Little Symphony Will Present Concert Thursday Night in Beaufort

nusic as strictly for the longhairs have a surprise coming this week.

Although the Little Symphony orchestra will play a varied program at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Beaufort school, including the finest music, even the musically untutored will have much enjoyment in store, Mrs. James Davis and Mrs. Hugh Salter, symphony chairmen, said today.

Playing more concerts on tour than any other orchestra in the world, and playing them before all types of audiences, has given Dr. Benjamin Swalin, director of the symphony, a keen insight into the desires of North Carolinians.

Treading the narrow path between "playing down" and "over our heads," he has programs that appeal to all segments of his audi-

The only risk of not fully enjoy-ing oneself Thursday night, is the risk one takes by not attending the concert, Mrs. H. A. Zimmerman, concert chairman in Morehead City, says. Those who go are promised a thoroughly delightful evening, she added.

Tickets may be purchased at the door by persons who do not hold symphony memberships.

A free concert for school children will be presented at Beaufort school Friday afternoon.

Dr. Benjamin Swalin, director of the Little Symphony orchestra, and Mrs. Swalin, will appear Thursday night when the Little Symphony presents its annual concert in the Beaufort school auditorium

Town Board Acts On Housing Plans

Board Agrees to Give Part Of This Week's Meter Funds to March of Dimes

Morehead City town commissioners, in special session Friday after-noon at the municipal building, took action on the low-rental housing projects in regard to laying of sewer lines and installation of wa-ter mains. The cost of installing sewers will be borne by the East Carolina Regional Housing authority and the board agreed to ask Tide Water Power co. to extend water mains to the housing devel-

Alleys 148 and 130 in both hous ing areas were permanently closed. Mrs. Grace Ayscue, member of the B&PW club which is sponsor-ing the March of Dimes, appeared before the board and asked that the town contribute to the March of Dimes. The commissioners agreed that all dimes placed in the meters this week could go to the campaign and that half of the amount to be retained by the town would go to the March of Dimes.

His talk outlined the accomplishments of the chamber for the past year and stated its services to merchants. He also thanked all members for the cooperation and support given the manager and chamber office during the year.

President Bell expressed thanks for the cooperation of the chamber and explained that they did the best they could under a limited budget. He asked that everyone continue to support chamber ac tivities.

Questionnaires, with suggested projects that the chamber might undertake, were distributed and members were asked to fill out the cards. They were asked to name their fast, second and third choice.

The questionnaire side of the card requested remarks on: projects which you think most import ant, other projects which you would like this chamber of commerce to undertake, your criticism of our present program.

The suggested projects on the back of the card were a city plan-ning commission, more downtown parking room, expanded recreation facilities, a 300-room hotel, more city dock space, an up-to-date bus terminal, continue campaign for express highways, more and better school facilities, raise more funds for advertising, offer inducements to conventions, extend sewer lines to all homes in community, better license had been revoked has been continued until Monday, Feb. 4, Recorder's Court Judge C.
