

THE TRYON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A civic organization with a personnel representative of the business, professional, home, religious, literary and artistic life of the most attractive resort city in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Its directorate consists of B. L. Ballenger, head of the Ballenger Company department store, and a leader in the development project now under way to rapid completion; E. W. S. Green, head of the local administration; G. H. Holmes, president of the Peoples Bank & Trust Co.; W. H. Stearns, owner and manager of Mimosa Hotel; W. C. Ward, manager of the Southern Mercery Co., a leader, in its line in the South; E. E. Missildine, owner of the best small town drug store in the States; R. O. Andrews, a leading grocer; W. M. Hester, secretary and treasurer of the Tryon Development Co., better known as beautiful Lake Lanier; N. B. Jackson, owner of the Home Ice Company; W. J. Gaines, a prominent contractor. Other officers are: Chas. J. Lynch, realtor, president; R. B. Peattie, retired literateur; vice president; G. H. Holmes, treasurer; W. R. Mehaffey, secretary.

The Chamber of Commerce takes unusual pride in appending the names of the loyal men and women who, through membership, are giving of their time, influence and money to aid the organization in spreading wide, but conservatively honest data to hundreds of inquirers asking information concerning Tryons' climatic and living conditions. The men and women, make it possible to tell the country over that Tryon has the most equable and delightful all-year-round climate in the States; that in no city in the world of its size can one come in daily contact with a more intelligent and cultured people, that nowhere has nature been more lavishly and wonderfully arrayed than here, and that near these are living conditions more enjoyable and elevating.

The above list of men and women, actuated by pride in their home town because they love it and believe in it, should be an incentive to every one in Tryon to join forces with the Chamber of Commerce in its campaign to make of Tryon all that it deserves to be.
