In This Case, Silence Isn't Golden

Undoubtedly our Stewart-Everett theatre friends are following the theory, "Just ignore 'em, the PTAs, the newspaper, and all the rest, they'll soon get tired fussing" and this, put in plainer words, such as Cornelius Vanderbilt voiced when his railroads were criticised, amounts to "The public be damned."

Perhaps Stewart-Everett is attempting to obtain better pictures for Saturday showing, but if they are, how are we to know that they are making an attempt to consider the wishes of citizens in the communities which support their theatres? An outsider coming into a community makes himself welcome only when he is willing to give as well as take from any wealth which may be available in that community.

And the wealth most valuable to us is not dollars and cents, but the moral well-being of our youngsters who are impressed to the detriment of themselves and society, with the manner of settling arguments by using revolvers and machine guns.

To those outside the moving picture business, the method of obtaining films for each theatre is, for the most part, a mystery. We invite Worth Stewart, of Charlotte, Leonard Register, the local manager, or any official spokesman for the theatres to explain the situation. The columns of our newspaper are always open if they do not choose to communicate with PTA presidents by letter.

We hope Stewart-Everett values the goodwill of Beaufort and Morehead City to a greater extent than they have indicated thus far.

Last Call

After Saturday the mobile X-ray units will close shop. This week is the last of the six week tour throughout Carteret county, which has been a major offensive in our battle against tuberculosis.

Every year at Christmas time there are skeptics who do not buy Christmas seals. They counter with the defiant air frequently typical of backsliders, "How do I know where the money will go?" Here and now we have a concrete indication of where the money has gone... to finance the free X-ray project.

Again all of us are called on to cooperate, not in giving this time, but in receiving. This week is the last opportunity to get a chest X-ray!

HERE and THERE

With F. C. SALISBURY, Morehead City

Today, March 15 is known as the "Ides of March." Down through the ages it has been known as a fatal day. It was on the Ides of March, after due warning, that Julius Caesar met his fate at the hands of Brutus and his gang who carved up Julius with their daggers.

It seems very appropriate that Uncle Sam on this date should make it a fatal day for all who fail to pay their income tax. He and his gang carve out a good hunk of one's yearly income but leaves one alive for future torture.

Thursday is Saint Patrick's Day when all good descendants of the Emerald Isle pay honor to this patron saint. It is the day for the "wearing of the green" that little sprig of shamrock, a national Irish symbol, the three leaves of which are an illustration of the Trinity. Sunday marks the advent of Spring when the vernal equinox is slated to occur at 5:49 in the afternoon.

Leases of oyster bottoms given by the Fisheries Commission the past month to eight parties on Cedar Island indicate that these men are going after oyster culture in a big way. Leases have been granted as follows: Chas. S. Goodwin, Troy E. Goodwin and Wm. Herbert Styron, bottoms in Cedar Island Bay; Monroe Gas-Rill, Vernon Daniels and Clayton Daniels, bottoms in Hog Island Bay; Leonard A. Goodwin and Dennis M. Goodwin, bottoms in North Bay.

Sitting in on a discussion between two women who are endeavoring to keep their figures streamlined, we believe the following characters from the linotype machines will illustrate their desire. They hope to keep their ( ) figures from becoming ( ) by the time they become grandmothers.

I see that Leroy McInch has finished building his addition to the service station, putting the grease pit under roof.

Read in the paper a while back that Carl Hassell was going to build an electric ship next to his daddy's place there on Orange street. Whoever is building it, it looks mighty like a house to me.

That show at the school Friday night certainly was a good one. I'm firmly convinced now that Jimmy Wallace is not put together with tendons or ligaments. He's put together with rubber bands. That boy couldn't keep from bouncing if his life depended on it.

Judge Clawson Williams is actually presiding at this term of superior court. It's a funny thing, but I've noticed that every time there's a trial case come up there, a trade-off on judges and Judge Luther sits on the bench.

Where are those warm southerly breezes? I shed my long under wear back there in that warm shell, and believe me, it's a wonder I haven't frozen to death. This one tells that's looking for a shift in the wind.

Memo From

Thomas H. Carrow

PEACE OF MIND

It's important to know just "where you are at" in this way station called the universe. Because you're gonna be here only a couple of seconds in time. In that couple of seconds you've got to live some sort of life. Just how you live it is the main consideration.

Come to think about it, whatever you do or whatever you are is a product of decision and action. And there's the rub. It's not always easy, and sometimes it seems impossible, to make right decisions. It's equally difficult to carry them out. But the more you think and act aright the easier it is to do so.

The difference in the peace of mind of different people goes back to the decisions they have made and the efforts they have put forth to carry them out. Some have it. 3-5-49

Hi folks!

The annual staff, Mrs. Helen Bailey, and Mr. Windell were invited to a supper party last week at the home of Mrs. Giles Willis, Sr. She served a delicious cold plate, with coffee and hot chocolate, topped off with ice cream and cup cakes. After supper everyone gathered in the living room and played bridge or talked. Jokes and peanuts were served during the games and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Each guest received as a favor of replica of a sand fiddler, made of clay and pipe cleaners, in blue and silver which are class colors. The sandfiddler is the emblem of the school. I think Mrs. Willis is very ingenious to be able to make things like that.

Wednesday afternoon the students of the Morehead City school presented a matinee performance of the minstrel show they gave on Wednesday night. The performance was in three parts: the first was a "Dixieland" show put on by the primary grades; the second, "Bandana Minstrel" was put on by the grammar grades; the last was the "High School Minstrel". All three parts were well planned and full of jokes and good music. We didn't know before what good comedians we had in our school; for instance, Bobby Hesse, Douglas King, L. E. Wade, and Ashton Willis who were the end men.

Thursday afternoon a police officer from Charlotte presented his trained dogs in a safety program. He had eight dogs and they were trained to do anything he asked them to do. (Especially little "Elmer.") Among the different things he spoke about he mentioned riding double on a bicycle and speeding in an automobile and how dangerous these things can be.
