QUALITY BAKERY.

Other food distributing is more important to the convenience, and well of the entire population of the city as perhaps, a well equipped, sanitary bakery. A few years ago, a bakery thought of only as a confectionery. When "company" came up in the phaeton unexpectedly when "pa" brought a business acquaintance home to her before the bread was baked or sometimes on Sunday when the supply ran low, her wailing send one of the children to the bakery for a "nickel loaf of bakers' bread." All the older folks remember it, and what a light, airy, queer tasting loaf it was, too dry and devoid of any richness. Changes, too numerous to mention, as the thing goes, come to all lines of business, and the Bakery is no exception. A few years have brought marvelous changes. Now, no other labor saving institution unless it be the steam laundry, has done so much to rob housekeeping of its drudgery as the modern bakery shop. Tryon is fortunate in having a modern, up to date bakery; yet, being a progressive, modern town, Tryon would tolerate no other. Her bakery is known in this entire section as the Quality Bakery, and the window display such products are seen in the windows of the choicest city bakeries. The Quality Bakery is located on the principal business street here; and is owned and operated by Geo. S. Thure, for three years connected with Asheville's leading bakery, also known as "The Quality" to Asheville residents. Mr. Thure has brought with him the wide experience gained through practical work, and is giving Polk county the choicest products of a large well assorted line. Skilled bakers are employed in this sanitary shop, the capacity of which is 1000 loaves a day, which is consumed locally, and shipped throughout the county to various points. All fittings and fixtures are perfectly sanitary and modern to the last detail. The cases where products are displayed fresh each day are attractive and dust proof. Just recently Mr. Thure has inaugurated a daily business man's lunch, which from the first received a hearty response. It will be a long time before the business men of Tryon will forget the elegant and splendidly served turkey and chicken dinner that ushered in this new feature of the Quality Bakery. Aside from conducting a splendid establishment, Mr. Thure is a progressive business man, a loyal citizen, and an ardent booster for Tryon. He is heartily in accord with every movement launched for the good of the town, and may be always found ready and willing to lend his support in developing its latest resources and adding to the prosperity of the community.

EXCLUSIVE LADIES SHOP

What? An exclusive ladies shop in Tryon? Truly one is surprised to find in such a small town, as distinctive and charming a ladies shop as might attract attention in Asheville, Spartanburg, or Charlotte. But such we have, and its popularity has increased from year to year since Mrs. E. Rhodes established her business in 1914. On March 1, of the year 1923, this enterprising lady moved into her present commodious quarters, so convenient to the public on Trade Street. Here one finds an attractive shop of many original features, splendidly stocked with the latest modes in ladies ready-to-wear, shoes, dress goods, ribbons, patterns, notions, and needle work. Everything is lovely, but two particularly distinctive features, so dear to the heart of the woman, who adores the nicest things, are the millinery and the hosiery departments. In the former are found all the late mid-summer models in sport hats, light braids and straws, and all charming shapes for formal wear. In hosiery, there is a wide range of the new shapes in sheer silks, and hisle, all full fashioned and having an appeal to all who desire both quality and appearance. In connection with the Exclusive Ladies Shop is conducted a department for dress making, where materials of personal selection may be combined and fashioned into frocks to suit the individual need. Mrs. Rhodes is a capable and artistic

POLK LETTUCE CROP FINDING READY SALE

The movement of lettuce grown by the Polk County Federation is in full swing. To date they have shipped three solid cars and expect to start two more rolling this week. A car of this lettuce has just said. The Polk County crop consists of approximately 25 acres, which was more or less of an experiment, but the crop has been grown, matured and is being shipped, and offers conclusive proof that excellent lettuce can be grown in Polk County and Western North Carolina, say local wholesalers been received by an Asheville firm. The heads are large, full firm and of good color and are finding a ready sale at a premium over Pacific coast and Western grown lettuce, it is —Asheville Citizen.

needle woman, and her work has attracted wide spread attention and much favorable comment. A native of Tryon, Mrs. Rhodes is one of the ardent boosters found among the business people here, and thoroughly believes in the future growth and development of Tryon as a resort center of the first magnitude. She is public spirited to a great degree, and is always glad to give her hearty co-operation to such important measures that will add to the prestige of her city and community.
