Bridge Tea
Mrs. John A. Gavin was a charming hostess when she entertained here on last Saturday afternoon and announced in a most unique way the approaching marriage of Margaret Jones to Mr. Lewis Bullock of Goldsboro. Three tables were arranged in the reception hall and living room amidst a lovely setting of pink and white flowers, spirea and wigelia predominating. At the conclusion of several games of contract, it was found that the guest of honor had tied with Miss Lula Hinson for high score. They were both given attractive prizes. Mrs. H. D. Williams received a dainty handkerchief for low score. The guests were then invited into the dining room and told to find their places where they were soon seated at a long table. The color note of pink and green and white was emphasized here in the decorations and also in the refreshments which consisted of individual block cake and ice cream. Mints and nuts were also passed. The ice course was followed by coffee. It was not until then, that the late set for the wedding was

CONOCO REPORTER SAYS U. S. SURPASSES WORLD

Instead of having only one Mont Blanc, like Switzerland, Colorado has more than 50 peaks that are over 14,000 feet high—more than a thousand over 10,000 feet high! There's no place on earth where you can see more wonderful scenery than in Colorado.

That's the candid opinion of Carveth Wells, world famous reporter and explorer, who plans to tell some surprising truths about "The Silver State" in his April 26 coast-to-coast radio broadcast for Continental Oil Company.

"Although Colorado, the 'Mother of Rivers', is best known for her inspiring timberline scenery," says Wells, "visitors also find much to intrigue them in the state's vast agricultural plains regions. Near Sterling, for example, is one of America's best known graveyards for prehistoric animals. And geologists say there's enough coal in Colorado to last the United States for the next 700 years."

REPORT HOEY POSSIBLE SPEAKER AT CONVENTION

Raleigh, April 21.—From Washington comes the information that North Carolina's Clyde R. Hoey may be asked to deliver the keynote address at the Democratic National Convention, to be held in Philadelphia in June.

National Democratic Chairman James Farley leans to Hoey, say Washington newspapermen, for two reasons, first, because of his loyalty to the Democratic party and his untiring work in President Roosevelt's behalf and, second, because he is considered one of the best speakers in the country.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round, syndicated column written by Robert Allen and Drew Pearson, was the first to get the Hoey story.

"Jim Farley is carefully scanning the oratorical horizon for a keynote speaker for the Democratic national convention," the column stated. "One possibility he is watching is Clyde Hoey, candidate for Governor of North Carolina, whose recent radio exposition of the New Deal brought a big reaction."

Since the appearance of that article in newspapers all over the country, word has arrived from Washington that the Merry-Go-Round writers had the "inside dope" and that Mr. Hoey very likely would be invited to make the address. Asked if he would accept such an invitation, Mr. Hoey said:

"Wait a minute, wait a minute! I haven't been asked yet and I don't know that I will be. It may be that Mr. Farley will decide against giving that assignment to any candidate. Let's cross that bridge when we come to it".
