

Migrant Labor Employers Reminded of Health Rules

A letter to all county farmers who plan to employ migrant laborers for the fall harvest has been sent from the office of the county health officer, Dr. N. Thos. Ennett.

Dr. Ennett reminds farmers that it is generally understood that the better the living conditions, the easier it is to secure an efficient type of laborer; in other words, good laborers go only where living conditions are good.

The letter, sent from the health department, follows:

Carteret county health department sanitation and health regulations required in connection with migrant laborers:

1. A safe water supply.
2. A safe excreta disposal, which means at least a sanitary privy or better. These facilities are to be provided separately for each sex.
3. Clean building adequately screened.
4. A safe method of garbage disposal. This means a metal can of sufficient size and with a fly tight top, and that the contents of the can be properly disposed of, such as burying or placed on some approved dump.
5. No migrant-labor headquarters or housing facility may be occupied without first securing a permit from the Carteret county health department.
6. A health certificate showing that the worker is free of a venereal disease or other contagious disease. This certificate can be had free at the health department.

The letter is signed by Ennett as Carteret county health officer.

Beaufort School Entered, Rifled

The Beaufort Graded school was entered Wednesday night.

Awaiting trial on the charge of breaking and entering the school is a colored man giving his name and address as George Green, 816 Davis st., Raleigh.

When school custodian Albert Copes went to work Wednesday morning about 5:45 he noticed that the transom near the lunchroom door had been tampered with.

He looked through the rooms and found the man who gave his name as Green in the third grade room. Copes held him until officials could arrive.

School Principal Bruce Tarkington says that some fruit cake and bologna had been taken from the lunchroom.

Green is in the county jail on $300 bond. The case will be heard in the county recorder's court on Tuesday.

Cigarette Causes Auto Accident

A Morehead City woman was involved in an accident Monday afternoon when she dropped a cigarette as she was driving east on Bridges street.

Mrs. Josephine Floyd Smith, 1215 Shackelford ave., told police that when she bent down to pick up the cigarette she struck the side of a car operated by George Daniel Phillips, 907 Bridges st., Morehead City.

New Signals Are Operating

Morehead City's new traffic lights are in operation. The new lights were installed last Friday.

The lights have built-in reflectors designed to keep the sun from shining through the lights. The old lights in Morehead City had often confused motorists because the sun shining through them had made it impossible to tell whether the lights were showing red or green.

The new lights are a special boon to the color blind. The red is always at the top and the green light shows at the bottom. Even the color blind can determine which light is showing because of the position of the colors.

Harlowe Mother Gets Letter from Chaplain

Mrs. Winnie C. Johnson of Harlowe received the following letter recently from Chaplain James L. Hayes, USAF.

Dear Mrs. Johnson: As the first anniversary of your son's death approaches, I am honored to be able to write you concerning his fine qualities and the deep appreciation which the Air Force feels for his faithful service prior to his death.

John typified the type of man which we like to have in the Air Force. He did his job well and was always on time. He was courteous on or off the job and very attentive to his duty.

His quiet conscientious manner and his consideration for others made him very popular among his fellow airmen. He is remembered by all those who knew him and his commanding officers have spoken to me of his fine qualities and loyalty to the Air Force.

You have every reason to be proud of your son's fine record in the United States Air Force. Yours sincerely, James L. Hayes, Chaplain, (1st Lt.) USAF.

Movie Shown For Beaufort Rotary

The Beaufort Rotary club was entertained with a musical movie, "Waves of Green," at a meeting in the Inlet Inn Tuesday night. The show, presented by Rotarian Bob Williams, demonstrated how science and engineering, working in cooperation with land grant colleges, and the department of agriculture, have brought about a "better way of life" for the American farmer.

A section of the movie dealt with the apple industry in the northwest, and the economic hardships encountered by the fruit growers because their geographic location was such that producers in other apple growing areas flooded the markets before the northwestern farmers could market their fruit. It revealed how science came to the aid of these farmers by discovering that the northwestern area was ideally suited for the production of pears.

Symphony Group Continues Work

The preliminary canvass of businessmen in the drive for funds for the Little Symphony continues this week.

Businessmen in Morehead City are receiving letters from Miss Elizabeth Lambeth this week asking that they take memberships in the Little Symphony. Businessmen will be personally contacted after the letters are received.

Mrs. Dick Parker is contacting businessmen in Beaufort.

The actual drive for funds will not open until Nov. 3. The goal for this year is $1200. If that amount can be obtained, the group sponsoring the Little Symphony this year plans to present two children's concerts.

In the past two concerts have been presented, one for adults and one for children. However, all children wishing to attend have not been able to do so because of limited seating space. If the goal is reached this year, two concerts, one in Beaufort and one in Morehead City, will be presented so that all children can be accommodated.

