Beaufort Beta Club Installs New Chapter at Atlantic School

On the afternoon of March 3, 12 happy jittery Beaufort High Beta Club members, with their sponsor, strolled out to cars waiting to take them to Atlantic, where, as mother club, they were to have the first initiation ceremony for the new Atlantic Beta Club. The "jitters" were prevalent because no one was quite sure what the ceremony would be, since the plans of the Atlantic group were not known to the Beaufort Betas.

Gehrmann Holland, stoutly maintaining that his car just couldn't get up much speed, left 20 minutes earlier than the rest, even though it broke his heart that he couldn't hear the last word said in Latin class! Bruce Edwards went along to keep him company.

Mrs. Salter, sponsor, nabbed Inez Woodard and Grace Whitehurst, president and treasurer, so that they might discuss the program plans on the way down. Jimmy Wheatley crawled into the back seat, where he spent his time wrestling with his speech and the big cardboard Beta Club emblem, which looked as if it was just about to decapitate him.

Bringing up the rear was Henry Safrit's car, loaded with the remaining Betas—Frances Fulcher, Ada Lewis, Faye Mason, Phyllis Pake, Martha Gibbs and Geneva Hardesty. We say "remaining" Betas, but actually 15 were left behind to suffer out the long afternoon back in Beaufort High School.

When Mr. Tarkington said that officers and eight others might go, it was immediately decided that the eight should be the eight high stocking salesmen.

There was a mad scramble after the group reached Atlantic. Mrs. Chadwick, Atlantic sponsor, welcomed the group and asked just what would be needed for the program. The Beaufort members thought that perhaps they were invited only to do the actual tapping of new members, a minute's job. Luckily, they did have a program ready, just in case.

However, there were still things to do in the few minutes remaining before assembly time. It was decided to place the eight Atlantic members on the stage with the Beaufort officers. The old members were hastily instructed how to pin the new members and advised to look over their words to the Beta Club song, which, (to the mortification of those who knew the words and those who didn't), was not as familiar to all as it should have been. Candles were passed out to old members to use at the time of pinning.

To break the monotony of so many speeches, a tape recorder was brought along with songs recorded appropriate for use with the speeches on leadership, character, and achievement, Beta characteristics. Naturally when the recorder was turned on, the switch went "on the blink." Mrs. Salter hastily sat down at the piano.

Inez Woodard first discussed the origin of Beta. She then asked the Beaufort club to rise and sing the club song, Gehrmann Holland next discussed the qualifications for membership and the Beta Club educational fund, from which Betas may borrow money needed for college expenses. Jimmy Wheatley spoke on leadership; Grace Whitehurst on achievement; and Bruce Edwards on character.

The charter was then presented to the new president of the Atlantic group. She, in turn, pinned her sponsor, Mrs. Chadwick. The new members were asked to rise and repeat the pledge. The Beaufort treasurer issued the individual certificates of membership, and the old members pinned the new members, later marching out to the Beta Club song.

When it was discovered that the school photographer had forgotten to take his pictures, all were called back to the stage, where they said, "cheese" and flashed their most dazzling smiles. Martha Gibbs invited all the Beaufort folks to stop by her house for some refreshments when they got back to Beaufort.

Wonder of wonders, Gehrmann's car picked up power from somewhere because Mrs. Salter was quite surprised to find the Holland "bus" parked ahead of her in Williston, where the occupants were getting ready to enjoy some cokes.

Yes, we are really proud of our Beaufort Prayer Group! And why not? It isn't every day that such a group receives national recognition.

A most favorable write-up on the beginning of the Beaufort Prayer Group appeared in this month's edition of The National Christian Advocate. The prayer group extends a most cordial invitation to all students for morning worship every day except Wednesday, from 8:15 to 8:30 a.m.

On Thursday morning the prayer group made a recording of its devotional to be played at the Ann Street Methodist Sunday School on Sunday morning. This recording was made so that interested people could find out just how the daily meeting of the prayer group is carried on.

Many congratulations to the boy's basketball team for their victorious return from Kenansville as champion of District Two. After all the squabble over Beaufort's eligibility to play, this is indeed good news and certainly the Beaufort team has come home bringing much credit to the county.

To those who saw the tournament games there can be no doubt that Beaufort's county championship was deserved and not the result of too much "home court advantage" as was the sour grapes comment.

The assembly program Friday was sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Davis' homeroom section of the 10th grade. The speaker, Dr. Robert Lee Humber, is a native of Greenville, a graduate of Wake Forest College, of Harvard University, and is a Rhodes Scholar.

He is known throughout the state and nation for his efforts in behalf of World Peace through international law, and his successful work with the aid of other public-spirited citizens in bringing our $2,000,000 worth of great masterpieces of art to North Carolina.

Dr. Humber discussed the world's cultural heritage from its awakening in Jerusalem to the present day. In his talk he explained how almost every nation has contributed in some respect to this great heritage and he concluded by challenging the students to build from this foundation a great and more beneficial culture for the state, nation, and world.

This past Wednesday Mrs. Fodrie's class presented a chapel program which took the audience to the "High Spots of Carteret County." Vonda Goodwin conducted the tour. The first stop was the Blue Ribbon Club where Ella Blake as Joni James sang "Secret Love."

At the Heart of the Beach, Kate Willis as Johnny Ray, gave her rendition of "Cry." Then the audience heard four seniors of Beaufort High School, Billy Hudgins, Kay Willis, Wayne King and Barbara Harris, rehearsing for a dramatic play. It turned out to be a comedy instead of a drama.

Heard at Jeff's Barber Shop was the famous Barber Shop Quartet, composed of Betty Whitehurst, Ella Blake, Kay Pelletier, and Winkie Willis, singing "In the Evening by the Moonlight."

At the Steak House, Rae Frances

Hassel, as Marilyn Russell, sang "They Always, Always Pick on Me." She was liked so well that she was called back for an encore. Next at the Scout Hut, Judy Moore, Kenneth Wetherington, Sammy Merrill, Joe Chipman, Bruce Congleton, Shirley Pittman, Dawn and Barbara Taylor, and Danny and Winkie Willis, as the Cool Cats played "Rhythm Capers," and "Deep Purple." They pantomimed a very jazzy number, "Rancho Grande," and finished by playing the "Bunny Hop."

Again, at the Steak House, Dawn Taylor, as Patti Page, sang "I Really Don't Want to Know."

The tour was ended at the Blue Ribbon Club where the Rockettes, Kay Pelletier, Kate Willis, Janice Beeton, Shirley Pittman, Elin Blake, and Jean Chadwick sang and danced to "Oh, Baby Mine."

The Calvin Jones Hosts To Couples Bridge Club

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jones entertained their couples club at dinner and bridge Wednesday evening. Following dinner at Capt. Bill's restaurant, bridge was played with high score prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Saunders.

Mrs. Saunders received a bottle of perfume and Mr. Saunders received a bottle of shaving lotion.

Mr. Potter Dinner Host To Basketball Team

Mr. T. T. Potter entertained the Beaufort basketball team at a steak dinner at the Sanitary Restaurant Tuesday evening.

Other guests were Mrs. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McQuaid, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley H. Taylor Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Holland and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Potter.
