

170 Book Passage on Stockholm; Doctors' Cruise Open to Everyone

The SS Stockholm will sail from Morehead City in October. The cruise to Caribbean is open to anyone even though it is being arranged as the annual session of North Carolina doctors.

Plans for the 1954 meeting of the North Carolina Academy of General Practice, to be held during a cruise to Havana and Nassau, are rapidly taking shape, according to Dr. John R. Bender of Winston-Salem, the executive secretary.

The cruise will be in charge of the Allen Travel Service of New York. H. H. Allen, president, reports that 170 persons booked passage through last week. This means, he said, that the ship is almost half-filled. He emphasized the importance of making reservations early.

An important point emphasized by those in charge of the cruise is that, while it is being sponsored by the North Carolina Academy of General Practice, all who wish to make the trip are invited to do so. In 1939, the North Carolina State Medical Society met on a cruise to Bermuda and return. Many who were not physicians took the trip.

The cruise will be made on the S. S. Stockholm, Oct. 16-22. The Stockholm, which is the first trans-Atlantic liner ever to be sailed from a North Carolina port, will leave Morehead City Oct. 16 at 2 p. m. and arrive in Havana Oct. 18 at 1 p. m. After an afternoon and night in the Cuban capital, the Stockholm will sail for Nassau at 4 a. m. Oct. 19 and arrive there next morning at 8 o'clock. The ship will dock at Morehead City at 8 a. m. Oct. 22.

The North Carolina Ports Authority is giving its full cooperation to this undertaking on the part of North Carolina physicians. Complete information on the cruise may be had by addressing local physicians and J. D. Holt of the Ports Authority, at Morehead City, Mr. Allen pointed out.

First for North Carolina

Before the last war, small coastal passenger ships sometimes called at North Carolina ports but the Stockholm will be the first trans-Atlantic liner ever to sail from this state. This cruise, according to those in charge, promises to be an outstanding event and the beginning of the use of Morehead City for large ships.

While no deadline has been set for the registration for the forth-

Theatre Group Will Present Play Tonight

The Carteret Community Theatre will present One Foot in Heaven, a three-act comedy, at 8 o'clock tonight in the W. S. King School, auditorium, Morehead City.

The play was originally scheduled to be given there Friday night but because three members of the cast could not have been present that night, the date was changed, Mrs. Wiley Taylor Jr., business manager, announced yesterday.

The play was given before a capacity audience at Atlantic School Friday night. It was sponsored by the Atlantic Methodist Church which netted $235 profit.

Appearing in the place of three original members of the cast were Bill Murill as George, Tressa Vickers as Mrs. Samdow, and Patricia Hill as Maria. These roles in the original cast were played by Jimmie Wheatley, Maureen Downey and Sue Lynch.

The Carteret Community Theatre will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Scout Hut, Beaufort. On the agenda are adoption of a constitution and election of officers.

Pianist Thrills Concert Audience Thursday

Ray Dudley, 22-year-old Canadian concert artist, showed members of the Carteret County Community Concert Thursday night why he has been awarded the Unanimous Medal of the International Competition of Geneva, and the Harriet Eaton Award, Canada's highest musical honor, when he gave a concert at the Morehead City school auditorium.

And the audience saw something different when the young pianist appeared with a crew cut instead of the traditional long hair.

His opening number, Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, by Bach-Hess, gripped the audience so that from then on there were no coughs or rattling programs to distract his listeners.

The first part of his program consisted of Sonata, Op. 53 by Beethoven, Two Etudes, Op. 10 and Op. 25, No. 3, by Chopin and Fantaisie in F minor, Op. 49, by Chopin. As an encore he played a waltz by Chopin.

During the second half of his program he played Excurions, Op. 20 by Barber, a Tango by Guerrero who had taught Mr. Dudley at the Royal Conservatory in Toronto, a Coronation March, which he composed and had recorded, by royal command, for Her Royal Highness, Queen Elizabeth II, and Mephisto Waltz by Liszt.

As encores he played Chopin's Fantaisie Impromptu and a waltz by Chopin.—edp.

Hard Crab Season Opens

The crabs may be taken with trawl nets with bar of not less than two inches for the wings and not less than one and one-half inch bar for the tail bag, providing the trawling does not conflict with trot lining or crab pots. The crab must pass inspection, being culled where they are caught.

Crabs may be taken in any of the channels of Core, Back and Bogue Sounds but NOT below the highway bridge and straits, nor in creeks or bays.

The ruling, as released by the assistant fisheries commissioner, C. Gehrmann Holland, follows:

Two Countians Win $300 Prizes In Contest

Miss Georgina Yeatman, M. L. Simmons Take Two 'First's'

Two Carteret County farmers won first prize in the 1953 Carteret County contest for individual farmer competition. Winners were announced today by the contest sponsor, Carolina Power & Light Co.

Those in Carteret County winning $300 first prizes were Miss Georgina P. Yeatman, operator of the 43,773-acre Open Grounds Farm, and M. L. Simmons of Newport, whose farm totals 37 acres.

Also winning a first place prize of $300 was Hugh Oosterwyke, who runs a 98-acre farm near Castle Hayne.

Marlboro Wins

Marlboro County in South Carolina took $500 for the largest acreage (71,501) entered by any of the 60 eligible counties and also took $500 for the greatest percentage (23.1) of its total acreage participating in the contest.

