FOR SOLICITOR GENERAL COUNTY COURT

Subject to the will of the voters of Duplin County, I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Solicitor of the General County Court, in the Democratic primary to be held June 6th, 1936.

If elected to this office, I promise to Duplin County and to the State of North Carolina, complete and conscientious fulfillment of all its duties, to the best of my knowledge and ability.

I am asking the voters of the county for this office on my own free will and accord and upon my own personal qualifications and merits; Therefore, any and all support that may be given me during the campaign and on June 6th, will be fully appreciated.

ROBERT L. WEST,
Attorney,
Warsaw, N. C.

Robert L. West, Warsaw. Rumor has it that W. Frank Blackmore, Warsaw, may enter the race.

So far as is known at this time Judge Blanton will have no opposition if he seeks to succeed himself, which he undoubtedly will. However, there is plenty of time left yet and opposition may develop before the final time for filing rolls around.

The race for Duplin's seat in the House of Representatives has promise of being a lively one. Mrs. Marshall Williams, prominent Faison woman who has been active in party affairs in both the County and State for several years, has definitely announced her candidacy for this position. H. D. Williams, Kenansville attorney who served in the House four years ago, is said to be thinking seriously of entering the race. In fact, it was reported yesterday that his announcement would come out this week. However, he could not be reached for a statement. Others have been talked for this position including J. T. Gresham, Warsaw, Robert C. Wells, Kenansville, and the old Democratic War Horse in Rockfish township, Heddie Blanton. P. J. Caudell, Wallace, was said at one time to have the bee in his bonnet and now rumor has it that a prominent Kenansville man is thinking seriously of a comfortable seat in the hall of the House of Representatives under the dome in Raleigh. There is nothing definite to announce in the latter case, however, but political dopesters give him better than an even chance to clean the field if he does decide to enter the race.

Opposition to the present Board of Commissioners has dwindled considerably during the past few weeks and rumor now has it that the old Board will have easy sailing if they decide to seek re-election. They probably will have opposition but those in position to know, say that it will be negligible.

There are no aspirants as yet for the positions of Register of Deeds, Sheriff, and Coroner. While it is known that the Sheriff and Register of Deeds will seek re-election, it has not been ascertained if Carl Smith will ask for the Coroner's place again. Those who claim to be politically wise say that Albert Outlaw and Dave Williamson already have their positions sewed up and there will be no opposition.

For the lone member of the Board of Education to be elected this year, Robert M. Carr, the incumbent, has the jump on any others who might decide to enter the race, he having already made formal announcement of his candidacy to succeed himself. No opposition is being talked.

Vivian Wells, Clerk of the Superior Court, has the advantage over the other office holders in that he was elected for a four-year term two years ago. Thus he can sit back this year and observe the fireworks from a safe distance.

While the present campaign has been slow in getting underway, indications point to some feverish activity during the next six weeks and other names are expected to be added to the list of candidates before our next publication day. May 9 is the deadline for filing notice of candidacy.

Sunday, the beautiful feast of our Lord's Resurrection was a time of rejoicing all over the world. On Easter Sunday the sun seems to shine brighter, the birds sing sweeter, the flowers bloom in greater profusion and all nature rejoices that Christ the Lord has risen.

There is a beautiful legend connected with Easter, the origin of the many colored eggs that give children so much pleasure at that season when our Blessed Lord was carrying His heavy cross to Calvary a little bird by the wayside gave vent to her sorrow in a pathetic and mournful song for the suffering of her Divine Lord. On her return to her nest she found the eggs that were white when she left flecked with red. Ever since bird eggs are of many colors.

If the additional property not purchased a large number of Duplin and Pender persons will be thrown out of employment, as the majority of the near 1400 persons working at the project are from these two counties. Many may be employed, however, in the probable construction of a community center and a school building to serve homestead children along with those from Willard and Watha.
