Dees Pharmacy Exemplifies Local Business Development

(Continued from Page One) quent move, the Dees Pharmacy will be host to the general public at an open house next Friday, February 19.

Realizing that the enterprise is purely a commercial unit for the benefit of one group, it, at the same time, expresses the development movement progressing in the world's largest strawberry center during the past year. Such a trend for betterment is evidenced in house and business development, noticeably being the growth of new enterprises. The movement has already resulted in the construction of several new homes and business structures, and promises the erection of several more.

The personnel of Dees Pharmacy includes R. L. Ring and H. L. Banks, prescription pharmacists, Luther Powell, chief of the soda fountain, and Edward Pearsall, secretary-treasurer. R. E. L. Dees is the owner.

Barden Takes Leading Action in Duplin School Development

(Continued from Page One) of education; and the board of county commissioners, John R. Croom, Stacy Chestnut, and Lawton Miller, made appointments with Congressman Barden and Senator Josiah W. Bailey. The later was ill, however, and was represented by A. Hand James, his secretary.

The body called on Col. Hackett, assistant to Secretary Ickes, and Barden minced no words, they said, in endorsing their applications and getting them placed in the next group to be considered. The future of the proposals can not be ascertained at the nonce, but the fact remains, it pays to see the top man.

The Duplin representatives also worked in the interest of gymnasium constructions in Kenansville and Warsaw, which, for some reason, have been held up.

COOPERATIVE AID POLICY SUBMITTED TO MEDICAL BODY

(Continued from Page One) in an illustrated lecture on cancer. He is a chairman of the State Medical Society committee for the control of cancer. Through the cooperation of the state organization a county committee was elected to assist in the movement. Members are Dr. R. L. Carr, chairman; Dr. J. F. Landen; and Dr. R. F. Quinn, Magnolia.

Cooperative service action was taken after Vance Swift, state director of Rural Rehabilitation, appeared before the Duplin Medical Society at a meeting January 25 and appealed for a method by which Rural Rehabilitation families might be ascertained of the responsibility of paying for medical assistance.

The society went on record favoring regular monthly meetings each Monday night following the fifth Sunday.

Guests at the Duplin meeting were Dr. Ivey, Miss Jayme Martin, Duplin home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Isabel Spears Mullen, county Rural Rehabilitation home supervisor.