Winners of second prizes of $200 each were:

J. A. Tingle of Alliance in Pamlico County, with 1,850 acres; Floyd Price Jr., of Pine Level in Johnston County, with 54 acres; and T. S. Foster of route 1 Blanch, in Caswell County, 46 acres.

Winners of third-place prizes of $100 each were:

Rich Gwyn Jr., of Longwood in Brunswick County, with 5,000 acres; R. V. Seegars of route 1 Dallen, S. C., with 88 acres; and R. S. Leonard of Black Mountain in Buncombe County, with 40 acres.

Three Classes

The competition, based on soil and water practices, was divided into three classes based on acreage—farms of 50 acres or less, 51 to 100 acres and 101 acres or more.

Miss Yeatman's huge Open Grounds Farm—once the property of the University of Chicago—racked up a total of 119,667 units. Her farm is so large that the units deducted for bad practices totaled more than all the points scored by some of the winning farmers. But her net stood at 114,625, compared to 22,200 for the nearest rival.

Miss Yeatman scored heavily on woodland conservation and improvement, fencing, pasture development, drainage and cover crops. Upward of 1,500 farmers in the two Carolinas entered a total of almost 500,000 acres of farm lands in the 1953 contest.

Soil and water conservation practices which were considered in the judging included such operations as contour farming, strip-cropping, terracing, drainage, cover crops, pasture, tree planting, wildlife fencing, woodland management and covering. Farms also were judged on the basis of improper practices observed.

County and district conservationists served as local judges, and the final top winners were judged by A. A. Cone of Raleigh and A. F. Ruff of Columbia, S. C., assistant state conservationists.

The farm competition is being repeated in 1954 and Carolina Power & Light is offering another $2,800 in cash awards. Deadline for entering this year's contest is April 1. Rules for the competition were revised this year.

Change Puts Cargo Under 'Dangerous Articles' Rule

Norfolk, Va.—Rear Adm. Russell E. Wood, USCG, commander Fifth Coast Guard District, announced today that the Coast Guard is easing the restrictions that have been in force since 1947 on the shipboard transportation of certain ammonium phosphate fertilizer mixtures. Such restrictions tended to hamper the free movement of fertilizers, the Coast Guard said.

The isolation of waterfront facilities to the extent heretofore required no longer is considered necessary.

Coast Guard regulations regarding fertilizer shipment caused extensive debate in Morehead City in April 1952 when a shipment of ammonium nitrate fertilizer was reported available for this port but could not be brought in because the port was not in an isolated area.

Ammonium nitrate is an ingredient of many explosives. Fertilizer shippers say that ammonium nitrate mixed with certain minerals, in various proportions, is not explosive.

The new instructions apply specifically to materials which are described as "ammonium nitrate phosphate fertilizer mixtures consisting of 60 per cent by weight of ammonium nitrate and 40 per cent phosphate salts, mainly dicalcium phosphate."

Under the new instructions, such fertilizer mixtures may now be transported aboard vessels in accordance with the regulations, "Explosives or Other Dangerous Articles on Board Vessels." Heretofore these ammonium nitrate mixtures could be loaded or unloaded only at isolated waterfront facilities meeting the requirements of federal and local regulations covering dangerous cargoes.

Committee Investigated

The new instructions were issued by Rear Adm. W. C. Richmond, acting commandant of the Coast Guard, on the recommendation of the Interagency Committee on the Hazards of Ammonium Nitrate. This committee was formed by the Secretary of the Treasury in 1947 shortly after the shipboard explosion of ammonium nitrate fertilizer in the harbor at Texas City, Tex.

The committee is composed of interested government departments and agencies and representatives of industry. Working through the National Academy of Science Advisory Committee on the Hazards of Ammonium Nitrate Transportation, the Interagency Committee has provided for continuing studies to determine the behavior and properties of ammonium nitrate fertilizer mixtures.

Rules Listed

The new instructions, which will be published in detail in the Federal Register, stated:

"Contingent upon the observance of prescribed safety precautions by the master or officer in charge of the vessel handling this commodity, a permit may, with the concurrence of local port authorities, be issued for any waterfront facility which satisfactorily meets the requirements of location and conditions outlined herein:

"The formulation must be composed of ammonium nitrate and dicalcium phosphate, in the approximate proportions of 60 per cent by weight of ammonium nitrate and 40 per cent dicalcium phosphate, packaged in multiwall paper bags or metal drums.

"The facility to be used shall be so located as to permit unrestricted passage to open water. The vessel shall be moored bow to seaward, and shall be maintained in a mobile status either by presence of tugs or readiness of engines.

"The proposed facility shall not be located in areas of dense population, nor where facilities of high value and/or high hazard exist.

"The facility must meet with the requirements specified for a designated waterfront facility, and be provided with abundant water supply."

Sugar Unloading To Begin Today

Unloading of 750 tons of refined sugar from the SS Antwerpen will begin this morning at Morehead City port. The Antwerpen arrived here from Cuba Sunday afternoon.

J. D. Holt, port manager, said yesterday that Feb. 15 was the first date that sugar ships could have made port here. Prior to that time, freight rates for moving the sugar from the port were so formidable that even though ships could have been booked, the sugar could not have been moved.

Mr. Holt said that trucking firms eventually presented favorable rates which have been okayed by the utilities commission. Trucks will move the sugar shipment being unloaded this week. Mr. Holt said it looks now as though the railroads may bring rates in line to compete with the trucking firms.

The sugar importer is J. B. Kittrell, Greenville.

The State Ports Authority will convene Wednesday, March 3, at Winston-Salem. Mr. Holt will attend the meeting.
