Moorhead was formerly employed by Carter Fabrics here and reportedly has a better position with another company now.

All four of the Commissioners were present for the meeting held at the Wallace townhall, the regular monthly meeting of the Commissioners.

Street Sweeper To Be Secured For Wallace As Finer Carolina Project

The Town of Wallace is now in the process of securing a street sweeping machine, it was learned today from Mayor Willard J. Hoffler.

Being undertaken as a Finer Carolina project, with the civic clubs of the town participating, the sweeper, which is to be the most modern available, will cost approximately $10,400, with the money to pay for it to be made up of donations from business firms and individuals of the town.

A check from the J. P. Stevens company here has already been received for the sum of $1,500, high along with the commitments made by other firms and individuals, brings the amount raised to $5,000, it was disclosed.

Firms and individuals who have ready made commitments formittance on the machine are as follows:

J. P. Stevens Company, Kramer's, Bernman's, Cavanaugh's Jewelry Store, Wallace 5 & 10, A. C. Hall Hardware, Z. J. Carter and Son, Kon's Barber Shop, Finley Carr, Anchard Pontiac Co., Cavanaugh Chevrolet Co., Dr. Grey Korngay, Wallace Dry Cleaners, N & W Groceries, Tom Creech, Wallace Motor & Implement Co., Townsend's Auto Parts, Wallace Enterprise, Worsley Oil Company.

Delivery on the machine has been set for December 1, therefore, those who would like to make a donation are urged to do so as soon as possible, it was emphasized. Would-be donors may contact Mayor Hoffler.

Wallace now has between twelve and fourteen miles of paved streets, making it impossible to sweep them with manual labor, Mayor Hoffler pointed out.

"The purchase of this up-to-date street sweeper will keep the dust out of the stores and homes, as well as make our town more presentable," the Mayor asserted, urging Wallace citizens, whether connected with the business firms here or residents of the town, to support this project.

The securing of a street sweeper for the town will be a forward step in Wallace's progress, its services adding much to the attractiveness of the town.

Worship services will be held at the Rockfish Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening at eight o'clock, it was announced today by the Rev. Charles S. McChesney, pastor of the church.

This service will be held in connection with the series of vangelistic services which have been in progress at the church since Monday evening of this week, scheduled to continue through Sunday evening, with a morning worship service set for eleven o'clock Sunday morning.

Th Rev. S. K. Emurian of Norfolk, Va., is the guest speaker for these services, and has been widely acclaimed by those who have heard him for his forceful delivery and inspirational song presentations. A native of Moonjison, Caesaria, Asia Minor, he has been associated with religious work for the past forty years and is well known in the church music circles of this country.

As an Ambassador in Christ the Rev. Emurian comes to Rockfish with a rich heritage and background of Christian experience and service.

The public is cordially invited to worship with us during the remaining services, the pastor of the church asserted.

The Wallace PTA held its regular monthly meeting in the local high school auditorium Tuesday night.

Following a short business meeting, local president, Dr. John D. Robinson, Jr., introduced the speaker of the evening, Dallas Herring of Rose Hill. Mr. Herring, former chairman of the Duplin County School Board, and now a member of the State School Board, said, "I am proud of the interest taken in the schools by the citizens of Duplin County. The consolidation in Duplin County and the active role played by the citizens of the county has attracted state and national attention. I feel sure that the people of Duplin County feel much the same as I do — that the youth of today are the citizens of tomorrow. Our task is that of building our youth of today for the responsibilities of tomorrow. In so doing we can make sure that America will not fail in its responsibility of world leadership — America will not fail history."

Speaking of the Rose Hill — Wallace consolidated school, Mr. Herring said, "I urge you to maintain your active interest. When the new buildings are completed do not assume a complacent attitude. Rest only when your school is as good or better than any school in the State. The educational needs of the youth of this area are no different from those of the youth of the metropolitan areas of the State. We want a school that can and will offer the best to our students — our youth are entitled to preparation that will offer equality of opportunity to all students."

In closing Mr. Herring commended the citizens of this area for their interest and work in the schools. He said, "The road to betterment of our schools lies in our ability to attack the problems of the school rather than to attack the school itself."

