Farmers to See Ways to Irrigate

With interest in irrigation at an all-time high in North Carolina as a result of the June heat wave and drought, demonstrations on the use of irrigation equipment will be held at three locations in the state in early August.

The demonstration will be held in Scotland county on Aug. 5, in Warren county on Aug. 6, and in Orange county on Aug. 7. They are being arranged by local county agents and H. M. Ellis, in charge of agricultural engineering work for the State College Extension service. All interested persons are invited.

"Interest in irrigation," Ellis reported this week, "is now at an all-time high as a result of the hot, dry spell in June. We have been swamped with requests for information on the subject, and dealers who handle irrigation equipment also report unusually high interest."

Persons attending the demonstration will have an opportunity to hear discussions on irrigation, ask questions, and see various-sized units in operation. They also will be able to obtain a general idea of what an irrigation system for their own farm would cost.

Flying furiously through Carteret county over the weekend were tales of a child being bitten by a snake at Atlantic Beach, with death resulting from the snake bites.

THE NEWS-TIMES has checked and re-checked all channels and has found no verification for the rumors.

Mayor A. B. Cooper of Atlantic Beach stated that such an accident had not occurred at the beach, and M. A. Sly and Earl Kultz, managers of the amusement rides at Atlantic Beach, said there is no truth whatever in the stories.

According to the general rumor, a 4-year-old child was placed in one of the cars on a miniature train ride Thursday afternoon. The child began to scream and when it was taken off the ride, it was found to have been bitten by a rattlesnake which was in the car. The rumor further runs that the youngster died before it got to the hospital.

THE NEWS-TIMES brands the rumor completely false on the basis that the Carteret county coroner, Leslie Springle, who is required to investigate all accidental deaths, has not had a case in the past week; none of the Carteret county undertakers have had a call to move a child's body or arrange for a funeral for the child; and although it would be advantageous for businessmen at the beach to keep such information from the general public, THE NEWS-TIMES accepts as truth the reports by the mayor and operators of the rides to the effect that no child has been bitten by a snake there.

Mayor Cooper said that as far as he can determine, an accident involving a child and a snake is alleged to have occurred at another place called Atlantic Beach. There are other beaches by that name along the Atlantic coast.

Persons have claimed to have read accounts "in the paper." If such a story were printed in newspapers, the reader failed to read the dateline beyond the words "Atlantic Beach." If "Fla." or "S. C." followed "Atlantic Beach," the state designation was ignored.

At this point, if such an accident occurred at Atlantic Beach, North Carolina, we want the body of the child produced and a death certificate stating that death was caused by snake bite.

Trailer Burns Sunday Morning At Mansfield

The trailer owned by Guy Avery, Morehead City route 1, burned to the ground at 8:30 Sunday morning. The trailer was located in the back yard of the home the Avery's rent from the M. L. Mansfields at Mansfield.

It was reported that Avery went into the trailer to light the gas stove to heat water for cleaning chickens that he didn't want to clean in the house. He lit the stove and put the water on and left the trailer. Just a few minutes later, an explosion ripped through the trailer and flames burst out. It is believed that the gas stove exploded.

Both the Morehead City fire department and Newport rural fire truck answered the alarm. The water system, hose and hydrants at the nearby Mansfield lumber mill were used to control the fire. Nearby pine trees caught fire, and those flames were put out. The trailer, however, could not be saved. Its value was estimated at $1,500.

Avery operates a shooting gallery at Atlantic Beach.

Library Committee To Collect Books On 'Big 5 Day'

Finer Carolina Contest Committee Seeks New Volumes for Library

Jimmy Wallace, chairman of the Finer Carolina library improvement committee, Morehead City, announced today that the committee has set next Tuesday, July 22, for collection of recent books to add to the Webb Memorial civic center library.

Tuesday, July 22, will be "Big 5 Day." The goal of the committee is 500 recently published books on the following subjects: philosophy, psychology, religion, poetry, chemistry, physics, botany, useful arts, aviation, radio, home economics, child care, boat building.

Books for children ages 6 to 16, books of fiction for adults, books on travel, amusements, sports, games, English grammar, shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, gardening, flowers, plays, history, reference books, current history, and fishing.

The library committee is seeking books published within the past few years. Wallace said that this is not a campaign to help people get rid of old books, but a drive to put a new variety of recent books on the library shelves.

