Fire Threatens East Carolina Scout Camp

The 10,000 Scouts and their leaders of the East Carolina Council almost lost Camp Charles through fire a couple of weeks ago. The blaze appeared to be the result of a careless fisherman or hunter who dropped a match or cigarette. It required the time and expense of the fire departments of three neighboring communities of Bailey, Middlesex and Wilson to protect the camp.

Due to the abuse and carelessness of many fishermen, the Boy Scout Council's Camp Development committee has been forced to make stringent regulations about the use and trespassing. No fishing or trespassing will be permitted at anytime or for any purpose other than Scouting or as a special recognition for an outstanding service to the Camp or to the East Carolina council.

budget is estimated at $276,321.39, the balance coming from state and federal funds. There is an overall decrease of approximately $6,000 in the welfare budget this year, remarked Miss Georgie Hughes, welfare superintendent, but the amount to be paid by the county has increased $3,153.11 due to increase in old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, and aid-to-blind grants.

Appropriated for a child welfare worker during the coming year is $1,672.50. The worker's salary will be paid by the state, but the traveling expenses and car depreciation is paid by the county, Miss Hughes explained.

Administrative expenses to be paid by the state are up $13,000. In the budget is a $10 monthly increase for welfare department employees beginning Jan. 1, 1953, with an increase in the superintendent's salary. Welfare board members fees have been raised, she said, and an item of $300 has been included for office equipment.

$500 Increase

The total budget for both the farm and home agent's offices is $7,912.68, an increase of $60 in the farm agent's budget for phone calls and an increase of $440 in the home agent's budget, a total of $500. The latter includes $165 for lights, $35 increase for office supplies, $60 for long distance phone calls, and $180 salary increase for the home agent.

The board granted James Allgood, assistant farm agent, who is an officer in the Army Reserve, permission to attend summer military training camp from June 15-29.

Mayor Dill was told that the county would accept $23.83 in settlement of taxes due on property sold in 1943 to the Morehead City Garment co. by the town of Morehead City. The property belonging to J. A. Small, lot 16 in square 60, had $71.48 in taxes due when the town bought it. The county accepted one-third settlement under an agreement made with Morehead City several years ago.

are some good advantages and some bad."

Mrs. William Dwiggins, 102 Noyes ave., Morehead City, whose husband is in the Marine corps, believes daylight saving time would be a nice gesture toward making military and civilian life better coordinated. "The way it is now, it's rather confusing," she commented.

Persons who contend they have to "get up an hour earlier" frequently forget to take into consideration that they would get home "an hour earlier" from work if they continued on the same hour schedule as under standard time.

If however, a place of business opens at 8 a.m. and stays open until dark even if dark would come at 10 p.m. by the clock, they would naturally be putting in longer hours. In metropolitan areas, in urban or industrial sections, people work by the clock. The fact that the sun is hanging around in the sky while they are at work is coincidental to the fact that the clock on the wall says it's time for lunch or time to go home.

Marines

Following the initial flash they stood up in the protective holes, waited for the shock wave from the explosion to pass their positions, and then left the foxholes within seconds to simulate an approach toward the target area.

After the "advance," the men halted and observed the phenomenon of the bomb's mushroom cloud of dust and smoke and the ascent of the brilliant fire ball from the detonation height to the peak of the cloud. While this took place, radiological teams from the AEC inspected the area near "ground zero" for the explosion.

The Leathernecks then went into the area to examine test positions of military equipment and clothing placed to show the effects of the A-bomb on weapons and other gear at various distances from the blast. The men had earlier viewed the positions as set up so that they could note the changes caused by the explosion to the rifles, uniforms, trucks, communications materials and emplacements.

Following "Shot Day" the men returned by air to Cherry Point and then went by truck to Camp Lejeune where the provisional battalion was disbanded. The aviation personnel then stepped back from their roles as infantrymen to their specialties as aircraft mechanics, radiomen, truck drivers, supply clerks and other jobs related to the air wing.

The local men not only were the first Leathernecks to actively participate in atomic maneuvers, but they were also starred in a motion picture filmed in Nevada by the Marine corps for use in the regular training of its troops in the future.

Disease-Free Sweets Grow On Davis Island, Carteret

Sweet potatoes grown on Davis island in Carteret county are free of internal cork disease. For that reason Dr. L. W. Nielson, associate professor of plant pathology, State college, came to the county last week to plant more so that more disease-free stock could be obtained for experimental purposes.

Because disease-free sweet potatoes can be produced on the island, Dr. Nielson advances the theory that internal cork is carried by insects traveling from one field to the other.

Family Saves Fox Terrier From Death in Gas Chamber

New York—(AP)—Skippy almost went to the gas chamber as a three-time loser.

The 2-year-old white fox terrier was on trial before a health department official, accused of biting his third victim. All seven members of his owner's family turned out to tell the judge how Skippy had saved their lives by awakening them when fire broke out in their home last December.

Then the latest "bite" victim admitted he had really only been scratched. Skippy went free.

