Mrs. Zeb Mauney Tells of Karabeth

(Editor's Note: Karabeth Mauney is 7 years old. She lives with he mother and father at Newport. Because she has cerebral palsy, her life and the life of her parents has been different than that in other families. Beginning in this issue of THE NEWS-TIMES, Karabeth's mother tells their story).

What was my decision? My beautiful world came tumbling down. My happiness was a brittle shell and it had been smashed. I watch ed the clock just outside my door -time passed so slowly. I thought Mother and Zeb would never come. At last they came. I told them the sad news. Zeb went to pieces and Mother cried. We talked it over. In the meantime Karabeth put in the big incubator and had taken a little nourishment and seemed a little stronger. We decided to take the chance.

Preparations were made to make the trip to Wilmington. Zeb went home to Newport, got all the baby blankets and my Daddy. Karabeth was put in a basket filled with hot water bottles and blankets. I could not see her before they took her away.

The car was just below my win dow. I sat up in bed and watched them put the basket in the car. It looked like a little casket to me and I felt I would never see Kara-Mother and Daddy came from and I felt I would never see Kara-Virginia. I was so happy, I felt I beth again. Daddy and a nurse

With eyes as clear and as blue as a summer sky, and a smile as bright as the sunshine, Karabeth pauses at the foot of the stairs. She can go either up or down alone, supporting herself by touching the railings and wall with her hands or using one crutch as a support. She has come a long way. On Mother's Day 1952 her mother received the greatest gift of her life when she arrived at the Gerebral Palsy , Hospital and saw Karabeth, walking alone, coming to greet her.

Of Beaufort Burns; New Truck Proves Value

The new truck purchased by the Beaufort Rural Fire Association was ready for use Saturday and it went into operation within 12 hours when the home owned by John Avery, highway 101, caught fire at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The four room frame house though furnished, was unoccupied at the time. J. P. Harris, Beaufort fire commissioner, said the house was beyond saving but the extra thousand gallons of water on the new truck made it possible to keep water streaming on the blaze every minute after the firemen arrived.

The $3,000 loss is partially cov-red by insurance. The house was ocated four miles north of Beaufort. A passing motorist saw the flames and phoned L. D. Springle, chairman of the Beaufort Rural Fire Association.

Phones Fire Department

Mr. Springle telephoned the fire department at 2.45 a.m. and five minutes later the firemen were on the scene. Roma Willis, engineer, driving the town truck, arrived first and Clarence Davis Jr. driving the new truck, got there a few ninutes later.
