Chairman Says Results of Drive Are Satisfying

Mrs. J. C. Harvell, county chairman of the Easter Seal campaign, reports that the campaign in the county this year was better than ever before.

Although all reports have not yet been turned in, she says that the amount received will exceed that of past years.

Mrs. Harvell's statements echoed those of Albin Pikutis, executive director of the State Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

"Although we don't have specific figures as yet, we have many indications that the 100 county chapters have done a really fine job and we are confident that this will be one of the best years for the Easter Seal Society in North Carolina," Mr. Pikutis said.

He extended thanks to more than 500 volunteer committee officers and 3,000 helpers who conducted various phases of this year's drive. More people have actively participated this year, and more Easter Seals have been mailed than any time in the 20 years of Easter Seal campaigns in this state, he said.

A total of 455,000 Easter Seals were mailed to 323,000 families in the state, 210,000 coin cards were distributed through cooperating schools, and more than 100,000 Easter Lilies were used in 165 Lily parades.

The state goal this year was $150,000, and "It is hoped that final returns will put the society well ahead of this amount," he added. "Those who have not yet mailed their contribution are requested to do so as soon as possible, so that county treasurers can compile their final reports. A summer camping program will be scheduled if sufficient funds are raised."

Third Tobacco Cargo Will Leave Here Monday

Ship Gloria Will Dock Today to Take on 3,200 Hogsheads Bright Leaf

The third tobacco export cargo to leave the port of Morehead City will be loaded aboard the M/S Gloria due here today. The Gloria will sail Monday for Bremen, Germany.

The Gloria will come from Wilmington, Del. A full cargo, 3,200 hogsheads, will be put aboard by local longshoremen. The tobacco has been accumulating at port warehouses during the past several weeks.

Exporters are firms in eastern North and South Carolina. J. D. Holt, port manager, said that for the first time 25 carloads of tobacco have moved in from Mullins, S. C. This was due to a recent favorable adjustment in freight rates.

The Gloria is due here two more times this year. Mr. Holt commented that tobacco shipments would be moving out constantly if there were sufficient warehousing here so the tobacco could be stored until a full cargo was ready to move.

H. A. Byrne, vice-president of W. O. Smith and Co., New York freight forwarders will be here during the loading of the ship acting as liaison between the exporters and ship owners.

The Morehead City Shipping Co. is acting as agent and the Wilmington Shipping Co. is handling stevedoring.

The Gloria moved the second tobacco cargo from Morehead City in October. The first shipment, 2,619 hogsheads moved out in May 1953 on the Ludolf Oldendorff. Both shipments went to Germany.

County Judge Dismisses Case Against Guy O'Neal Willis

Moose Have Blood Typed

Judge Lambert Morris dismissed a charge of drunk driving against Guy O'Neal Willis Tuesday in County Recorder's Court.

Willis was charged with drunk driving by Highway Patrolman J. W. Sykes after a collision April 14 one-half mile from the entrance to the Harkers Island Road on highway 70.

According to the prosecuting witness, Alton Chadwick of Marshallburg, Willis crashed into a trailer being pulled by a farm tractor. Chadwick notified the highway patrol after the accident and Willis was arrested by Patrolman Sykes about an hour later at the home of Lloyd Davis at Smyrna.

Chadwick told the court that he was pulling the trailer at about 7 p.m. when Willis, going about "55 or 60 miles and hour" slammed into the rear of the trailer, smashing it to pieces and damaging the harrow on it.

Chadwick told the court that the trailer was illuminated by a white spotlight on the rear of the tractor. After the collision the wreckage blocked the road. Chadwick said,

The county's first juvenile court advisory committee has been appointed and the initial meeting took place Tuesday afternoon in the county welfare office, Beaufort. A. H. James, juvenile court judge, presided.

Serving on the advisory committee are Mrs. George H. McNeill and Mrs. W. P. Freeman, both of Morehead City; Mrs. James Rumley and Mrs. D. F. Merrill, both of Beaufort; Walter S. Morris, and Fred Lewis, both of Morehead City.

