

Lejeune Marines Take Home Game From Norfolk Naval Station, 42-0

The Lejeune Marines blazed back from their defeat last week at the hands of Quantico, the defending all-Navy champions, with a convincing win over the Marine barracks eleven from Norfolk Naval station, 42 to 0, Saturday afternoon at Lejeune.

Sparking the offense, which cracked with perfect timing, were Frank Maksin, "Big" Hipps, and Dick Stein.

Kimmel and Sicard of the Norfolk backfield played well, but could not move against the Lejeune line, which broke through continuously to halt the play before it got underway. Jack Overholt, Mitchell Sadler and Herman Romero were outstanding in the Lejeune line.

Dick Stein made the most spectacular play of the game when he tore through with the line for an 80-year-dash and the final touch down.

"Little" Hipps stole the show from his big brother momentarily in the second quarter when he intercepted a Norfolk pass and ran 35 yards for pay dirt. In their game Lejeune showed consistent gain on the ground. Their reserves have improved greatly and from here to the finish they should prove a tough game for all opponents.

First quarter—no score; second quarter—Camp Lejeune 14, Norfolk 0; third quarter—Camp Lejeune 14, Norfolk 0; fourth quarter—Camp Lejeune 14, Norfolk 0; final score, Camp Lejeune 42, Norfolk 0.

Deer, Bear Hunters Prepare For Season Opening Friday

The bear and deer season opens Friday and already several big game hunters have completed arrangements to go hunting in this area during late autumn and early winter, according to Robert G. Lowe, secretary of the Morehead City Chamber of Commerce.

Lowe stated that his office had filed the names of most of the guides along the Carteret coast area who specialize in big game hunting, because that is the information which the hunters request. During the past year big game hunting on the Carteret coast has been widely publicized in newspapers and outdoor magazines.

The United States now has more than 2,000 professional foresters at work in private forest industries, double the number employed in 1940.

James Shelor Hooks 12 Prize-Winners

James Shelor, manager of the Atlantic Beach grocery, yesterday morning had 12 beautiful speckled trout to show for about 2 hours' fishing in the vicinity of Atlantic Beach bridge. The beauties averaged about 2 1/2 pounds each, making the best catch for Mr. Shelor in many a day!

Cero Run Starts Off Cape Lookout

The cero, reportedly in large schools, are now running in waters off Cape Lookout. This game fish, sometimes called king mackerel, was attracting anglers to the Morehead City area long before any local charter boat skipper got up nerve enough to exploit Gulf Stream waters for dolphin, amberjack and sailfish. Cero have been neglected to a certain extent since Gulf Stream fishing became popular here, but it may be a different story during the current autumn while weather conditions make Gulf Stream fishing uncomfortable. Cero are taken closer to shore. As matter of fact, the best catches of this great game fish in the old days was landed in the bight of Cape Lookout which is a fishable body of water at any time—regardless of how the wind blows.

Capt. Otis Purrifoy, owner of a fleet of charter boats here reported this week that one of his skippers, Capt. George Bedworth about the Dolphin had been exploring Cape Lookout waters to determine current cero possibilities. On one day, according to Purrifoy, the Dolphin's crew landed six cero ranging in weight from 20 to 35 pounds each. A few days earlier near Lookout Shoals another local skipper brought in several cero.

These fish are similar to a Spanish mackerel, the reason they are called king mackerel. A Spanish mackerel will normally weigh from one and half to three pounds. A cero or king mackerel will range from eight to 40 pounds and some have been taken here in the old days that scaled at 45 and 50 pounds. They are taken while trolling and an artificial lure, usually a feather jig, is the best thing to attract them with although some piscatorial experts use a chornum spoon or squid as bait.

High Tides Spell Break For Marsh Hen Hunters

Unfavorable weather which slowed up sportsfishing activities during recent days was a real break for marsh hen hunters. Norman Larkee of the Jefferson hotel said, "It's an ill wind that blows no one some good."

"Take me for instance," he added, "I don't care for fishing but do enjoy hunting. Take the recent winds for instance. They made fishing conditions unfavorable but made the tides higher. As result we have had the best marsh hen hunting this year than in any recent season."

The rail or marsh hen season which opened on September 1 will continue through October 30. The daily bag limit for these elusive birds of the marshlands is 15.

Shrine Bowl Grid Classic Slated, Riddick Stadium

First Annual Orphanage Event to Field Teen-Aged Events

By Jesse Helms
RALEIGH, Oct. 12 — About 60 high school football players, who would be average American boys if they had fathers and mothers, are looking forward to October 29th. That's the night that the kid football players at Methodist Orphanage of Raleigh and at Oxford Orphanage will have the times of their lives. It's the night of the First Annual Orphanage Shrine Bowl Football Game, which effective this year becomes the highlight of the year for both institutions.

The idea came from Sudan Temple, which is sponsoring the game as a means of raising funds for the two Orphanages. The enormous task of planning for the first annual Orphanage Shrine Bowl football game is being handled by committees all over the state. T. T. (Tom) Potter and R. D. Whitehurst are chairmen in the local area. State College's Riddick Stadium will be the scene of the game, which will be broadcast over an eastern Carolina radio network of ten stations.

Sudan Temple is co-operating in the promotion of the game. Reports of ticket sales throughout eastern Carolina, according to general chairman, Otis Banks of Raleigh, "are very encouraging." Several Shrine units have already sold their quota of tickets, Banks says. After the game Sudan Temple plans a banquet for the young football players. At that time, a trophy will be awarded to the winning team. A trophy will be passed back and forth each year, unless one of the teams should win three times in a row over the other.

Gold footballs will be awarded each of the players. Efforts are being made to secure a nationally-known radio sports commentator and a sports editor as headline speakers. Tentative acceptance has been received from both.

Funds received from ticket sales will be earmarked for use at the two institutions, to provide a complete recreational program at both Oxford and Methodist Orphanages. Not only will the athletic teams benefit, but facilities for year-around enjoyment will be provided for the children of the Orphanages. Orders for tickets may be sent to: SHRINE BOWL FUND, BOX 700, WILSON, N. C. General admission $2.00 per ticket, including tax.

Airbase Marines Beat Naval Team For Third Win

The Cherry Point Flyers, hung up their third victory of the season out of four tries by defeating the Oceana, Va., Naval Air Station eleven, 19-6, on the home field Friday.

The Marines came from behind to score the triumph. A pass by Navy halfback Al Garven to end R. E. Holden into the end zone gave the Marines' opposition a six-point lead in the opening period. Five minutes later, the Leather necks tied it up as Tom Shepherd crossed the goal on a 26-yard run. They took the lead for keeps in the third when quarterback Mary Arnold pitched one of two touch down aerials to George Jones, an end, who ran over from the 10, completing a 40-yard pass play Gorham's placement was good.

In the final period, Arnold tossed a 20-yard pass to Jones, who crossed over from the 10 again for the Marines' final touchdown. Seconds before the game ended, Oceana's halfback Chiffon raced 41 yards to the Cherry Point one. But the time ran out before the Naval fliers could run another play.
