Jane Pickens Finds New Career in Television

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York — In the ups and downs of show business, Jane Pickens once again is on the up-grade of a career which goes back to those radio days when Bing Crosby had hair and "The Street Singer" was melting hearts from coast to coast.

Now enjoying her own TV show over ABC and radio show over NBC, Miss Pickens also looks younger than anyone has a right to look after 22 years of professional singing. She attributes her continuing youth to the fact that she has "thoroughly enjoyed every minute" of her career.

This is not precisely true because six or seven years ago Miss Pickens found herself at a low point where "everyone thought I was an old story and the only dates I could get was singing at hotel supper clubs around the country."

"Everybody thought that as a performer I was too cold, too austere, too much of a lady," she recalls. "I always knew this wasn't true of me as an individual — it was just that something wasn't coming through."

"But then Moe Gale came along as my manager, and I thank God he did. Moe gave me new confidence. He took all the business worries off my shoulders. He even took charge of some of my personal problems. The result was that people started telling me I had become a warm, relaxed performer, and here I am."

Clay Center, Neb. (AP)—They've got trustworthy folks in these parts. Volunteer melon vines which came up near the front courthouse sidewalk this summer produced 18 melons.