The appointments were made by Judge James on the basis of obtaining representatives of the different aspects of family life. Mr. Morris is a father. Mr. Lewis, who is also a father, represents the schools. He is teacher supervisor for the county.

The women, two each from Beaufort and Morehead City, are mothers.

Attending the meeting also were Miss Georgie P. Hughes, head of the welfare department, who is chief probation officer, and the following case worker assistants: Mrs. Glenn Adair, Miss Sarah Thomas and Miss Patricia Webb.

Representing the State Department of Public Welfare were Nelson Stevenson, consultant on community resources, and Mrs. Dorothea Tucker, field representative.

Judge James said the committee was organized in the hope that its members may be able to bring to the attention of the court cases of delinquency before they reach the stage of formal court action.

It is an effort to protect both wayward children and the public, the judge said, the children being saved from the paths of crime and the public being protected from thefts or other offenses committed by minors.

Judge James said it is also hoped that the committee members' contact with the public will enable them to inform people of the work of the juvenile court, with a view to some day obtaining a home for children who have no home or proper parental supervision.

The committee will sit with the court and offer advice as to disposition of cases.

The purpose and functions of the committee were explained to its members at Tuesday's meeting.

Commentator Films Marine Maneuvers for TV Show

Edward R. Murrow's advance CBS filming crew, headed by Joe Wirshba, field director of the television show, See It Now, have completed advance filming of Marines in action at Brown's Island, off the North Carolina coast.

The shots will be used on the Murrow TV show describing maneuvers which have been underway off this coast for the past several weeks.

Panther jets of Lt. Col. R. L. Bryson's VMF-334 strafed Brown's Island with 20mm cannon and 5-inch high velocity aircraft rockets. The scenes depict Marine aviation's participation in the gigantic amphibious operation.

Advance work on the show started April 11 and is scheduled to cover points on the Atlantic coast from Bloodworth Island in Chesapeake Bay to Wilmington, N. C.

Instead of setting up on the assault beaches and filming the maneuver on the spot and as it occurs, the CBS men have filmed as many phases, such as aviation's part in the operation, in advance as possible. For example, the work

Cecil Guthrie Freed on Bond

Plaintiffs Decline to Push Prosecution of Alleged Bigamist

Cecil Guthrie, Morehead City, who was found guilty in Morehead City Recorder's Court on charges of peeping, was released from the county jail Wednesday under $1,500 bond.

Guthrie, after being sentenced by Judge George McNeill, appealed. He was held in jail in Beaufort until bond was posted.

Sheriff Hugh Salter reported yesterday that Wilfred N. Penny, USMC, Camp Lejeune, who was being held on a bigamy charge, has also been released.

The sheriff said that the prosecutors informed him they did not wish to press charges. With the consent of the solicitor for this district, Penny was set free.

His case would have come up in the next term of Superior Court here.

Warren Smith, charged with theft of a piggy bank in this county, was tried in New Bern Recorder's Court this week and given 60 days for passing a bad check. The judge ordered that Smith's previous suspended sentence, six months for theft of an outboard motor, be invoked. The two and six month term are to run concurrently.

Smith is docketed for trial in this county during the next term of Superior Court. He allegedly stole a piggy bank from a home in the Mill Creek section several months ago.

of underwater demolition teams (Frogmen) in the maneuver was enacted, for the benefit of the cameras, at Little Creek, Va., and the CBS team filmed the Frogmen's activities there.

Again, some of the Navy shore bombardment scenes were shot at Bloodworth Island where a destroyer and an LSMR (a rocket launching craft) were utilized to portray 5-inch and rocket bombardment of the aggressor's beach defenses.

The USS Burleson was employed, also at Little Creek, to provide scenes of a Marine assault platoon being briefed and then transferring, via cargo net, to an LCVP; and a scene involving the beaching of an LST also was shot at Little Creek.

On-the-spot filming of the climax of the maneuver (the assault on Onslow Beach) is scheduled for D-Day. Mr. Murrow has made arrangements for interviews between himself and Maj. Gen. G. F. Good on the beach when the General transfers his command post from the Mt. Olympus to the beach. The famous commentator also will interview Rear Adm. H. P. Smith, Commander of Amphibious Group II, on the Mt. Olympus.
