

Wanoca Presents Array Of Stars On Coming Program

A new comedy, "Brides Are Like That", which promises to be one of the most hilarious fun makers of the season, has all the ingredients, not only of riotous comedy, but an exceptional romance.

The picture centers about the activities of a happy-go-lucky ne'er-do-well who knows every dog in town by its first name and has such a tremendous gift for flattery that no one can help liking him.

Ross Alexander and Anita Louise play the featured roles as the young lovers.

With the production of "The Unguarded Hour", a romantic theme, Loretta Young and Franchot Tone, threads through the gripping scenes of a fresh departure in "mystery-romance" stories.

Briefly, "The Unguarded Hour" is the story of an attorney whose brilliance enables him to send men to the gallows by circumstantial evidence alone.

In his most sensational case, he finds his wife the witness whose testimony absolves the defendant, after which he himself becomes involved in a crime, trussed in a skein of circumstantial evidence which he cannot break.

It is a thrilling story which never lags, from the first scenes at a Mayfair party to the fade-out in a tense courtroom.

Hair's-Breadth escapes, thrills of running automobile battles and airplane pursuits, the amazing cleverness of a dog, and comradeship between three of the most oddly-assorted characters ever thrown together are to be found in "Tough Guy", a new drama of the government Secret Service.

The story deals with a boy who runs away from home and blunders into a criminal gang, and among them finds the best friend of his life. The methods of the Secret Service in ferreting out criminals are shown in detail. Thrilling battles, a gripping denouement on an old tug that is the gang's hiding place, and many deft human touches embellish the story.

IN MEMORIAM

At his home near Wallace, in the early morning of March 20, 1936, Mr. Edward Samuel Williams departed this life in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He had been afflicted for a number of years, and at times he was a great sufferer, but he bore his pain with a marked degree of patience, as he looked forward to the end of the way.

He was the son of the late David Henry and Asha Faison Colwell Williams of Duplin County, and spent his entire life on a farm near the place of his birth. He was blessed with a strong body and possessed great power of endurance, as was evident from the long and stubborn fight which he made against a combined attack of diseases during his latter days. He is survived by three brothers and four sisters: Messrs. D. H., and S. R. Williams, Wallace, Mr. A. S. J. Williams, Richmond, Va., Messrs. Goodwin Ellsworth and Adolphus Wells, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Charles Fisher Taylor, Goldsboro, and Mrs. T. P. Johnson, Philadelphia, Pa.

The deceased was twice married. In March, 1891, he was united in marriage to Miss Cattie Murphy, of Sampson county, who was called to her eternal reward in March 1914. In January, 1920, he was married to Mrs. Valeria Carr Southerland of Wallace, who tenderly ministered to his wants during his long illness, and is left behind to sorrow because of his going. But his large circle of relatives and friends do not sorrow as others which have no hope. In 1887 on profession of his faith in Jesus Christ, he united with Rockfish Presbyterian Church of which he continued a loyal member until his death. Although on account of poor health he was unable, during his last days, to attend the services of his church, he did not lose his interest there.

he might be able to see the church building which was being remodeled. But his interest and faith were not alone in the church building; it was in Him in whose honor the church building was erected. Often when his suffering was great, when his pain was most intense, he would request his nurse to go to a musical instrument, which was in a nearby room, and play, "Nearer My God to Thee", or "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross", or some other hymn of like thought, thus indicating the attitude of his mind and heart.

Mr. Williams belonged to a family whose members were bound together by strong ties of mutual loyalty and affection. He was a man whose presence commanded respect. He was cautiously careful about taking on new things, preferring to "ask for the old paths and endeavored to walk therein" until it was made clear to him that the new way was better. He possessed a strong will, and his judgment had weight. His character marked him as a citizen who gave strength and backbone to the community in which his life was spent. He loved his family, his home, and his friends. He earnestly tried to translate into life the command of the Master he loved, "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away." Upon the testimony of his life, we may well believe he has heard the Master's, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

WPA Workers In Prime Condition

Pender county's WPA workers are better fitted for summer employment since the beginning of the depression, it stands to reason that most of the people whom WPA has employed would have been poorly fitted for work during the past few years", Caldwell said. "But now they have gone through the winter working steadily on the various projects, earning enough to keep themselves in good physical condition, and this summer employers will reap the benefits in added efficiency."

