Diamonds and Other Articles of Immense Value.

In England when a daughter of the nobility is married her wedding presents are costly as well as varied. The following list of gifts is clipped from the London Times notice of the approaching marriage of Mr. Cecil Brassey and Hon. Ivy Spencer.

A beaver fur coat from the Viscount Churchill to his daughter and a diamond and pearl pendant from the bridegroom; a gold cigarette case from her sister, Hon. Ursula Spencer; a diamond tiara from Lady Violet Brassey; an old antique bowl and spoon from the duke and duchess of Buccleuch; a feather fan from Viscountess Northcliffe; a diamond brooch from the duchess of Marlborough; a glass-top table from the speaker and Mrs. James Lowther; a pair of silver candlesticks from Hon. Lancelot and Mrs. Lowther; a pair of silver entree dishes from Hon. Victor Spencer; a Chinese bag from Lady Sarah Wilson; a large silver tray from the earl of Lonsdale; a ruby and diamond brooch from the maharajah of Cooch Behar; a feather from the duke of Marlborough; a pearl and diamond brooch from Sir Ernest Cassel; a set of dessert knives and forks from Mrs. Victor Spencer; two silver baskets from Lord and Lady Ludlow; a dessert service from Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brassey, and a pair of silver salvers from Mr. Edwin Brassey.

A number of wedding presents received by the bridegroom include a silver kettle from the duke and duchess of Northumberland and a silver inkstand from the employees at Ape-thorpe hall.

Heart Trouble Not Fatal

Heart disease is not the barrier to an active life of usefulness as has always been supposed, said Dr. Frederick Brush to the National Society for the Promotion of Occupational Therapy. Nothing is gained and much lost by telling cardiac patients not to work, not to carry, not to play, and so on. Under proper supervision the person with heart trouble can take a large part in active life.

Massage in vogue in Japan. Massage is much in vogue in Japan and a notable feature of any Japanese town toward evening is the blind masseur as he walks along, announcing himself with his peculiar whistle, in search of work, which he can always find in plenty.

'HILL 60' BOUGHT BY BREWER

Hotel May Be Erected on Ground in France That Will Hold Immortal Memories.

"Hill 60," whose record is written in British hearts with the blood of her young army, has been sold to a brewer.

"It is expected," says the London Times, "that a hotel will be erected there. From battleground of immortal memory to hostelry is a fate which may be deplored, but it is possible, even probable, that by an enterprise however foreign to sentiment, all that is associated with the place may be preserved."

"Hill 60," sacred with the memories of Loos and of many a subsequent resurgence of the tide of battle, consecrated as few other spots of earth have been by repeated baptisms of heroic blood, long ceased to be a hill. It was held, as one commanding officer reported, geographically, though its military value had been utterly destroyed.

"The 'hill' itself was blasted to dust long before the struggles for its possession had ended. Its name will endure as long as British history, and it is perhaps as well that a monument should mark the site of so many heroisms, even if the monument presents a commercial aspect."

Man is physically as well as metaphysically a thing of shreds and patches, borrowed unequally from good and bad ancestors, and a misfit from the beginning. — Emerson.

The purple color of the lamp glass is due to the use of manganese in the glass. The manganese is used to counteract the greenish color which comes from ferrous salts in the glass, but the action of light on the manganese only intensifies a purple coloration for a greenish hue.
