Reporter Exposes Carnival

a circle where some were busily pitching pennies and nickels onto a numbered platform.

At the Hi-dice table, presided over by the blonde, one teen-age lad rolled a seven, the blonde a four. The kid picked up the money. His companion, emboldened by his pal's success, laid down what must have been all his money. He rolled an eight, she an eleven.

The kid walked off with a very, very glum expression on his face. "Hey, buddy," a fortune teller called, a sexy, raven-haired gal with a cigarette. I was buddy to everybody. What a happy lot in life! Of course, if you are a sucker, and go for this "Hey, Buddy" stuff you'll wake up in the morning with an awful headache and an awful hole in your pocket book.

I saw a crack shot take his chance at the shooting gallery. He could come close but never close enough. It could have been that the sights and smells had aged him by 30 years in 40 minutes.

"Hey bud, you there," and he indicated me with his eyes. It was a yellow-shirted fellow standing behind what looked like a peanut roasting machine. Instead of peanuts, ping-pong balls were zipping around inside the contraption.

"Tell you what I'm gonna do," he said as he placed four FREE balls in my hand. He explained (I hope you can follow this) that you grab any two balls coming out of the machine. If the numbers on the balls corresponded with winning numbers on a chart of numbers, why, of course, you make a fortune. All I needed, he said, was to win ten points to get a handsome watch.

"We got something back there we gonna give you," chanted bark-er-comedian Old Broadway Jimmy as he pointed toward the tent entrance. Up the stairs I went, handing the heavily made-up Negress 50 cents.

I crossed a small platform, moved down a few steps into a crowded tent. Colored spectators sat on one side, white on another. It seemed that everyone turned simultaneously to look at me. I felt embarrassed.

I sat down on an uncomfortable wooden bench and glued my eyes on the stage. Out popped nobody else but Old Broadway Jimmy selling boxes of candy in which he promised every purchaser would find a surprise. Two prizes, I could see, were tiny tweezers, and rayon panties.

Fast-talking Jimmy managed to sell 10 packages after considerable haggling. Dark-skinned girls, in abbreviated costumes, flashed smiles for each "sport" who bought a box. This went on for 20 minutes while the perspiring audience clamored for action.

Finally the 10th box sold. Jimmy was satisfied, the show started with a bang. The tent filled with aaaaaw's and ooooo's as four can-can dancers flailed their legs in the air and sang, "Daddy Let Me Play With Your Yo Yo Yo and I'll Let You Play With Mine."

Old Jimmy sandwiched in some lurid jokes between other sensual numbers. The spectators ate it up. You heard Allelujahs with every crack. Laughs turned to sighs as "Little June" went into a combination song and contortion act, to the wailing strains of "The Song of India." All eyes fastened on the black-laced figure as it bounced and wiggled on the stage floor.

The finale over I slunk out the tent, hoping not to bump into any of my friends.

And what did I receive for the evening's "entertainment?" Real enjoyment? No. Relaxation? No. Prizes or money? No.

All I remember are the words of Broadway Jimmy, selling the candy boxes. "If I don't have any sports in the house, let's see how many suckers I have."

Protest Against Carnivals

It is my opinion and belief that all carnivals should be banned from Carteret county, and that all necessary and proper action should be taken by the county board of commissioners to prohibit carnivals in this county.

with County Attorney Alvah Hamilton and that Hamilton had said that a carnival could be governed, and governed only partially, under an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Relating to Proper Excreta Disposal."

"No sanitation law seems to have been passed which would prevent them (carnivals) from meeting the minimum sanitary requirements," Fulcher stated ambiguously.

He said that on Monday, April 16, when the Harrison show arrived at the Beaufort field he interviewed Frank Harrison, owner-manager. Accompanying him, Fulcher said, were Mayor L. W. Hassell and Chief of Police Louis Willis. With Harrison was Ed Lance, business manager of the show.

Two Privies Used

The show obtained use of two privies on the American Legion ground, some hundred of yards away, Fulcher said, and also attached a hose to a spigot on the property of Fred Norris, adjoining the carnival site.

These sanitary measures, according to Fulford, were satisfactory under present health department regulations.

Fulford also told Mike Lucas, manager of the carnival's "grab joint," the commissary for carnival workers, that he could not sell food to the public other than packaged food, nor serve anything but soft drinks.

THE NEWS-TIMES learned that an attempt was made Wednesday last week to obtain the permission of the health department to allow Lucas to make food for the public at his grab joint, equipped with nothing more than hose water. The health department refused the permission.

Lucas sold packaged sandwiches, alleged to have been purchased from a "bread truck" and also sold bottled drinks.

When the Harrison show arrived in Morehead City yesterday morning it did not have privies and sent a truck back to Beaufort and borrowed the two privies owned by the Beaufort American Legion.

Fulford said that he would make a thorough check of the show last night and file a report this morning.

Carteret county has a rigid ordinance governing operation of trailers and trailer camps. The ordinance is entitled "Rules and Regulations Governing the Sanitation and Operation of Trailers and Trailer Camps."

The county has another ordinance, also rigid, title of which is self-explanatory "Construction and Occupancy of Human Habitations."

The carnivals can operate virtually at will.

The Morehead carnival is being sponsored "for the benefit" of the Morehead City ball club. At a meeting of the club Monday night, nothing was mentioned about sponsoring a carnival. Suddenly on Thursday G. E. Sanderson inquired of a prominent Morehead City businessman whether the lot owned by Sanderson should be rented to the carnival.

The businessman told Sanderson that it was all right and to go ahead and do it. Sanderson is getting $75 for the lot. The ball club expects to get about $200. Al-
