The mayors of Carteret's four incorporated towns today issued a proclamation setting aside May 5 to 12 as County-Wide Clean-Up Week, Dr. N. T. Ennett, Carteret county health officer, announced today.

The health officer added that the clean-up campaign has the endorsement of H. L. Joslyn, county superintendent of schools. Many of the county schools will participate in the project which is also being backed by the Carteret County NEWS-TIMES.

The proclamation by the mayors follows:

Whereas the general health and welfare of our citizens depends on wholesome surroundings arriving from good clean living conditions and

Whereas the lives and property of our people are endangered by fire caused by the cluttered conditions in homes, attics, garages, and out houses, and

Whereas unity of effort is necessary for a clean-up campaign is to be a success, now

Therefore, we, the mayors of Atlantic Beach, Beaufort, Morehead City, and Newport, do hereby designate Monday, the fifth day of May as the opening day of County-Wide Clean-Up Week, sponsored by the Carteret County Health Department in cooperation with the Carteret County NEWS-TIMES and call upon all departments of the respective cities and their civic clubs, and the county-wide schools, churches, boys and girls' clubs and all other associations, and our people in general to take an active part in this constructive program for community improvement.

This, the 29th day of April, 1952. Signed:

Morehead City Jaycees did a royal job of entertaining 200 Jaycees and wives of the 8th district at the Ocean King hotel Saturday and Sunday.

Jimmy Wallace, president of the host club, yesterday expressed high praise for Paul Cordova, chairman of arrangements for the district meeting, and all other club members who planned the affair. "I sincerely appreciate their efforts," Wallace declared. "They did an excellent job."

Colonel George Gillette, executive director of the State Ports authority, spoke on port progress at the Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Blue Ribbon club Thursday night and George Ball, Bernard Leary and George Stovall were elected new directors for the coming year.

Gillette commented that it has been a slow process but the port is near completion and should open in July. This port can grow even greater if the people justify what they have and, according to Gillette, twice as much space is needed.

"Never have I lacked confidence in the development of the port and my thoughts have not changed. I think we will be able to accomplish what has been started," stated Gillette. He thinks that in the future additional construction, enlargement of the harbor and deepening of the channel will be carried on by the ports authority.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Leon Couch, First Methodist church. After greetings by D. G. Bell, retiring president of the chamber, who stated that the theme of the meeting was to look to the future, Mayor George Dill read the list of new members and firms.

R. W. Taylor Nominated
Bell accepted nominations from the floor for the board of directors and the only one proposed was R. W. Taylor. Others who had been nominated and were listed on the voting card, in addition to those elected, were: Earle Mobley, Walter Edwards, W. J. Blair and Lockwood Phillips.

J. A. DuBois, manager of the chamber, explained the material found by each place at the table. The envelope contained folders about Morehead City and a business directory. Also enclosed was the ballot for voting.

DuBois informed the group that the chamber would have a tourist information booth at the recreation center which will be open until 11 p.m. or 12 each Friday and Saturday night this summer. The purpose of the booth is to furnish a list of places that tourists may stay.

Judge George McNeill introduced Major K. B. Nelson, USMC, who represented Brig. Gen. W. G. Manley of Cherry Point. He expressed regrets that the general was not able to attend the banquet. Major Nelson remarked that Morehead City was a good liberty town for the Marines and that they have always received a hearty welcome here.
