

Driver Gets 30 Days, Suspended, Pays $125 Fine

Alton Lloyd, arrested by Patrolmen Guy Springle and Murphy Jenkins for speeding 80 miles an hour on Bridges street, for careless and reckless driving and for having no driver's license, was given a sentence of 30 days Wednesday in Morehead City recorder's court.

Sentence was suspended on condition that Lloyd pay $125 fine, costs and remain on good behavior for 12 months. The charge of no driver's license was dropped.

Walter Hubert Lewis paid $100 and costs for driving under the influence of intoxicants. A suspended sentence of 30 days was given to James Eibert Caison for speeding. He paid $100 fine, costs and was ordered to remain on good behavior for 12 months.

For speeding, James Ray Hardy paid $10 and costs; Luther Guthrie paid $15 and costs; and for speeding plus running through a stop sign, Hubert Douglas Willis paid $10 and costs. William Edward Fann paid half costs for speeding and the following paid costs: Edward Earl Willis, Douglas Earl Guthrie, Edwin Thomas Piner, jr., Derl Grey Roberts, Robert Francis Butler, and A. T. Leary, jr., all charged with speeding. The charge of no driver's license against Leary was dropped.

Louis Enrique Pacheco, for having no driver's license, paid $25 and costs. The case against Mary Page Cuthbertson, on the same charge, was dropped.

William Whit Stanland, jr., was charged with having an improper muffler and expired license plates. He was found not guilty on the latter charge but paid costs on the first. Charles R. Schaeckert, USMC, charged with trespassing on cemetery property, paid costs.

For failing to stop at a stop sign, Leo Edward Levitzov and Darrell W. Morse were fined costs. Dave Bell was given a suspended sentence of 30 days on the charge of public drunkenness and also paid costs. Costs were paid by Teddy Willis and Charlie Hall on the same charge.

Taverns Hand Out Free Beer, Cigars

Jacksonville—Chaney avenue was a dream street for Camp Lejeune Marines Saturday night. And it might have been a financial nightmare for the proprietors of two beer taverns as Jacksonville had its first price war.

Astonished Marines and civilians quickly discovered Paul's Tavern and Marvin's Bar distributing free beer, free cigars, free cigarettes and what-have-you as the two firms competed for business.

It all started on Friday night when Marvin's, as an opening night feature, gave away cigars to the customers. When the owner, Marvin Morgan, continued the practice Saturday night, Paul Capps, owner of Paul's Tavern, started giving 'em away too.

One thing led to another and the first thing the customers in both places knew, they were keeping their money in their pockets and receiving merchandise for free.

At one stage in the evening, Paul Wiggins, an employee of Marvin's, was standing out front, informing the world that the beer and the smokes were "on the house."

The two taverns are located on Chaney avenue, just below the bus station. Whether the war would continue was unknown but Morgan promised Saturday night, as he personally told his "customers" goodbye, that the cigars would be for free all this week.

Said one contented customer: "Why don't they all get mad at each other?"

Women

Mrs. Russell said nothing, the witness reported.

After putting their luggage in the rooms, they immediately left and did not return until late that same night, about 11:30. Then, stated Mrs. Hall, a continuous going up and down the outside staircase started. She said she imagined there were at least five men and the two defendants in the apartment and they made an awful disturbance, arguing and cursing.

Mrs. Hall also testified she heard the men arguing over Mrs. King—about which one should go into the bedroom next. But the witness refused to repeat the curse words even in private to the judge.

Mary King, a tall, rather nice looking redhead, interrupted the testimony to say that she would tell the court what curse words were used because she was the one that used them. Judge McNeill said that would not be necessary. Mrs. King's story was that she was trying to get the Marines out of her room because they were drunk and although friends of her husband's, were there uninvited.

Warns Tenants
According to Mrs. Hall, who continued with her story, she warned the party to be quiet or she'd call the law. After a silence of maybe five minutes they started up louder than ever, and she called the police. This was after 2 a.m. When the officers arrived only the two couples remained.

During Mrs. Hall's story, Mrs. King, who evidently did not take the case too seriously, had several spells of laughing. Mrs. Russell, a short fat woman, was quiet and when asked if she had any questions to ask the witness, just shook her head "no."

Judge McNeill informed the two women that they had the right to testify in their own behalf but Mrs. King said, "I don't think it would do any good." The Marines pleaded guilty to registering falsely, then had nothing more to say. When the judge dismissed them, Mrs. King, in a big rush for the door, practically pulled Mrs. Russell from the courtroom.
