"I HAVEN'T HAD A COLD IN FIVE YEARS"

"In the old days I used to dread the coming of winter. I was always fighting colds—feeling about half alive—trying to work with my body aching and every nerve on edge.

"Then a friend told me about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets with their marvelous vitamins A and D. I started to take them five years ago and I haven't had a cold since that time.

"McCoy's tablets put new life in folks; build up resistance so anyone can laugh at cold germs. They make weak, skinny people strong, steady-nerved and vigorous. They're wonderful!"

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN 8TH ESSAY CONTEST

(Continued from Page One) Mann said, "and we still have a number of copies for free distribution upon request."

First prize in the contest this year, as in previous years, will be a one-year college tuition scholarship. Cash prizes will be awarded to runners-up in the contest.

The essay contest has been sponsored as an educational project for the past seven years by the State Cotton Association. This year the newly organized Farmers Cooperative Exchange is joining hands with the cotton association in sponsoring the contest and the result is that the competition this year will be open not only to students in the State's cotton belt but to rural high school students from all sections of the State.

With the Hill bill going over and the revenue bill still in committee, the Legislature was largely marking time. The Senate sidetracked the most controversial bill on its calendar, that to require inoculation of dogs against rabies, which had a stormy passage through the House. It was given a favorable report to the Senate. It has strong backing. On the other hand, there are doubts by many that it will solve the problem. Everybody admits that something ought to be done about it.

The Administration resolution calling for ratification of the Federal Child Labor amendment finally has been introduced in the House, and a public hearing ordered. The American Legion and other organizations are backing the resolution as well as the Governor, but the Legislature has no stomach for such a thing. It would like to pass up the business. There is little likelihood that the Legislature will vote to ratify despite the strong pressure that is being exerted by the Roosevelt administration in Washington. North Carolina has always been against it.

The Legislature has a heart. After passing a bill outlawing slot machines forthwith and immediately, both houses voted to postpone its effective date until May 1st. The idea was to give the slot machine owners an opportunity to dispose of them. While legislators don't want them in North Carolina, they don't mind if they are operated in some other State.

The State Highway Commission has stood off another effort to divert its funds to other purposes. The joint finance committee declined to follow its chairmen in recommending that an additional $650,000 be diverted. It is likely that the matter will come up again on the floor of the Legislature. The Governor recommended a

The Hill liquor control bill was debated in the Senate and then went over until Thursday of this week. The delay was due to the fact that the proponents did not have the votes to pass the bill. The opponents could not be put in the position of trying to force a vote as their strongest card is not to have a vote at all, but let it die on the calendar. The proponents are relying on a change in public sentiment. Then, too, they were absent a couple of Senators who will vote for the bill. The opponents are confident that they will be able to kill the bill. The same situation applies to the Palmer beer bill. It was killed once in the House, but owing to the failure of Dry leaders to apply a clincher on reconsideration, it was brought back to the floor. The prospects for repeal of Prohibition have not been encouraging to the Repealists.

As matters now stand, it will be around May 1st that the Legislature will be getting away from Raleigh. It can hardly get through in less time than that unless it takes on a grim determination to rush the revenue bill through. It has taken the revenue bill more than two months to get through the finance committee.

diversion on one million dollars. The Legislature has still another important matter that will bring up much discussion. This is the question of amending the State Constitution. One proposed amendment would increase the income tax maximum from six to ten per cent; another would permit the classification of property for taxes, and still another would permit the formation of solicitorial districts separate from citorial districts separate from other would permit increasing the membership of the State Supreme Court to seven members.
