Fire Rules

ment give them an accurate location of the fire.

Your cooperation can mean the saving of property from loss or severe damage by fire. By following the above rules you can help firemen make the community a better and safer place to live.

Firemen ask little in return for their services. They do not expect to be patted on the back for their deeds. They are proud to be a part of a team, knowing that they are helping their fellowmen in time of need.

Look to Prevention

No fire department wants to fight fires. What they are interested in is preventing fires. Help prevent fires from starting.

Preventing most fires is easy. A little time and effort on the home-maker's part will do. The following precautions should help in your effort to prevent fires.

1. Check your furnace or space heater regularly. Never leave it unattended until it is burning properly.
2. Practice good housekeeping in your home and business.
3. Don't let rubbish, oily rags, dust and dirt accumulate in out-of-the-way places.

4. Never burn leaves or other refuse near buildings.

5. Have your electrical wiring checked periodically to make sure it is well insulated and safe.

6. Store your inflammable material such as paint, paint thinner, oily rags and rubbish in metal containers well away from your buildings when possible.

7. Abide by all No Smoking signs. If it were not dangerous to smoke in these areas the signs would not be there.

8. Never smoke in bed.

9. Have ample ventilation when using cleaning fluid, or other explosive material, and toxic grease.

10. Don't put off the job until tomorrow that can be done today. Tomorrow might be too late.

Child Stricken

Only one child in the county, Carolyn Joyce Davis, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Davis, Morehead City, was stricken with infantile paralysis during 1953. The Carteret County chapter is still financing the cost of treatment, fitting of braces and other services required by 19 children stricken by polio in 1952 and prior.

Carolyn was taken sick the latter part of July but her illness was not diagnosed as polio until Sept. 1, when her mother took her to the Marine Hospital at Norfolk. (Mr. Davis was stationed in Norfolk.)

Carolyn was discharged Dec. 5 and returned to her home in Morehead City at 1202 Shackleford Ave., the following day. Mrs. Davis reported yesterday that Carolyn was taken to Norfolk Saturday for examination and the doctor said the braces could be taken out of her shoes for one month and at the end of that time she should be brought back to the hospital for another examination.

Expenses About $150

Cost of sponsoring the March of Dimes campaign in the county the past month is not expected to exceed $150. Mrs. C. L. Beam, treasurer, said yesterday. Approximately $136 of that amount is for supplies for conducting the campaign, the remainder is for postage and other miscellaneous items.

The net profit this year will be split three ways. One-third stays in the county, one third will go toward financing the gamma globulin tests on 2,000,000 school children this year and one-third will go to National headquarters to carry on its regular program of epidemic aid, research, professional and public education.

Down Our Way

By JAMES G. WHITEHURST

There is a large new concrete block and brick home being built by G. H. McCain in the Newport section between the trailer camp and the bridge, on the left hand side of highway 70 when you are on your way toward Morehead City.

The McCains are using Clearview Louvered Windows in the place of the primary windows that have been being used in this section before the advent of this view.

Those of you who are skeptical about whether Clearview Louvered Windows are practical, insofar as keeping out the cold winter winds, should talk with Dr. D. A. Jackson, of Winston-Salem. When Doctor and Mrs. Jackson built their home four years ago, the architect (bless his soul!) advised them to use Clearview Louvered Windows throughout the home — forty-three windows of them! The Jacksons, like many of our readers, were skeptical about the weather-tightness of Clearview, so when they placed the order for their Clearview Windows, they also ordered storm-sash frames to match and had them glazed and stored for winter use. That was four winters ago, and the storm sash have never replaced the screens in the windows — and the home has been easy to heat, so say the Jacksons.

Those of you who are contemplating louvered glass windows for primary windows in your home or for porch enclosures, should look for TWO features when you go to select your windows:

FIRST: Check the tightness of the fit between the louvers, and whether the window is properly weatherstripped or not. We have seen some nondescript louvered windows that have been installed here in Carteret County that could have a one-eighth inch piece of cardboard dropped between the louvers when they were "closed". Not much winter protection here, eh?

SECOND: Ordinary aluminum frames — the kind that is used in practically all makes of louvered windows, except in Clearview — will not hold up in this salty, damp atmosphere. So-called "alodized" frames will not hold up here either, because this is merely a SURFACE treatment, and therefore not permanent.

The frames of Clearview Louvered Glass Windows are made throughout of a special alloy, 63S-T5, which prevents destructive corrosion, because the entire frame is made of this alloy, not just SURFACE-treated. Uncle Sam uses this alloy in the construction of his "planes, because of its ability to ward off corrosion. The "Little White House" on wind-swept Key West was fitted with Clearview Louvered Glass Windows in 1949, and they are still in excellent condition.

We can save you money if you will let us show you Clearview Louvered Glass Windows before you buy. Investigate. . . .

Mr. A. F. Fleming, of Grimesland, is now completing the first large unit of his motel at Atlantic Beach. We installed his Venetian Blinds last Wednesday. Mr. Fleming purchased Venetians from us two years ago for his home on Atlantic Beach, and liked them so well that he got us to manufacture the ones for his motor court. Mr. Fleming intends to build another ten-room unit this spring, that will face the unit he is now completing. Two of Mr. Fleming's sons built and are operating FLEMING'S near the new beach bridge.

Folks have turned more to canvas awning jobs in the past week, signaling the closeness of Spring. We are now completing a whole house of awnings for M/Sgt. and Mrs. L. B. Hughes, 208 Stratford Road, Jacksonville. They selected a green-and-grey stripe that will add much to the beauty of their house during the coming season.

Don't forget our WIN CASH WHEN YOU TRADE WITH WHITEHURST CONTEST that is now underway. You get a ticket with each dollar of merchandise purchased, and you do not have to be present to win. Contest closes with the drawing at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 27th. First Prize $300; Second Prize $200; and Third Prize $100. Make your purchases early so that you will be eligible for this contest.

We are getting ready to install a roller-type awning on The Fashion Shoppe in Beaufort. The cover will of course be canvas, but you will be pleasantly surprised at the color styling. It will be charcoal-and-black-striped . . . five-and-a-half-inch chartruse and a two-inch black stripe. An ideal combination for The Fashion Shoppe.

Hubby: That hat was $75? Where are the holes?
Wife: What holes?
Hubby: Why the holes for the ears of a jackass that'd pay $75 for that hat!
