watch, and other wearing apparel. It is understood that the negro has served previous prison terms for store-breaking and forgery.

The arrest was made following a communication from the mail-order house which revealed that the goods were sent to one John Wells, colored, on Route 1. Wells was questioned and told officers that Carr told him he was in a little trouble and was having some things sent to him. Upon their arrival the goods were taken by Carr, he said.

The alleged forger admitted receiving the goods, but denied that he wrote the check. No charge was preferred against Wells.

Schools Will Be Allowed To Open on September 2 stood, because of the danger of infantile paralysis, the State Board of Health having previously recommended that no schools open before September.

Just how many schools will open on September 2nd has not been learned. However, it is understood that only one has considered a later date with nothing being heard from one other. Warsaw, it is understood, has set September 16th as a tentative opening date with nothing being heard from B. F. Grady. It is probable that the latter will open along with the others on September 2nd. By opening on September 2nd the schools can complete four months work before Christmas, provided they take only one day for Thanksgiving and teach one Saturday.

The matter of an agricultural teacher for the Wallace and Rose Hill schools was discussed by the Board of Education Monday and resulted in that body recommending that T. M. Fields be retained by the Wallace unit. Mr. Fields, who previously had served both the Wallace and Rose Hill schools, was on the verge of accepting work elsewhere if he had to work in both schools. The Board's action, which was taken after State authorities had signified their willingness to abide by the decision of the local Board, will mean that the Rose Hill unit may also have a full time agricultural teacher. However, as far as could be

Then the boys started hitting and the girls got mad and accused the management of the local team of aiding and abetting in fraud. In other words, they vehemently stated that one of the umpires was the possessor of a slightly inferior vision. After due argument the question was settled and the gall chills started slugging again.

Mamie, or maybe it was Margie, pitched the whole route for the girls, while the Wallace Wind-Whiffers employed three fingers. A good time was had by all.
