PHARMACY

A Responsible Profession

To perform well the duties of a pharmacist requires education and skill.

The persons engaged in such service have entrusted to them the health and lives of the people, and hence take upon themselves grave responsibilities. To be prepared to assume these responsibilities the pharmacist or druggist must be a high school graduate, serve as an apprentice, be a graduate from a recognized College of Pharmacy, and then pass a difficult examination to become registered.

He is thus qualified to be your guardian in serious sickness. He needs your patronage for all the medicines you buy in order that he may be there to serve you in the hour of extreme need.

"Your Druggist is More Than a Merchant"

Louise Averill entertained 15 of her young friends at a party on Monday afternoon in honor of her 11th birthday.

Mrs. Frank Sibley, after a very pleasant visit with her daughter, Mrs. Oliver Andrews, returned home this week. She was accompanied by her daughter who will visit at her old home for a few weeks.

A Wedding

On the passenger list of the Steamship Paris which arrived in New York a week or more ago, appeared the name Henriette Vurpillot of Courcelles, France. The bearer of the name a young French woman, came direct to Tryon and on Tuesday was married to Mr. Samuel McGowan at his mother's residence on Godshaw Hill. The Rev. A. C. Caldwell performing the ceremony.

Mr. McGowan having been in the service during the war one might jump to the conclusion that another war time romance had just been consummated, but the war had really nothing to do with it, the young lady having come to Charleston sometime ago on a visit to her uncle, the pastor of the Huguenot Church in that city, and it was there that she met Mr. McGowan.

In the meantime she spent a year with her parents and kin folk in her native land.

The wedding, an affair of the family and a few friends, was very simple and pretty. The bride and groom left immediately in their car for Augusta, Ga., where Mr. McGowan is engaged in business.

"Tryon Lodge" will be open for guests Now 1st. Table boarders accommodated. For terms apply. Mrs. H. P. Locke.