Following the address of Mr. Herring, Dr. Robinson urged those present to be present at the November meeting and if possible, bring at least one additional person who was not in attendance at this meeting.

It was also announced that the annual Halloween Carnival would be held on Monday night, October 31st. The Carnival will offer fun for young and old alike and everyone is urged to celebrate Halloween night with the PTA at the local High School, the PTA president asserted.

Declares Arnold Not Only Asked Him To "Keep It Quiet" But "Gave No Reason For Wanting To Keep It Quiet"; "I Am Not Backing Down One Iota On Any Statement That I Made In The Article" About Farm Bureau Records

FARM BUREAU PRES. GIVES VIEWS ON ASC

LeRoy Simmons told this newspaper in an exclusive interview Tuesday night that he could prove every word of a recent article carried in a daily newspaper in this state.

Simmons said, "I can prove what Arnold said about 'keeping it quiet' in regard to the suspended Chairman of the ASC's reference to Farm Bureau's reportedly missing records."

Simmons said that he had no desire to get the Farm Bureau and the ASC tangled up in the election and that his only concern was about the poor attendance at the annual kickoff meeting held Monday night, October 10th in Kenansville. He said that when only 10 or 12 showed up when normally about 70 or more turn out he knew "something was wrong."

"I checked and found that no letter had been sent out to anybody except members of the Board of Directors." He said that letters were supposed to have been sent to a great number of "key personnel" throughout the county.

The Farm Bureau President said, "I have nothing at all against Mr. Arnold or Mrs. Bell. So far as I know they are all right. I have heard rumors and a lot of talk, a lot of which I know to be true." When questioned Simmons declined to expand on his statement specifically other than to add "I can prove every word, except for general statements added by the paper such as 'mystery thickened at the ASC office' that was in the 'article'."

He identified the name of the daily.

Simmons declared that Arnold not only asked him to "keep it quiet" but "gave me no reason for wanting to keep it quiet." He added, "I am not backing down one iota on any statement I made in the article."

The Farm Bureau President disclosed on his observations of the ASC. "The County Committee should be composed of men who have not more than a 10 per cent interest in sources other than in farming. There are plenty of honest people in all parts of the county. The Farm Bureau has been trying to stay out of local arguments everywhere. As President of the Farm Bureau I have no desire to involve the organization in Duplin or anywhere else in strictly local arguments."

Simmons said, "I have never tried to influence an ASC election, did not try to get my tenants to vote, and only spent five minutes today at the polls myself."

Regarding Arnold, he said, "there can be some information brought up that I know is true, but I am not interested in lambasting the ASC or Arnold. I am only interested in the welfare of the farmers of Duplin County. I have worked long and hard in their interest and shall continue to do so. I am interested in seeing the farm program taken care of and think it ought to be administered fairly, honestly and justly to all segments and races in Duplin County."

"Mr. Arnold has been quoted as saying he is a candidate. I say to you that we don't need anybody in the job who is asking for it. The type people asking for it are not what we need. What we need are the ones we have to ask to serve. There is no pay, and certainly no honor. You get cussed some. The ASC should be on a basis so that we can nominate and elect people that are farmers. 90 per cent of the people of this county are honest and well qualified for the job." When asked if he meant that Mr. Arnold was not, Simmons snorted disdainfully.

"The membership of the ASC," he said, continuing, "should as nearly as it is possible to choose of men from all parts of the county to get it as nearly evenly distributed as possible."

"I think," he said, "the farm program is larger than any person or personality connected with it. Nobody is indispensable. I used to think Franklin D. Roosevelt was indispensable but events have shown we could get along without him. Personalities should not enter."

NEW STREET SWEEPER — Steps are being taken to secure for the Town of Wallace a modern street sweeper like the one shown above—the Elgin Street King, the greatest advance ever made in motor pick-up sweeper design. The sweeper is built with hydraulic power, with the developed and revolutionary new hydraulic broom float—the broom actually digs down into holes and scoops out the dirt and litter on rutted pavement, and just whisks off the dirt on smooth surfaces. Wallace now has between 12 and 14 miles of paved roads, making it impossible to keep them clean with manual labor. This new machine will make it possible to keep the streets of both the business district and residential section clean. This is being undertaken as a Finer Carolina project, with business firms and individuals making donations for the purchase of the sweeper.
