Following a call meeting of the executive committee Mrs. Stedman Carr was unanimously elected president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. H. M. Morrison, who resigned. The nominating committee submitted Mrs. H. M. Morrison and Mrs. R. E. L. Dees for vice-president and treasurer, respectively. Their election was also unanimous.

Mrs. L. B. Cavanaugh, chairman of American Home Department, introduced Miss Blythe Burnette of Wilmington who gave an illustrated lecture on "Proper Home Lighting".

ENTERPRISE SELECTED FOR CONOCO CAMPAIGN

Ponca City, Okla., Feb. 26.—During 1936 Continental Oil Company will spend nearly 75 percent of its total consumer advertising appropriation for newspaper space, it was announced here today by Wesley I. Nunn, advertising manager.

Nunn also stated that the Wallace Enterprise has been selected to carry Conoco advertising this year, and that his company has again approved one of the largest sales promotion budgets in its history.

"Continental's faith in the dividend earning power of newspaper advertising is founded upon sales increases directly traceable to this medium", said Nunn. "Last year, for example, there was a marked improvement in Company earnings, despite excessive gasoline taxes and other adverse factors. Sales of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil also reached an all-time high.

"Business is definitely on the upgrade. And we are confident that aggressive newspaper advertising, quality products and a high standard of service will make this the most outstanding year in our history."

GROWING, DEPT. COMMERCE SAYS

Gains were reported by Houston and New Orleans.

While outdoor work was impeded in areas having zero temperatures, construction activity moved briskly ahead of last year in residential, commercial and industrial building. Philadelphia reported purchase of site by Crown Cork and Seal Company for erection of first unit of plant to cost $3,000,000; in Cleveland $100,000 was being spent for expanding plant of Iron Fireman Mfg. Co. Permits issued in Houston so far this year more than half the total for the entire year 1935, with opening of new $500,000 flour mill announced.

Most steel centers were slightly more active than the previous week and the Detroit employment index receded from January, and several points lower than a year ago. Louisville reported L & N R R Co. carloadings highest for any month in the last 4 1-2 years with coal movements accounting for much of the gain. Boston reported charters granted 30 new corporations in Massachusetts during week; 16 new firms opened in Atlanta since the first of the year; Louisville reported 18 new factories last year and 63 plant expansions.

Los Angeles reported sale of California farm products last year of $473,000,000 and Charleston reported $10,000,000 from South Carolina's fruit and vegetable crop. Jacksonville reported heavy tourist-travel to Florida.

January sales of 28 chain store companies and two mail order houses were 8.8 percent greater than the same month last year with a total volume of $166,000,000. January cotton consumption of 591,000 bales was the largest since July 1933.

either some individual buys him, since beef type stock cattle are more easily fattened and sell better on the market. When a dairy cow is desired the farmers in the pool either buy heifer calves from some dairy or breed their cows to good dairy stock.

Anyone desiring to purchase bulls for better breeding purposes, which has been proven profitable, should contact the County Agent's office.

SINK SELFISHNESS

GUY A. CARDWELL

A state of confusion prevails following the Supreme Court Agricultural Adjustment Administration ruling. This is only natural, as the stopping or suspension of this well organized government agency, which has intimately touched the lives of a large majority of farmers in this country, has left them without the prop upon which they have heavily leaned for the past three years.

Since the sixth of January I have been asked many times—what effect will the Supreme Court ruling have on farming generally? What will cotton, tobacco, and peanut farmers do about their 1936 acreage, etc.,

Ignoring the farmers' need for a strong control, under existing world conditions and conditions prevailing during recent years, I would say that those farmers who have cooperated with the AAA, either willingly or unwillingly, should have learned something of the value of cooperation; and I think a considerable number of them will "dig in" and continue acreage allotment policies under which they have worked. This is no time for a display of selfishness. Too much is involved. And yet each individual has the right, under the Constitution to decide what he is going to plant during the year 1936, and in what acreage. The bars are down.

While the AAA control is "shot", why cannot agricultural leaders in each county—in each community—continue to hold money-crop farmers in line by appealing to their common sense; impressing them with the fact that the success of the whole should be sought—for that is what really matters—not the success of a few individuals. This is not socialism, but common sense.

If acreage control, of certain crops, was needed during the past three years, and is still needed to prevent over-production and depression in prices, it seems to me that the farmers will, of their own volition, continue the job started under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

It is my conception that the AAA planned for a living, plus for American farmers. If this is true farmers in the Southeast have a decided advantage over those in many other parts of the country, for here a man cannot only have a reasonable acreage in southern money-crops, but conditions also permit him to make those crops and have that livestock which will provide subsistence for both man and beast.

Let us sink our selfishness and continue working together to improve the economic condition of each worthy family in the community.

CARING FOR FRUIT TREES

The general tendency of our present civilization has been to become inexcusably negligent about many matters that are of real importance. This county is one of the largest in the State, covering seven hundred and fifty square miles, or about four hundred and eighty thousand acres, we have very few fruit trees in Onslow County, and few that we have are not cared for as they should be.

Peach trees are easy to care for. The several treatments necessary for controlling insects and diseases are relatively inexpensive.

The work of controlling insects and diseases of peaches really begins in the nursery. Here the nurseryman should use preventive measures largely. Such measures include budding healthy peach seedlings on land free from insects and diseases that attack peaches.

The first job of the orchardist in the control of insects is worming the trees for peach-tree borers. Peach borers can be recognized by a gummy substance around the base of the tree. There are two ways to combat the borers. One is to cut them out with a worm hook or a sharp knife, the other method is the use of paradichlorobenzene. PC benzene (as it is usually called) should be placed around the base of the tree in the fall. Dig a trench about one inch deep, then place about one ounce of Paradichlorobenzene in the trench and hill it up around the tree.

This treatment should not be used on trees less than four years old, as it is a chemical that will injure the younger trees. As an added precaution against injury, the mounds should be removed from around the older trees after about six weeks.

The second job of the orchardist is spraying to control San Jose Scale. If the young peach trees, when bought for the orchard are free from San Jose scale, no spraying will be necessary until the second dormant season.

The individual scale is small, being no larger than the point of a lead pencil. This scale is gray in color, circular in outline, and with a nipple-like prominence in the center. When a tree is heavily infested, the limbs present an ashy-gray appearance. Where the trees are heavily infested it is best to spray the trees twice; once after a killing frost, and again just before the tree blossoms in the spring. The spray given in the early spring will aid in preventing leaf curl, as well as destroy the San Jose scale.

A number of reliable manufacturers are now making sprays, both the concentrated lime sulphure mixtures and the oil emulsions which, if used according to directions, are effective against the San Jose scale.

New Atlantic rate for Normandie and Queen Mary is $268.
