

Orphanage Grid Game Scheduled For October 29

Sports fans right now probably are thinking more of finding ways to keep cool than of fall's football fare, but the announcement of one game which is to be played at Riddick Stadium in Raleigh on the night of October 29, between teams representing the Methodist Orphanage at Raleigh and Oxford Orphanage of Oxford, should interest every devotee of the pigskin parade.

The game is the first annual Orphanage Shrine Bowl game, sponsored by Sudan Temple, which has jurisdiction over the affairs of Shrinedom throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Coaches Fred Smith of Methodist and Eli Ragan of Oxford report that their material for the coming season, judging from early practice sessions, promises to be about the best that has ever come to their attention.

Dr. George Erick Bell, Potentate of Sudan Temple, has announced that he is confident a capacity of football fans will witness the game at the stadium of North Carolina State College.

"We have met with nothing but commendation and enthusiasm for the game," Dr. Bell said, "and feel that thousands of fans, who enjoy a good football game and who would like to help these two fine schools, will be on hand for the event."

In keeping with traditions, plans for a street parade and cheering sections composed of children of each school will be included in the pre-game arrangements.

The Leaning Tower of Pisa is more than 16 feet off slant.

Girl's Baseball, Big In Midwest, May Extend East

By Ed Corrigan
 NEWARK, N. J. — (AP) — Baseball isn't what it used to be, says former major league manager Max Carey, now directing the All-American Girls Baseball League.

"In the Midwest, where we have our teams," says Carey, "the girls are playing a brand of ball that would make your eyes pop out." Carey stopped here to look over some promising female diamond talent. He runs the league with the help of such former baseball stars as Johnny Rawlings, Bill Wamby and Eddie Amsmith (who taught Walter Johnson).

Carry hopes to expand the league to the east, but his main purpose for the present junket is to line up some backers for clubs.

"In my tour of the country," says Carey, "I've watched girls from high school age to married women. In all of them, I look for the same requirements. They must be able to throw and run. They also must have batting coordination. The actual hitting, we can teach them."

Then the coaches take over. Carry claims the most difficult thing to teach the girls is how to slide. They seem to have a fear of it, he comments, but once they overcome it, there is no difficulty at all.

"And," says Carey, "the girls really can play ball. Connie Mack and Charlie Grimm, managers of the Athletics and the Cubs, respectively, both said they'd like to see one of our girls play with all the regular rules of baseball in operation. There are two main deviations. The ball is slightly larger than regulation, and the distance between the bases is 72 feet instead of 90 feet.

Mrs. H. R. Russell, of Star, fishing with a party aboard Otis Pettifoy's charter boat Beth a few days ago got a mighty strike from what was described as a sailfish. Instead of setting the hook and bringing the fish aboard though, Mrs. Russell lost not only the fish, but the rod and reel also.

Diseased Chicks Affect Flock

COLLEGE STATON, Raleigh — Young chicks which survive an outbreak of pullorum disease should be removed from the poultry department at State College.

He says that when acute pullorum disease occurs in young chicks, a greater or less mortality occurs in the group of chicks affected. A certain per cent of the survivors of this trouble develop into carriers of the disease and find their way into the laying house in the autumn.

If not detected through a blood test and removed from the flock, these birds may be responsible for the occurrence of the disease in chicks hatched from their eggs. These infected chicks in turn infect negative chicks coming in contact with them.

"Since it is a known fact that adult carriers usually are survivors of an acute attack of the trouble at an early age," Professor Dearsteyne declares, "it would seem that the number of carriers detected in blood testing in the autumn would be materially reduced if the survivors of outbreaks were sold as broilers. Poultrymen of North Carolina could make a real contribution to the control of pullorum disease in the State if they carried out this policy."

Manila Court Dropped
 MANILA — (AP) — The People's Court, established immediately after the Philippines Liberation to try those who collaborated with the Japanese, will be abolished about the middle of June. Amnesty has been granted to most defendants. About 3000 cases involving spies and military collaboration are being transferred to regular courts.
