IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

The Tryon lads journeyed over to Greens Creek last Thursday to play the final game for the season. The field was extremely rough and the weather was cold.

Greens Creek scored several runs in the beginning, but Tryon got in usual form about the third inning. They succeeded in letting the Green Creek boys down to the tune of 18 to 9.

MANAGER BANCROFT IS 10-YEAR PLAYER

Pilot of Boston Braves First Entered National League in Year 1915.

Dave Bancroft, the only playing manager in the National league, will be starting his second season as leader of the Braves when the coming campaign gets under way. The former captain and star shortstop of the Giants has now been in major-league baseball for ten full seasons, and during that time he has been a member of three clubs.

Bancroft started his professional baseball career with the Duluth club of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league in 1909. He also played with the Superior club during the same season. In that year he took part in a total of 111 games, and had a batting average of .210. He remained with the Superior club for the next two seasons, serving as that team's regular shortstop. He batted .267 in 1910 and .278 in 1911.

After the season of 1911 the Minnesota-Wisconsin league disbanded, and Bancroft signed a contract with the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league. He was used as that team's regular shortstop during 1912, and he took part in 166 games, batting .213. He was with the Portland club for the next two seasons and remained as the team's regular shortstop.

At the close of the season of 1914 Bancroft was sent to the minors and he immediately became that team's regular shortstop. Due in great measure to his sensational playing during 1915, his first year in the major leagues, the Phillies won the National league pennant under the leadership of the late Pat Moran.

For five full seasons Bancroft remained with the Philadelphia club. Then during the season of 1920 he was traded to the Giants for Shortstop Arthur Fletcher, now manager of the Phillies, and Pitcher Wilbur Hubbell. He immediately became the Giants' regular shortstop, and he remained with the New York club for the next three years.

Shortly after the season of 1923 Bancroft was traded to the Braves along with Outfielders Bill Cunningham and Casey Stengel for Outfielder Bill Southworth and Pitcher Joe Oeschger. He was immediately appointed manager of the Boston club.

Bancroft has played in four world's series, one as a member of the Phillies in 1915 and three as a member of the Giants, in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

Pitcher Flynn Vanished After One Big Season

Jack Flynn was an entirely unknown hurler prior to 1896.

In that season he appeared in the uniform of the Chicago Nationals when Pop Anson was absolute in baseball. Flynn stepped right into the big game and performed in a manner which led fans and management to believe that another Clarkson or McCormack had been unearthed.

A percentage of .833 in games won placed the historic name of Flynn at the head of all hurlers in the senior circuit.

After that season Flynn was lost to baseball. The name of Flynn never appeared in the box score of another big league game; in fact, his name was never found in the box score of any club or league playing under the national agreement, and death, at that time, had not taken him.

Indian Joins Yankees

John Levi Haskell, Indian college star of the football and baseball fields, has joined the Yankees at their spring training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., and bids fair to become a second Jim Thorpe.

Freshman Star Back

Next fall among the candidates for the varsity football team at Michigan will be Harold Wood of Muskegon, who in 1921 was hailed as one of the stars of the freshman squad, and likely timber for the varsity line. At that time Wood did not take college life seriously and scholastic difficulties forced him to quit. He returned to Muskegon and went to work in a foundry. Last fall he entered Michigan again, and he will be out for the varsity next fall.

Bancroft was sent to the minors and he immediately became that team's regular shortstop. Due in great measure to his sensational playing during 1915, his first year in the major leagues, the Phillies won the National league pennant under the leadership of the late Pat Moran.