The Little Symphony is made up of a portion of the players of the North Carolina Symphony. This group is made available for concerts in areas which are not able to support performances by the big symphony but which wish to present concerts of high caliber.

The Little Symphony drive is being made this year by interested citizens who love good music and who want their children to have the advantage of hearing fine musical organizations.

Glen Adair, Beaufort, is heading the workers this year.

County Fair Attracts Many

The Carteret county fair is in progress and will continue through Saturday night.

White school children attended the fair as guests on Wednesday afternoon and colored school children attended on Thursday afternoon.

Exhibits at the fair are attracting a good deal of interest from visitors. All the schools in the county are showing exhibits at the fair. The exhibits are the work of the students in the various schools.

Exhibits were judged on Tuesday by Miss Jola Pritchard and A. T. Jackson.

Five home demonstration booths were judged. Russell's Creek club took the blue ribbon for a booth showing the improvements at Russell's Creek church during the last year. Second place was won by North River with a booth showing hand-made furniture and curtains, dressing table skirt, chair slipcover, dust ruffle for the bed, and lamp shades made from feed sacks. All the other furnishing in the booth were also home-made.

X-Ray Trailer To Visit County

A state tuberculosis x-ray trailer will be in Morehead City on Nov. 5, 6, and 7, according to Dr. N. Thos. Ennett, county health officer. Dr. Ennett says that Dr. W. A. Smith, director of the state board of health tuberculosis division, will send the trailer to the county and it will be set up on Arendell st.

The Little Symphony drive is being made this year by interested citizens who love good music and who want their children to have the advantage of hearing fine musical organizations.

Glen Adair, Beaufort, is heading the workers this year.

All patients referred by a physician, all patients having symptoms of tuberculosis, and all persons who are "contacts," that is, living in the home of a tuberculosis patient, are eligible for free x-ray.

The health officer urges that all persons eligible for free x-ray visit the trailer clinic on this visit as there is no assurance as to just when Carteret county can get another trailer clinic.

Dr. Ennett says that the fear of x-ray should not keep anyone away from the trailer.

The health officer reminds Carteret countians that early diagnosis is the only salvation for tuberculosis. Early discovery, he says, means early recovery.

Tomorrow is the last day for registration for voting in the November general election.

The polling places in the various precincts will be open tomorrow from 9 a.m. to sundown.

F. R. Seeley, chairman of the Carteret county board of elections says that some 250 persons registered in this county last week. He reports also that the county registration list shows about 500 new registrants more than usual.

Seeley says that interest in the coming election continues great and that in some cases people who have not voted for the last two or three elections are showing interest by inquiring as to their registration and many have expressed a resolution to vote this year.

The chairman of the elections board also reports that there has been a great demand for absentee ballots. More than 275 absentee ballots have been sent to servicemen from this county and about half of those have been returned. He believes that fully 90 per cent will come in by election day.

Civilian absentee ballots have already passed the 100 mark and, according to Seeley, will probably go up to 350 if past experience proves correct.

Seeley emphasizes that any voter who is unable to reach the polls by reason of illness is entitled to an absentee ballot as well as any person who will be out of the county on election day.

A large number of voters, he says, often find that because of good weather conditions, they will be fishing and these persons, on proper application, may be issued an absentee ballot. If they are not then absent on election day, the absentee ballot is returned unopened and they are permitted to vote directly as usual.

The county elections board chairman urges that all unregistered voters take advantage of this last opportunity to register for the general election Nov. 4.

Aid to Dependent Children Program Benefits Society

Ninety-six families in Carteret county received aid to dependent children during September, according to Miss George Hughes, county welfare superintendent.

The 96 families represents about 351 persons. Average payment for the month of September was $47.41 per person.

Aid to dependent children (ADC) is one of the three programs of public assistance provided by the county department of public welfare from county, state, and federal funds. The other two are old age assistance and aid to the permanently and totally disabled. Public assistance is one phase only but an important phase of public welfare, according to Miss Hughes. Many non-financial services are also given by the welfare department in addition to the administration of the three public assistance programs.

In the 1952-53 public welfare budget of Carteret county, a total of $69,294.00 is set up for aid to dependent children. Only about one-seventh ($9,324) of this amount comes from county taxes and the remainder ($59,940) from state and federal funds.

Aid to dependent children is given for the benefit of needy children in their homes when they have been deprived of parental support or care by reason of death, continued absence from home, or physical or mental incapacity of one or both parents.

Types of family situations which occasion the need for ADC grants include: needy families where the father is serving a prison term, needy families where the father has deserted the mother and children, situations where the father is ill and unable to work to make a living for his family, and other similar situations. Upon the return of the father or upon his recovery from illness, the aid may be continued for a very limited time to
