NOTICE

NOTICE
ATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, UNTY OF CARTERET.
IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

Raleigh — The State Highway recently served notice on sign posters, and all other persons who own, put up or control roadside advertising signs on the highway right of way. In a resolution adopted at the Jan. 28 meeting of the commission, any adjacent land-owner who allows or permits an advertising sign to be erected on the highway right-of-way is now just as responsible as the firm or person who erects, the sign.

The commission stressed its plans to chase all signs, buildings, and other unauthorized intruders off its Education Board right of way. Under the new ruling the owner of a roadside business can be prosecuted when an advercan be prosecuted when an advertising sign is placed outside his place on highway property, even though he may claim he doesn't own the sign.

TO: WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

The parties above-named and all other persons interested will TAKE

Formerly, only the advertising firm or the sign board company which owned and erected the sign was guilty. The commission already has laws under which owners of offending signs, gas pumps and the like can be prosecuted for tres passing on its highway right of way.

Penalties May Go Up

Before the recent ruling making the land owner jointly responsible was made, the penalty was limited to $10. Now, that may run as high as the judge thinks wise. Ser arate penalties may be imposed for each day the sign is allowed to stand after it is ordered removed

Also, the Commission said many Tar Heel has found himself in a hopeless, situation because neglected to buy or build on the kind of road he Many people have bought low cost homes in poorly engineered housing developments. They are told that arrangements have been made for keeping up the streets Only later, do the new home-own-ers learn that the streets are no body's responsibility. When they come to the nearest highway of-fice with requests that their streets or roads be added to the highway system, all too often their requests have to be denied.

Why? Usually, because the streets are not built to State Highway Commission standards or be cause at least 60 feet has not been set aside for street right of way.
Often the commission can't take over the streets, even if they wished to, because the right of way may be half the width the commission requires.

Items Listed

Lest other Tar Heels stumble in to a similar predicament, the commission urged prospective home

1. Don't buy a lot or house off a paved city street or off a paved state road unless you know for sure that the road you get will be all you want. 2. Don't buy or build in a sub-been made for maintaining the roads and streets. 3. Don't assume when you build that the Highway Commission will take over the upkeep of the road past your new property. The com-mission has so many such requests that many must be declined or at least delayed. 4. If you locate on a dirt road maintained by the state, don't assume the Highway Commission will

For Allocation

Four members of the State Board of Education have been given the task of developing a formula for the distribution of $25,000,000 of the 50 million dollars provided from a bond issue authorized by the General Assembly of 1953 for the construction and improvement of school plant facilities.

The bond issue was voted favorably by the people of the state in an election Oct. 3, 1953.

Under the law $100,000 of the 50 million dollars voted shall be al-located to each of the 100 counties of the state-a total of 10 million dollars; and 15 million dollars shall be allocated on the basis of averdaily membership for the ol year 1951-52 when a valid need for such funds is shown.

The balance, or 25 million dollars shall be distributed to the units on the basis of standards determined by the State Board of Education and approved by the Governo

At the December meeting of the Board, Lt. Governor Hodges, chairman of the board, appointed members J. A. Pritchett, Santford Martin, A. S. Brower, and Superintendent Chas. F. Carroll as a formula committee to direct a study and develop a formula to be used in allocating this second half of the 50 million dollar fund.
