Corn Producers Up Acreages

COLLEGE STATION, Raleigh—North Carolina seed corn producers this year almost doubled their 1947 certified hybrid corn acreage, says Dr. R. P. Moore, director in charge of the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association. Dr. Moore's organization is responsible for certifying seed to be sold in North Carolina.

The state's hybrid corn acreage which met certification regulations this year totals 3,633, says Dr. Moore. Last year only 2,286 acres were certified, while five years ago, only 67 acres met the regulations.

The popular yellow hybrid N. C. 27 led in total acreage for the second straight year. Some measure of farmers' preference for this variety is shown in acreage totals for the past four years. In 1945, none was grown commercially. In 1946, 100 acres of the new hybrid were certified, and by 1947 the total had jumped to 619. This year it tripled to 1,723 acres.

In second place this year is the white hybrid, Dixie 17, whose rise to popularity has come even more rapidly. In 1947, its first year of commercial production, Dixie 17 was grown on 239 acres for seed. This year the acreage more than quadrupled to 1,109.

The third place yellow hybrid N. C. 26 continues to decline in popularity. Only 250 acres were planted to this strain this year, whereas it was the leading variety two years ago with 800 acres. Here are the quantities of other seed crops that were certified by Crop Improvement Association inspectors this year: Cotton, 7,715 acres; soybeans, 1,372 acres with Roanoke variety accounting for more than four-fifths of the total; tobacco, 14,705 pounds; sweet potatoes, 94 acres; and Irish potatoes, 294 acres.

Swede Invents New Way To Wash Raw Wool

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — A demonstrator at the Swedish Textile Research institute at Goetoberg, civil engineer Joel Lindborg, has invented a new method to wash raw wool, which is claimed to be far better than the older methods.

Hitherto the washing has been a damaging process. The wool felted easily in the strong lye and that made the following carding difficult and hard on the fibres. After washing with the new method the carding machines can work 30-40 per cent faster than before and with better results. The fibres can be kept 20 to 25 per cent greater in length.

Another gain by the new method is that it makes it easier to extract valuable materials from the lye. Every ton of raw wool gives now 100 kilograms or more of high quality lanolin which is used for cosmetics and pharmaceutical preparations.

But the raw wool is not only fat, it is also salty from the sweat of the sheep, and from this saltiness can be extracted for potash. Sweden imports both potash and lanolin. The new wash method will make the whole import of lanolin unnecessary as long as the import of raw wool is as large as now.

Fire Department Answers Call Sunday Morning

The firemen on Wednesday afternoon burned the old hulk of the Greensboro, the boat which has been lying for several years on the waterfront just to the east of the Jefferson hotel. They were requested to burn the remains of the old boat by its owner, Mrs. Lula Willis, widow of Capt. Fred Willis.

German Children Play Air-Life Game at U. S. Airbase

BERLIN (AP) — The British-American airlift supplying Russian blockaded western Berlin has given Berlin kids a new game as well as added a new word to the German vocabulary. The new word and the name of the new game is "Luftbruecke" (air bridge), which is the German designation of the airlift.

The kids, who hang around the U. S. Army's Tempelhof airbase and the RAF's Gatow airport to watch the incoming and departing supply shuttle planes, play their games in streets and backyards.

Using model American and British planes, which are sold in German toyshops throughout the western-occupied sectors of Berlin, the children play at landing and unloading "operation vittles" planes on midget airdromes.

They set their toy planes down on sand or asphalt runways and bring up toy trucks and wagons to haul their cargoes away to imitation warehouses, later to have them consumed by dolls. Thus they complete the shipper-to-consumer services which has become unique in world history.

House By The Sea, Tale Of A Soldier And A Spinster

By W. G. Rogers THE HOUSE BY THE SEA, by Jon Golden (Rinehart; $2.75)

Edwina Marsh, a large, clumsy, self-conscious spinster, never had a chance. She dreams of the childhood that was dominated by her father, and of life with her dominating friend Madge, but it is only on the opening page of this novel that, at 40, she manages to be alone, and on her own.

This is happiness, here on the bleak Cornwall shore in the house which, now that her father is dead, she can call all her own. But though Madge is not present to boss her, the remembrance of Madge is overpowering. It's her first night, she has lighted every lamp, looked through all four rooms, done everything but peek under the beds, and yet as Madge had predicted, she is obliged to confess that she is afraid. The walls are sturdy, the dark is shut out, but she is as uneasy as her little dog James with the hair rising on his neck.

Then comes the knock on the door and, unwisely but instinctively, she opens to a stranger. He is young, clad in an oversized coat, limping badly and obviously suspicious. And he's some one to be suspicious of, too; he says his name is Ross Dennehy, but the initials on the clothes which do not fit him are B. W. Into Edwina's timid, sheltered, old-maid existence has come a reckless, desperate, tough American soldier—the man nobody should have and yet a man, and just what she needs.

Miss Golden has written a suspense story, but she has very painstakingly peopled it with real characters. She interests you in them as well as in their fate, and she doesn't let you down. The tenuous, delicate mood so intelligently built up in every word is sustained to the last page.