Beginning today persons who have books to contribute should phone the chamber of commerce office, 6-3404, and give their name and address. The books will be collected next Tuesday by members of the library committee.

If anyone prefers to give money for the purchase of a book, they may do so and will be given the privilege of writing in the front of the book a message of dedication or a statement to the effect that the book has been placed in the library in memory of a deceased person.

Wallace said that, proportionately, the committee is seeking more children's books and fiction for adults than the other types.

Chamber Hears Report on Ads

Members of the board of directors of the Morehead City chamber of commerce, the advisory council, and chairmen of committees heard reports at a recent meeting on the results of chamber of commerce advertising.

They were shown a table full of coupons clipped from chamber of commerce ads in upstate newspapers, a table piled with letters received during June asking definite information on types of recreation at Morehead City, and 225 requests for fishing and hotel information.

J. A. DuBois, chamber of commerce manager, said that every inquiry is answered immediately by letter, color brochure, directory, maps, special mimeographed pamphlet, or by long distance phone.

During a membership and finance discussion it was shown that in 1951 150 members contributed $8,000, an average of $54 per member. To reach the $9,500 budget for the current year would require a membership of 380, with each giving $25, it was pointed out.

DuBois said that cost of servicing members in 1951 was $23.80 per member which does not include salaries, advertising or printing.

"Your chamber of commerce is a department of your business," the manager commented. "Uncle Sam knows it. He exempts your contribution from taxation."

Frank Nance, Farm Labor Supervisor Comments on Need for Hired Labor

Carteret county produced about $1,500,000 worth of truck crops in 1952 that were harvested by hired labor. The county used over 1,200 migrant laborers this year along with 400 local laborers to harvest a record truck crop as to dollar value, announced Frank Nance, farm labor supervisor.

"Farm labor is a critical factor in your life and mine," declared Nance. "It has a direct effect on us whether we be consumer or grower or any one of the many other persons connected directly or indirectly with the using of and the results from farm labor, he continued."

"As a consumer we know that it is to our advantage both from a health standpoint and a financial standpoint to secure the products we need to maintain a high standard of living at the lowest possible cost. The farm products that go on the nation's table can either raise or lower the health standards of the nation. To each of us our health is a personal thing to be maintained and guarded at all cost. The more we know about how the proper diet will aid us in this search for good health the more we demand a variety of foods.

Roy J. Keller Serves on FHA

Roy J. Keller, route 1 Beaufort, has been appointed to membership on the Carteret County Farmers Home Administration committee for a three-year term. He succeeds Leland H. Morris, who on June 30 completed a regular three-year period of service.

Other members of the committee are Lawrence A. Garner, Newport, and Allen J. Vinson, Pelletier.

These appointments are made by the secretary of agriculture, stated I. M. Robbins, Farmers Home administration supervisor. Robbins says the services of these committees are indispensable to this USDA agency. They determine the eligibility of loan applicants, certify those who are qualified for assistance, and appraise both the value of farms and their suitability for individual families.

In fact, a favorable recommendation or certification is a prerequisite to making every loan of any type, he added.

Theodore Shoemaker, New York, was found guilty yesterday on charges of breaking and entering Mobley Buick company and Sound Chevrolet company, Morehead City, and was ordered to serve 60 days on the roads on each count, the terms to run concurrently.

Shoemaker was tried before Judge George McNeill in Morehead City recorder's court.

According to police reports, Shoemaker, with an accomplice, a young boy under 16, went into the car lot next to Sound Chevrolet late Saturday night. They parked their car, a 1947 Oldsmobile, by the fence and went in the fenced enclosure.

As they were coming out they were surprised by Will Hill, colored night watchman. In their hands they had a tire, wheel, jack, jack wrench, and other automobile paraphernalia. Hill told them to stop and leave the lot.

The two ran and he shot at them with his .22 rifle, preventing them from taking their car. About half an hour later, Shoemaker turned up at the police station and told Patrolman Guy Springle that his car had been stolen. Soon Hill reported to the police what had happened at the car lot and the police decided to hold Shoemaker without bond.

Shoemaker offered at one time to make a clean breast of everything if the police would let him go, but the officers refused. Shoemaker's accomplice has been remanded to juvenile court.

The Oldsmobile is being held by police. Capt. Buck Newsome discovered in the car Sunday several chrome tire rims and it was learned from Shoemaker that he had stolen those at Mobley Buick before going into the Sound Chevrolet lot.
