Burmese Communists Steal Buried Treasure Chests

RANGOON — (AP) — Burmese Communists, occupying the sleepy village of Payabyo, 20 miles east of the rail junction of Pegu, hit what proved to be more than "pay dirt."

The Reds faced the threat of a government attack. They decided to "dig in."

Accident rather than design guided their picks to a spot where six years previously Pegu's wealthiest citizen, U Sein Win, buried his riches when the Japanese overrun Burma.

The Communists uncovered two large chests. They pried one open — and found it crammed with currency and jewelry.

Government troops arriving at Payabyo found no sign of the Communists. But Sein Win, who accompanied them to investigate the safety of his hidden treasure, found plenty of evidence of their recent presence. The larger of the two chests, containing gold, jewelry and currency worth more than 150,000 pounds sterling, had disappeared. The Communists had decided that wealth was preferable to prestige.

For Sein Win there was some consolation. The smaller chest was untouched. It contained approximately 40,000 pounds sterling. Sein Win, learning the hard way, has removed its contents to a place of greater safety — a local bank.

New Look in N. C. Education Is Theme Of P.T.A. Meeting

"The New Look in North Carolina Education" was the theme of the Parent-Teachers Association on Tuesday evening when Mr. G. W. Phillips lectured to its members. He emphasized that with the modern trends in homes, clothing and conveniences we must progress with our thinking. He predicted that within a few years education would be available 12 months for those who wished to take advantage of it in public schools as well as colleges and universities.

During the evening the Glee club rendered three selections, "Now the Day is Over," "One World," and "Blue Bird of Happiness." "One World" was especially effective as this is the song which has been suggested for the United Nations and is being taught in schools throughout the world.

The lamp behind the neon

BEHIND THE LIMITED SIGN of the modern American pharmacy there burns a lamp as old as history itself, the lamp of learning.

For today's pharmacist is a man of long and specialized training. To get his college degree, he must have a broad and exact knowledge of the many technical sciences associated with the action, handling and dispensing of drugs, chemicals, biological products and other medicinal agents.

He must pass rigid State examinations to become a licensed pharmacist.

Then, like your doctor, he must keep abreast of the latest medical developments, the newest drugs, and the constant improvement in pharmaceutical products.

The shelves of his pharmacy are stocked with the newest discoveries of medical science and an array of bright, attractive merchandise that go to make today's drug store a center of service in its community.

Get better acquainted with your pharmacist. Trade with him — he's a man you can rely on. Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 32, Michigan.