PREPARATION for a tour of duty in the armed forces of the United States is the theme of a new series of films being released through schools, clubs, and churches. Produced by a group of educational associations, the U.S. Department of Defense and Coronet Films, they are designed to show young men what to expect from their period of service and after they complete the tour. They resulted from studies that showed many boys were confused as to what they ought to do before going into service and what the results of such duty would be. Here are some scenes taken from the 14 short films which have been produced in the project.

MORAL standards, the films urge, should keep a man proud to write to his family.

COMRADESHIP can be one of the most important elements of military service, the films indicate. It can help self-reliance and sense of responsibility.

PRIDE in the uniform goes with pride of country, is one of the film themes. The best preparation for service is good citizenship before and after military training.

Mrs. Walter Rogers Writes Special Stories for News-Times Port Edition

Writing special articles for THE NEWS-TIMES port and progress edition to appear in conjunction with the formal opening of Morehead City port is Mrs. Walter Rogers of 103 S. 11th st., Morehead City.

Mrs. Rogers is the second of 10 children born to Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Swarringer of Concord, N. C. Born in 1930, she went to school at Concord, having survived a Konk on the head with a horseshoe at the age of 4.

Mrs. Rogers believes that being hit on the head with a horseshoe has brought her luck but she doesn't recommend it as a general practice. The bongin' on the noggin happened one day while one of her brothers and a friend were pitching horseshoes.

"Now don't you run between us," she was warned, but by that time 4-year-old Frances had already started across the path of flying horseshoes and she stopped one with the middle of her forehead. For three weeks she was cross-eyed. But the doctor assured her parents that her eyes would straighten themselves out and they did.

Aside from practically throwing her hip out of joint while playing basketball in high school, Frances has sailed through life without major mishap. She was a member of the high school yearbook staff, National Honor society, and student government. Following graduation in June 1948 she entered Brevard Junior college in the fall, completing the two-year course. She was a member of Phi Theta Kappa, an honor society which is the Junior college equivalent of Phi Beta Kappa, was president of the foreign language honorary, Sigma Pi Alpha, edited the twice-monthly college paper, The Clarion, and in addition to all that worked part-time as secretary to the registrar.

It was at Brevard that Frances met her husband, Walter Rogers, now a lieutenant in the Marine corps. A native of Atlanta, Ga., he was editing the paper when she reported for work on the Clarion. Frances went from reporter to feature editor and eventually to editor. She was also secretary to the Glee club during both her years at Brevard and occasionally worked for Johnny Anderson of The Transylvania Times, Brevard weekly.

Her husband, following graduation from junior college, enrolled in the University of North Carolina where he majored in journalism. After graduation from high school, he served 20 months in the Navy, then joined the Naval Reserve, transferring to the Marine Air Reserve in July 1949.

When the Korean war started, he was called to active duty but was granted deferment to finish school. In the fall of his senior year he and Frances were married. Upon graduation from Brevard, Frances served as secretary to the pastor of the Forest Hill Methodist church, Concord, until her marriage.

Lieutenant Rogers, a radar control officer, received his commission in September 1951. He and Mrs. Rogers came to Morehead City Feb. 1, 1952 when the lieutenant was assigned to Cherry Point.

"We like the climate here," declares Mrs. Rogers, "and are especially looking forward to the summer months." She expects her sister, Maxine, a sophomore at High Point college, to visit with them this summer. Maxine is a member of the High Point college choir which gave a concert last month at Beaufort school.

Mrs. Rogers' brother, M. D., jr., who preceded her in the large family, is serving with the Army in Germany, and another brother, Buford, is in the Marine corps, stationed at Quantico.

The majority of the stories to appear in THE NEWS-TIMES port and progress edition on business concerns in the county will be the work of Mrs. Rogers. Not only is she an excellent writer, she's pretty too!

Locked Convertibles Pose No Problem for Dalmatian

Denver—(AP)—Patches, a Dalmatian, much prefers a convertible to any other model of automobile. When the doors are locked and the windows are closed, a conscientious dog can eat his way out of — or into — a convertible.

Patches has done this three times, even though his owner, Mrs. J. B. Modest, sewed pockets filled with black pepper to the inside of the fabric after the second assault.

This gave everybody riding in the car fits of sneezes for a few days and didn't prevent Patches from eating his way into the car when he again found it shut tight one day. After that Mrs. Modest had all of the fabric within Patches' reach covered with copper screening.

'Horn in the West' To Open at Boone June 27

Boone, N. C.—Kermit Hunter's new outdoor drama, "Horn in the West," opening a summer-long run at Boone June 27, marks a new development in the outdoor drama form, according to Samuel Selden, director of the play and head of the department of dramatic art at the University of North Carolina.

Instead of a dozen scenes tied together with narration, the new script follows the movie technique in weaving some 40 separate scenes together in a play which moves without pause from stage to stage of the outdoor Daniel Boone theatre. The narrator's voice is used only at the beginning and end of the drama.

This will mark the first time in the history of the American theatre that this type of writing has been used for an outdoor drama, Selden says.

It is believed that apple trees were taken to England during the period of the Roman occupation.