Caldwell said that there had been a steady decrease in the amount of sickness among WPA workers since the program began last fall. "At first there were many men absent from the job because of illness, but as the work went ahead there was less and less of this", he said.

"Anyone who hires a man who has been on WPA all winter will soon see that he is able to 'take it'. These men have been working and working hard since last fall. Many of them who had been unemployed for a long time now have tough muscles that put them on a par with other men who have been working right along," Mr. Caldwell said.

A. B. Crews, WPA safety director, agreed with Caldwell's statement. "We can notice the decrease in accidents too", he said. "When the WPA first started, the men were brittle. They could get hurt on the job very easily. But during the past few months there were fewer accidents than ever before. The fourth district has led the State in safety right along, but lately we have even bettered our own record. It is all because the men have become harder the longer they worked."

TEACHEY NEWS

Teachey boys and girls between the ages of ten and fourteen, with the help of Miss Jamye Martin, Home Demonstration Agent and P. D. May, Assistant Farm Agent, have organized a Junior 4-H Club.

The last meeting was held at the home of James Lester Malard, with 12 members present.

The name of the club will be decided upon at the next meeting which will be held at the home of Edgar Wells, Jr.

Miss Jane Wells has returned to her home in Richmond, Va., after spending several days of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Evanda McLendon spent the week-end with their parents in Burgaw.

GRAHAM JOINS SCHOOL FIGHT WITH McDONALD

Raleigh, April 27.—Sandy Graham, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the governor, today issued the following statement:

"A candidate for Governor of North Carolina who poses as an expert in education and taxation has attacked the honesty and integrity of the members of the State School Commission. For the first time in my memory a major State agency is held up before our people with the hint of scandal breathed upon it. This man seeks self-advancement and is ruthless as to the methods he employs for his own ends. I quote Ralph W. McDonald: '... all State funds will be honestly and efficiently accounted and audited. The State School Commission now spends more than twenty million dollars annually, and its accounts are never independently audited. These conditions are unwholesome and should not be allowed to exist.'"

"Who composes the State School Commission? In addition to the Lieutenant Governor, who by virtue of that office is chairman, the membership is: The State Treasurer, Charles M. Johnson, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Clyde A. Erwin, Taylor B. Atmore of Washington, George C. Green of Weldon, A. McL. Graham of Clinton, Frank P. Spruill of Rocky Mount, John H. Folger of Mount Airy, Henry R. Dwire of Duke University at Durham, John A. Oates of Fayetteville, Edwin Pate of Laurinburg, B. B. Daugherty of Boone, W. Grady Gaston of Gastonia, O. J. Holler of Union Mills. The characters of these men are a living refutation of any charge of rascality."

"From the beginning when taxes are collected until the end when a warrant is issued to pay a teacher's salary or the wage of a bus driver the State School Commission neither sees or handles one penny of money. Its sole function is to ascertain the needs and with justice pro rate the funds appropriated by the General Assembly among the counties and cities that equal opportunity shall be afforded every boy and girl attending school, whether it be in the small County of Clay or the empire of Robeson.

LINCOLN'S APPEAL FOR LAW

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the revolution never to violate in the least particular, the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others."

"As the patriots of seventy-six died to support the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws, let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty."

"Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in Seminaries, and in Colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling-books, and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls, and enforced in courts of Justice. In short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

INTERESTING TOTALS ON DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES

Raleigh, May 4.—The largest primary election vote in the history of North Carolina is the prediction of Willard L. Dowell, candidate for State Auditor, who has a penchant for figures. Not the largest election vote, for it often happens that more Democratic votes are cast in a general election than in the preceding primary election, according to Mr. Dowell, but the largest primary vote, that of 420,000.

Mr. Dowell recently took time out of his campaign to figure on the election outlook, finding that 234,770 votes were cast in the 1934 contest between Senator Josiah W. Bailey and the late Governor Angus W. McLean for the gubernatorial nomination. Max Gardner was opposed in 1928, but it was another story in 1932, for in that year, with three candidates there were cast 379,657 votes in the first Democratic primary and 351,026 in the second primary.

A remarkable coincidence is the fact that the second primary date comes on July Fourth, Independence Day", said Mr. Dowell, speaking of the possibilities for a large vote. "The law says if a second primary is
