

Field Day At Invershiel Dairy Farm April 28th

By GUY A. CARDWELL
Invershiel, near Rocky Point in Pender County, North Carolina, is not only a show place but affords a practical demonstration of what can be done to provide all the year feed at low cost for milk cows and other forms of livestock.

A prominent dairy official interested in lowering the cost of milk production in Eastern North Carolina recently made the following statement to Hugh MacRae, owner of Invershiel:

"After making a careful check of our cow testing records for the 1933-34 period, I find that the feed cost of producing one pound of butter fat at Invershiel was exactly one-half the average for the State.

"In addition to producing feed economically, your grazing system is also gradually improving the fertility of your soil. This is very evident to a person who visits your place from year to year as I have done for the past ten years."

Mr. MacRae extends a cordial invitation to farm families, extension workers, teachers of vocational agriculture, and others to inspect his 600 acres of grazing and hay crops on April 28.

Beginning at 10:30 A. M., a few talks will be made by authorities in explanation of Mr. MacRae's continuous grazing program; these will be brief but interesting.

Come to Invershiel to see the pastures and the 200 Golden Guerneys. Capable guides will show you around.

The information to be gained will be useful alike to the educator, the small farmer, and the dairyman.

We need to produce milk more cheaply in this section of the country. We need more livestock on farms to furnish feed and income; to furnish ferti-ty for the soil; and to cause us to reduce our overwhelming cash crop acreage.

Come one, come all! Bring your lunch, if you will, and have a picnic. If you do not find it convenient to bring your lunch, your need for food can be quickly supplied at reasonable cost by church lunch stands erected for the occasion.

Remember the day, Tuesday, April 28, 1936.
