Hollywood

Hollywood — The late composer Dick Whiting left a heritage of wonderful tunes — "Till We Meet Again," "My Ideal," "She's Funny That Way," etc. — and two remarkable daughters.

The elder, Margaret, has branched out in the past 14 months from radio and record singer to theatre and night club star in big towns and small. And she's developed a "bigger" singing voice as exemplified on her latest record, "Alone Together" and "Outside of Heaven."

Her kid sister, Barbara, a slim 21, has left the "Junior Miss" stage of movie actress and feels she's starting a brand new career in Esther Williams' current picture at M-G-M.

Margaret (Maggie) Whiting was resting at her hillside home the other day. Her 2-year-old daughter, Debbie, played happily in a tiny plastic swimming pool. Her husband, composer-conductor Lou Busch, known at the piano as Joe (Fingers) Carr, was on a business visit to New York. Many of their professional appearances are together.

How does she like her new life on the road? "I love it," Maggie said. "It's made a pretty good performer out of me. You get a puffed-up sense of your own importance here and in New York. The real people are out there" — she indicated the towns in between. "You find out that whether the wheat crop comes in is more important than whether you have a hit record."

What are folks' music preferences today? "Ballads are back, and girl singers are back," the blue-eyed, blonde singer replied. "Two years ago the biggest singers were male — Tony Martin, Perry Como, Frankie Lane. Patti Page brought the girls back into popularity with 'Tennessee Waltz.'"

"Ella Mae Morse made a hit with 'Blacksmith Blues,' Kay Starr with

'Wheel of Fortune,' Jo Stafford with 'Shrimp Boats,' Peggy Lee with 'Lover,' Rosemary Clooney with 'Half as Much' and 'Botch-a-Me.'

Maggie picked up a trade paper and noted that eight of 10 most popular current songs are ballads. "A year ago, you couldn't sell a ballad. It was 'Mule Train' and 'Cry of the Wild Goose.' Novelty songs. Now people are sentimental again. Everybody has carried a torch; everybody's a daydreamer."

Bred in Emotional Turmoil

The two youngsters in Ward-Krasna's highly emotional drama, "Clash by Night," live in a turmoil of half-understood clashes, which are stimulated by the marital problems of the boy's sister. Marilyn Monroe portrays the girl, and Keith Andes, making his screen bow, plays the rough and ready suitor. Co-starring with the lovely Marilyn are Barbara Stanwyck, Paul Douglas and Robert Ryan. RKO Radio distributes.

he said, "I do not quite know what to say. Sir, what would you say if you were in my place?" he asked a lawyer nearby.

The magistrate smiled. "Tell me," he addressed the old man, "what would you say if you were in my place?" In a flash came the answer: "Old man you are discharged." And he was.
