Three Hostesses Honor Miss Marjorie Ann Stone

Miss Marjorie Ann Stone, bride-elect, was honored at a party Saturday afternoon given by Mrs. L. A. Daniels, Mrs. R. C. Jones and Mrs. Jack Morgan at the home of Mrs. Daniels. The home was beautifully decorated with yellow flowers and the table had an arrangement of yellow candles and flowers. The honoree was presented with a corsage of rose buds centered in a lavender gladioli. Her mother, Mrs. Vernon Guthrie, received a similar corsage of yellow flowers. The hostesses served the 50 guests sandwiches, nuts, mints, cup cakes and iced drinks.

Recent Visitor to Morehead City Wins $1,200 in National Contest

Miss Katherine Smith of Thomasville, Ga., a recent guest of Miss Ann Garner, Morehead City, was the second place winner in a contest sponsored by a nationally known tea company early this summer.

Miss Smith, 15 years old, entered a contest in which she was to tell why she likes ice cream made from a mix sold by the tea company.

While Katherine was visiting in Morehead City, her mother in Thomasville, Ga., answered a long distance call from Atlanta. The call was to inform Katherine that she had won $1,200. The company sent a representative from the Richmond, Va., office to see her here in Morehead City.

She received a check for $1,000 and another one for $200 for using an official entry blank. When the agent asked Katherine what she expected to do with the money, she promptly replied, "apply it on my college education." She also received a letter of congratulation from the president of the company.

Mrs. Walter Morris Honors Bride-elect Friday Morning

Mrs. Walter Morris was hostess at a party Friday morning for Miss Marjorie Ann Stone, who will be married August 20 to Harry Wynne Shelton of Fuquay Springs. Table decorations consisted of a fountain with white gladioli floating in it, white candles and fern. The bride-elect was presented with a white corsage and a lemon fork in her chosen pattern of silver. The hostess served the twenty guests cheese biscuits, open face sandwiches, lady fingers, nuts, potato chips and iced drinks.

TEEN TALK

BY VIVIAN BROWN

How're you gonna act down on the farm—or for that matter at that seashore or lakeside resort?

Vacation time brings new problems. We must adjust to new friends and their routine or we'll not have any fun.

Before going to any vacation resort you should read resort literature carefully. From that you can get an idea how to dress: whether evening dresses are worn every night at dinner or just on Saturday nights; what kind of sports clothes to bring; whether the atmosphere is casual or formal.

Pack your traveling bag neatly so that you do not make a bad impression at first glance. Shoulder straps and belts shouldn't be trailing from your bag. And don't carry surplus clothing over your arms. A coat or jacket which you've been wearing on a chilly train, plane or bus can of course be carried.

If parents are not vacationing with you, consult them as to tipping before you go away. Fifteen per cent is about usual, and as always the etiquette is a minimum of 25 cents should be left whenever you are served at a table. At resorts most people prefer to tip at the end of their stay. You usually will get the same table each day (and the same waitress) so tip her at your convenience.

Chambermaids are tipped by most people, particularly if they've performed extra little tasks such as pressing a dress or sewing a hem. But don't demand favors. Most maids are busy and your extra tasks must be done in their spare time.

Try to avoid being the extra girl on a party. If a group asks you along to an evening of dancing or fun away from your hotel, don't thrust yourself upon them on future evenings. Most people have a vacation budget, and although they would like to invite you along, the exchequer doesn't always permit it. You should know the difference between a chicken and a duck before you set out for the country. If the nearest you've been to a pig is a pork chop, you'd better get hep to farm animals. But that's not nearly so important as making up your mind to fall in with the farm routine.

Mandy or Grandma might produce a heavenly peach pie or a juicy batch of biscuits, but there is work in peeling and pitting peaches and mixing up a batter. A farm is fun, but there are endless chores, and you'd better be prepared to help.

If you're visiting a farm family, you'll know better than to bring a lot of fancy dresses. Jeans and blouses or shirts with a couple of Sunday dresses will see you through your visit. Don't go to a farm with the idea that you'll show the country girls how to dress. They know. It's just that they haven't time, and they are not interested in impressing anyone, except on special occasions.

As soon as you arrive, find out what time the household gets up in the morning and what time they tell you to sleep late, you should be on hand when breakfast is served. No cook—paid or lady of the house—enjoys cooking breakfast all morning.

Ask them to give you a set chore to do unless you want to pitch in to do unless you want to pitch in each day on a new task. If they can do early in the morning such as milking the cow, feeding the chicks or cooking the breakfast. Then you'll have the rest of the day to loaf unless there are eggs to be candied or chickens to be plucked.

If you haven't been invited to a farm vacation this year, try to plan one for next summer. You'll love the early-to-bed routine, delicious food and the wholesome atmosphere of the outdoor life. If you can't arrange a vacation any other way, put an ad in a farm journal or newspaper in the area you'd like to visit, suggesting your services as a farm hand. You won't get much pay, but you'll have a barrel of apples.

Tree 'Measles' Harmless Declares Entomologist

Columbus, Ohio—(AP)—There's really no cause to worry if your silver maple tree looks like it is coming down with the measles, says T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at Ohio State university.

"Maple bladder galls" is the correct name for numerous little bumps appearing on silver maple leaves this spring, he says. The globular-shaped galls appear on the upper surface of the leaves and are green at first. Later they turn red and then almost black. They are caused by microscopic mites.

The damage is so small that most authorities question the value of control measures, Parks says.
