

HUSBAND SAID WHY NOT TRY IT

Wife Said She Would. Result, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

East Hardwick, Vt.—“Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, side ache, and was sick all the time for six months. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, ‘Why don't you try it?’ So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. It has done me more good than I can ever tell, and my friends say, ‘What have you done to yourself? You look so well.’ I tell them it is the Vegetable Compound that makes me so well and strong. There is no use to suffer with backache and pains. I will tell every one what it has done for me.”

—Mrs. FRED. PRIMO, Route No. 2, East Hardwick, Vermont.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so ill that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their household duties.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Community Building

Attractive Home Is Uplifting to Family

A home and its surroundings must be attractive in order to be most uplifting to the family, visitors and passersby, the United States Department of Agriculture believes. Farmsteads especially need attention in order to secure satisfactory conditions. The farm home and the farm business are so closely related that the success of the latter is reflected in the appearance of the former.

All the buildings with their immediate surroundings must be considered. Each building needs sufficient land about it to give it a proper appearance and provide the necessary yards or workroom, and each should be so located with respect to other buildings as to facilitate the work of the farm. Roads and walks should be limited to the number necessary to facilitate daily traffic. Vegetable, fruit and flower gardens must provide liberally for the family needs. The lawns should be so located and of such size as to give a pleasing setting for the home, but not large enough to make their care burdensome.

Suitable plantings are necessary to unite the parts of a farmstead into a pleasing, homelike whole. Trees are used for windbreaks, as frames for the buildings or a background for them, and to give shade. Shrubs are needed in abundance to hide partially the foundation lines of buildings, support their corners, give reasons for turns in drives or walks, and to screen unsightly objects. Native trees and shrubs and those known by trial to thrive in the locality are the best to use.

Keep Harmony in Mind When Planting Trees

A little well-considered planting and timely care will transform barren, unsightly surroundings into an attractive setting for the home. It is easy to beautify the home site, and yet so many homesteads are not beautiful. Too often when the house is completed, the exterior painted, the interior decorated and the furnishings placed, the trained workmen are dismissed and the finishing touches, the plantings which give the house its setting, are left to unskilled hands or neglected entirely.

As soon as the work of the builders is far enough along to permit, the grounds should be graded, all stones and rubbish removed, and the good soil, which has been kept for the top, worked into a firm seed bed.

The plantings are planned as a whole, with a view to simplicity and harmony. Trees are planted for shade where shade is really desirable; they are never allowed to obstruct pleasant views, nor to conceal the house. They may be planted along the street or roadway, in groups in the background or as shelter belts.—Exchange.

Cost of Owning Home

One of the most complete and concise paragraphs ever printed for the advice of the prospective home owner regarding maintenance costs and expenses of home ownership appears in the recently issued pamphlet titled, “How to Own Your Own Home,” prepared by the division of building and housing, Department of Commerce. It advises:

“In addition to payments on principal and interest on a home, allowance must be made for some or all of the following expenses: (a) Renewals and repairs, (b) property tax and special assessments, (c) insurance, (d) water tax or rent, (e) accessories, and (f) improvements. In addition to the above, some owners add in the interest which they would otherwise receive on the amount of their cash payment or equity.”

They Study Safety

One period a week is devoted to safety instruction in the schools of Wilmington, Del. These lessons are given in connection with the study of civics. Monthly safety meetings are held, attended by a number of pupils selected by principals of the schools.

Fine Tourist Camp

Transmits Correct Time

Paul Sollenberger, one of the astronomers at the United States Naval observatory at Washington, D. C., is the man who tells the world when it is noon. The cylinder at which he stands is a chronograph connected with the standard clock, which is kept in a triple vault far underground, where there is no vibration and no dust, and where the temperature never varies as much as one one-hundredth part of a degree. When the chronograph shows that the standard clock registers 11:55 a. m., Mr. Sollenberger turns on an electric switch. A transmitting clock, connected with the standard clock, ticks off the seconds over radio and telegraph for the next five minutes. A skip in the ticks gives the signal for noon and sets the clocks of the world.
