DOCTOR LEON RENFROE MEADOWS HEAD E.T.C.C.

Greenville, N. C., May 20—The inauguration of Dr. Leon Rolfren Meadows as president of East Carolina Teachers College will take place on Saturday morning, June 1, at 10:30 o'clock. The chief address will be delivered by Patt M. Neff, Waco, Texas, Ex-Governor of Texas, who is now president of Baylor University, the alma mater of Dr. Meadows.

Dr. James J. Joyner, who was chairman of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina Teachers College during the first years, will preside over the exercises. Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Chief Justice George W. Conner and Supt. Clyde Erwin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, will take part in the program. In the academic procession will be delegates representing a number of colleges and universities, both in this state and from other states, national societies, members of the alumnae association, members of the Board of Trustees, and the faculty and graduates, as well as the speakers and other special guests of honor. All these will be guests at the alumnae dinner.

A reception will be given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Meadows at their home on Saturday evening.

The Alumnae business meeting will be held in the afternoon reunion classes.

The commencement sermon on Sunday morning will be preached by Dr. Oliver J. Hart, rector of St. John's church, "the church of the presidents," in Washington, D. C. He will take part in the Y.W.C.A. vesper services that evening.

The graduation exercises will be held on Monday morning, June 3, at 10:30 o'clock. The opening event of commencement will be the music recital on Friday night, May 31.

CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS CO-OP WITH F. H. A.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Production Credit Associations in regions as far apart as South Carolina, California, and Wisconsin are showing interest in the rural better housing program and are co-operating in the extension of modernization credit to farmers, the Federal Housing Administration announced today.

Credit is being extended according to the regulations of the associations, it was stated, which differ in several respects from the similar financial service offered by commercial banks and other agencies by the Federal Housing Administration.

For instance, the production credit associations can extend credit for modernization only for improvements upon dwellings. This advance of cash can be for a period of not longer than 18 months, although there can be an understanding of renewal for a similar period at the expiration of the first 18 months. In addition to the insurance, collateral security such as a chattel mortgage usually is required.

Nearly 400 out of 562 production credit associations have signed the contract of insurance with the Federal Housing Administration under which they can offer modernization credit.

In South Carolina, Ernest Graham, president of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia, has issued a bulletin to all the Production Credit Associations in the four States of his district, calling attention to the desire of the corporation to have all associations co-operate to the fullest extent.

"We are confident," he states in this bulletin, "that you understand it is the desire of this corporation that all applications of this type where there is a good moral risk, sufficient collateral and a definite liquidation plan—be accepted by the associations and submitted promptly to the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank. We therefore ask that applications for housing loans of the character thus mentioned be given the same consideration as are applications for production loans."

Production Credit Associations will make many farm building improvement loans in all parts of Wisconsin during the next few months if crop prospects and prices continue good, according to the Federal Housing Administration's farm representative in that territory.

Most of the present farm building improvements being made in Wisconsin, the report states, are roofing and painting.

The first Production Credit Association to issue modernization credit, according to records of the Federal Housing Administration, was that of Fresno, Cal.
