Feed Hogs Properly.

"There is no substitute for a feeding demonstration to show whether or not hogs are being grown at a profit" says Mr. W. W. Shay, in charge of the extension work with swine in North Carolina. Mr. Shay and his assistant, Mr. J. M. Wats, have spent a large part of their time this year figuring out good rations for hogs, making up the mixtures and arranging feeding schedules. By arranging these demonstrations with the local county agent, many farmers have seen the profits from feeding and marketing their hogs properly. Mr. Shay finds that merely increasing the number of hogs without regard to feeding and disposing of the surplus will only multiply losses in some cases and so he is offering the services of his office to those farmers who wish to put on a feeding demonstration with the view of later selling their surplus in cooperative carlot shipments. This form of selling has permitted many growers with only a few hogs each to top the market this year. About fifty cars are in sight for next season and the number will grow as the boll weevil spreads.

Plant fruit trees this fall in well prepared and enriched holes made for them. Plant only healthy, vigorous trees from reliable nurseries. Prune tops and roots at planting.

Your exhibit at the fair will help boost a community enterprise and will advertise your product. Advertising in your local paper pays for the same two reasons.

Another reason for cover crops: A fertile soil makes much better use of its rainfall than a poor one.

If it costs as much to fight the boll weevil whether the cotton yields one bale or a third of a bale per acre, what's the answer? Build the soil.

Every farm should have a name, and every farmer should have a business letterhead. It creates a good impression and is worth money.

A good pasture means better milk means healthier children, healthier children means more powerful adults. Are you planning for your children?

Ripping up the cotton stalks before frost will send the weevil into winter quarters early and hungry.

Fifty to one hundred hens on every farm will afford a cash income that is not to be despised. A. G. Oliver, poultry club specialist at Raleigh will tell you how.

Among the extension publications now in demand is Circular 131, "Judging Livestock and Poultry". Ask for your copy by number on a post card addressed to the Editor, Division of Publications, State College, Raleigh, N. C.

Permanent pastures properly fenced are gaining rapidly in North Carolina. The family cow will follow.

The community club furnishes a place of recreation for the home folks and also helps to work out the community problems. Ask our county agent to help organize one in your community.

Not Measured by Noise. "De smalles' men often make de biggest noise," said Uncle Eben; "but de bass drum don't get near as much respect as de fiddle."—Washington Star.

Uncle Eben. "Some men gets so superstitious," said Uncle Eben, "they think it's unlucky to take a regular job of work."

Rev. William Phin Mackay.

The Rev. Wm. Phin Mackay was born of Scotch parentage in Ireland on May 12, 1858, and died in Tryon, N. C., Oct. 4, 1922, aged 64 years, 4 months and 22 days.

Mr. Mackay's father was a Methodist minister in Ireland. Mr. McKay himself was an honored minister of the Reformed Episcopal church; his last charge being Christ Reformed Episcopal church of South Ozone Park, L. I., which he relinquished on account of failing health.

Mr. Mackay was also a member of the Masonic fraternity, in which he rose to the 32d degree and was a Knight Templar of Clinton Commandery No. 14, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

He was married to Miss Cora B. Delp on June 22, 1892, who survives him. To this union was born one son, Charles Colin Mackay of Tryon, in whose devoted arms the father peacefully expired.

Beside the widow and son he leaves a brother in New York, two brothers and two sisters in Ireland and an uncle in Australia.

Mr. Mackay served for a number of years in the British East India service, in which capacity he traveled widely, having visited places in Great Britain, India, Arabia, Egypt, South America, Australia, Africa, and in Europe Belgium and France. He also visited several places in the United States, the land of his adoption.

Mr. Mackay came to Tryon a little more than a year ago for his health. He seemed to improve slightly, and without doubt his life was prolonged.

After the funeral service at Congregational church the body was escorted to the cemetery by the local Masonic lodge where simple but impressive burial service was held.

Friday, the 13th.

is the date of the Tryon Township fair. Only a day or two off. Business firms and all others please get your exhibits ready. We have a good big building and can have a good fair even if it rains, so don't put off your preparations. The more you bring the better fair we will have and you know there is a prize for the township having the best fair.

Anyone wishing to can place their exhibit on Thursday afternoon. The building will be in readiness.

Quality That Wins.

It is not the man who reaches the corner first that wins, but the man who knows exactly what he is going to do when he reaches the corner.

The Great Desire.

It is human nature, we presume, but nevertheless, have you ever observed that no matter how long a man has been out of a job or how hard he has struggled to get one, as soon as he gets work he begins to look forward to holidays?

The "Perhaps" of Religion. The "Perhaps" of religion is so magnificent, if it is true; for it gives new worth to everything! While, without it, life is at best petty, its interests are shallow, and it passes away so soon! Indifference as to the truth of this "Perhaps" is not easy for man and it is not wise.—Sir Henry Jones in "A Faith That Inquires."
